Mothers' Destiny
Time Writes on Faces
Beer Dearer, Judas Sad
Beware of Diet Fads

—By Arthur Brisbane—

YESTERDAY WAS MOTHERS DAY. Florists sold more flowers.

Mothers, probably got a few more perfunctory kisses than usual. But Mother's Day does not change the destiny of mothers.

They are here to create the children, care for them while they are helpless, watch their success, at a distance, when they succeed, and take them in, as failures, when they fail.

However, a human mother's fate might be worse. A wolf, two years old, will help eat its mother if she is badly wounded. And the young of the scorpion cling to their mother's back, as she walks with them in the sunlight, gradually devouring her body until nothing is left but the empty shell. That at least is the reputation they bear.

What time does to our faces you may learn from two photographs of Masefield, new poet laureate of England. The first shows Masefield when he tramped the roads, worked in a New York barroom and wrote, in verse, of his devotion to the working man and tramp.

Then his hair was thick, his eyes flashed, his face was thin.

Now his hair is thin, his face fatter, eyes calmer. The changed face reflects a changed mind. The Masefield appointed poet laureate by the former workingman, MacDonald, in the name of King George, is not the Masefield that was barroom worker and friend of the working man. We go with time and time transforms us.

Dr. Leopold Stieglitz, brilliant physician, one of the shrewdest diagnosticians in America said, speaking to this writer as a patient, not as a newspaper man:

"Beware of one-sided diets."

He included vegetarianism in his warning. One patient came to him in a bad condition, his blood 60 per cent below par, apparently headed for pernicious anemia. He had been living without meat, attempting to reduce weight.

Dr. Stieglitz prescribed for him three heavy blood transfusions which he was able to stand. They greatly improved his blood count. Then said Dr. Stieglitz:

"You cannot live on other people's blood. I want you to eat a big porterhouse steak every day, and build up your own blood."

The patient obeyed, his blood count went to normal, and instead of going to the grave, for which he was headed, he is back attending to business.

This is printed as a warning against food fads, and to encourage farmers that raise steers and sheep, and Mr. White of the Armour Co., and Mr. Swift of his company and others that sell the meat.

We have in our mouths the teeth of wolves and of sheep, also part of the character of each. And we need the food of wolves and of sheep, meat, vegetables, fruit, plenty of it, and sour milk, especially in old age, to attack the intestinal bacteria.

A man's work is to cultivate the earth, and wise Providence has made him need all the earth's products.

It is unpleasant to disturb the kindhearted vegetarian theory. But every competent doctor knows that the genuine vegetarian is usually more or less anaemic.

Judge Parker, having failed of confirmation by the Senate, the President selects O. J. Roberts for the Supreme Court. Mr. Roberts' energy in prosecuting oil frauds for the government, certainly has made him acceptable to any rebellious radical and his nomination probably will be confirmed.

At the same time, Judge Roberts once ventured to criticize the prohibition law, and even the Constitutional amendment. Senator Sheppard takes that very seriously and Judge Roberts' opinions, public and private, on prohibition are to be investigated minutely.

When will Supreme Court nominees be investigated for their religious beliefs? Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, professed no religion, imported his wines from France and recommended an English brewer to the legislature of Virginia. He could not be confirmed if nominated to the Supreme Court today.

GRAND JURY GETS GARRETT EVIDENCE

Hultman Sees Mayor About New Stations; McDevitt Warns Detectives

The Suffolk County grand jury took the alleged fraudulent pensioning of Oliver B. Garrett under consideration at noon today.

The case moved swiftly to its conclusion with only five new witnesses being heard and Dist. Atty. William J. Foley told a tardy witness:

"We do not need you now."

As a result of the grand jury deliberations here, expected to be made known in a short time:

Meanwhile Commissioner Hultman conferred with Mayor Curley regarding the public manning of Division 1 with Division 2 and Division 3 with Division 6. There was a report that such mergers would be made and that a deputy superintendent might be placed in charge of the in-town stations.

McDEVITT IN THREAT.

Earlier in the day Deputy Superintendent James A. McDevitt assumed command of the bureau of criminal investigation and the flying squadron with a warning that all "skylarking" must end and the service must be brought back to its former high standard.

Witnesses before the grand jury concerning the pension phase of the Garret case were City Treasurer Edmund E. Dolan, who has made the pension payments since last October; Dr. G. V. Buehler, of Boylston st., who examined Garrett following his accident of August, 1927; Asst. Atty.-Gen. Lewis H. Sawyer, who handled police records during the Garrett inquiry; Dr. Mark M. Burke, the dentist who treated Garrett after his accident, and Dr. Frederick J. Bailey of the Board of Health, who drew up his pension examination report.

Other witnesses who had been called but whose presence in the grand jury room Dist.-Atty. Foley did not require, were Dr. Herbert Eudelson, Dr. John A. Foley, Dr. Arthur W. Fairbanks, Dr. R. A. Cheshare, Dr. John Sears McCormack, John L. Carlin and John L. Carlin, Jr.

PLAN NEW STATIONS

Five witnesses had been heard Friday. District Attorney Foley remained in the hearing room about 10 minutes after the last witness had left.

Garrett himself, reported to be "missing" from the city, appeared in the courthouse corridors while the grand jury was hearing testimony. He would make no statement.

Commissioner Hultman was driven from police headquarters to City Hall, receiving the usual salutes of the traffic officers and some attention from pedestrians en route. He went immediately into conference.

On his tours of divisions he has been impressed with the shabby quarters at some stations. After their meeting, Mayor Curley announced that he had talked with

HE VIOLATED LAW, SAYS FIN. COM. CHARGE

John P. Englert, city superintendent of public buildings, will be removed by Mayor James M. Curley as a result of charges by the Finance Commission, it was understood today.

The report of Chairman Frank A. Goodwin of the Finance Commission to the mayor was made public, in which he charged that Englert had violated the law in connection with the expenditure of a "vast sum of money."

Goodwin charged specifically that Englert violated the law in regard to letting contracts without advertising, in failing to file contracts with the city clerk within a week, and filing copies of contracts with the city auditor.

"In addition," the communication to the mayor concluded, "our investigation shows that no proper checkup of the work done is made by the custodians of the various buildings and no permanent records are kept by the inspectors of the work inspected by them. No proper records are kept at the various buildings, whereby the revenue accruing from the use of said buildings may be checked with the records at the main office.

"Altogether the department is so badly managed that immediate reorganization seems necessary."

The report pointed out that in the upkeep of city buildings the public buildings department had spent since 1927 $2,389,476.58 on public buildings.

Church Women to Have Equal Rights

Philadelphia, May 12 (AP)—Women, in their age-long fight for equal rights, have won another victory. They will have an equal voice with men in the government of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

Announcement was made at the offices of the Presbyterian General Assembly today that the overture permitting women to be elected ruling elders has been approved by a majority of the 293 Presbyteries in the denomination.

House O. K.'s Allen Indigent Bill Veto

The House today upheld the veto of Governor Allen on the bill raising maximum State reimbursement to cities and towns for care of indigent sick persons without a five years' residence, from $10.50 to $16 a week. The rollcall vote was 118 for overriding and 99 to sustain, a two-thirds vote being necessary to override the veto.

HULTMAN IN CONFERENCE WITH MAYOR; M'DEVITT WARNS SLEUTHS

the new commissioner regarding the station houses and a plan for consolidating stations 1 with 3 and 4 with 5.

Better quarters for police and better arrangements for what the mayor termed "the citizen guests" were discussed.

PATTERSON ON JOB

Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman was present at the meeting, giving rise to a report that the chief subject of discussion was the pension inadvertently awarded last week to Capt. George W. Patterson. The mayor said that subject was not discussed. So did the commissioner.

Upon his return to headquarters after the conference with the mayor, Commissioner Hultman announced that Capt. Patterson would be retired on pension on a general order at roll call tonight.

"He is legally entitled to it and it is substantially mandatory in that no charges were pending against him," he said.

Questioned regarding the future work of the bureau of criminal investigation, he said:

"So far as I know, the bureau now measures up to the standard but I want it the best in the world. I put Deputy Supt. McDevitt in there to find out how to make it up-to-date. It seems that with modern improvements we should be able to furnish the finest detectives in the country.

"McDevitt will handle the narcotic units. The way he wants it done, it will be done. I didn't think it was proper to have the narcotic squad responsible to nobody.

DRUGS CAUSE CRIME

"I don't know whether the drug squad will be separated from the bureau or attached to it. There appears to be a definite relation, however, between the use of drugs and crimes. Dr. Mahoney, health commissioner, has said that drug has more to do with crime than liquor. I don't know if it has or not; I need a lot of education.

"I have a lot of confidence in Dr. Mahoney and I intend to confer with him on the drug situation."

Asked whether detectives would in the future mingle with the underworld, he replied:

"I mingled with it the other night."

He said that in the past even the superintendent had been barred from some of the commissioner's conferences, but that Supt. Crowley would be present at all in the future.

"There will be one official conference every day at noon with the superintendent and others. I will see the press twice a day, at 10:30 a. m. and 4 p. m. I will give no interview at home," he said.

He asked that the press make no conjectures regarding his future actions, and added:

"If I find that the press finds leaks it is going to be very unsatisfactory at headquarters."

Regarding possible division consolidations, he said:

MAY MERGE STATIONS

"My predecessor wasfor consolidation of Stations 1 and 3. It is a plan that interests me. I did the same thing in the fire department. Before making changes I must consider hasty transportation. The mayor spoke of rearranging certain divisions and I told him I would talk with Supt. Crowley about it first.

"I changed division lines in the fire department. I found in some places no changes in 100 years, but the changes cannot be arbitrary nor according to geography."

He said he had received numerous anonymous letters since taking office, but had not yet read them.

"I want an accurate, modern and swift signal system. I don't know about radio. Police installed sets in automobiles in Chicago and so di dthe crooks. I may talk with the Edison Co. regarding the Lynn signal system."

He indicated that there would be a speeding up of reports.

McDevitt's ukase, delivered to about eighty detectives and patrolmen at police headquarters this morning, was the forerunner of a drive to rid Boston of crime and organized vice and liquor traffic.

Deputy McDevitt, in the post created for him in Saturday's shakeup, will share with the division commanders full responsibility for the success of the campaign now that the vice squad has been abolished.

WILL PRESS COMPLAINTS

"I want honest co-operation from the men of this department," McDevitt warned. "The night squad (flying squadron units) must keep on the streets. Do no 'skylarking.'

"If you get into trouble, I'm going to deal with you. I'm going through with any complaints and charges.

"You are on your own and you yourself will be to blame for anything that happens."

He recalled to the inspectors that they formed the backbone of the department.

"I intend to bring each and every good quality in this department out," said the deputy superintendent. "There is no question but that the service of the detective bureau is run down, but I intend to bring it back to its former high standard."

He ordered the flying squadron to report at 5 p. m., the hour it usually went on duty when it was an individual unit.

Striking at the root of graft and corruption as exposed in the Garrett investigation, Commissioner Hultman had before him today a census of liquor "joints" and houses of ill-repute furnished by station captains on his order sent out Friday.

A series of raids will follow immediately, with all action under division direction.

Station is going to be dried up or cleaned up under Commissioner Hultman or those divisions in which bad spots continue are going to have new commanders.

NEW SHAKEUP LOOMS.

Prospects of Boston becoming one of the driest cities in the East were indicated in the fact that virtually all the big speakeasies in the downtown section were closed over the week-end, the proprietors preferring to pass up large gobs of money rather than run the risk of raids.

Interest in the police situation today was divided between the impending "mop" campaign, and a further shakeup in the personnel of the department forecast for this week. The shakeup, it was intimated, is likely to include promotions of two or three men and the transfer out of headquarters of two high officials.

the Roman Catholic Church is illustrated in the present Eucharistic Congress at Carthage, site of the ancient city.

A preceding congress was held in Chicago, great modern city.

Ancient Carthage, great Semitic power across the Mediterranean, menacing Rome's existence, telling the Romans where they might and might not trade, was obliterated, burned, its site plowed and covered with salt, that grass might not grow again, by pagan Rome.

Now Christian Rome sends many bishops and cardinals to the spot where the ancient city stood.

"Man cannot foretell his destiny." Cities cannot foretell theirs.

New York may some day be a mass of interlinked fallen steel towers, a flying human race having moved away to the mountains and hilltops, no longer needing low, flat islands or waterfront facilities.

Today comes the first Passion Play performance at Oberammergau. Great crowds are gathering, and the price of beer has risen.

Actors are not paid, depending on a share of the profits, and using their homes as boarding places. A pathetic figure in Guido Mayr, playing the part of Judas. Nobody will board at his pension. Sad for him, but interesting as demonstrating the religious sincerity that draws the crowd.

One industry, cigarettes, during 1930 will show greater profits than in any year in history, sales increasing, profit 40 cents a thousand greater than last year.

Cigarettes are smoked by 24,000,000 people in this country. Once the cigarette was considered effeminate. Now it is essential in the equipment of a movie or theater hero.

Publishers will note that cigarette prosperity in based on aggressive advertising, with the popular brands, in alphabetical order, Camels, Chesterfields, Luckies and Old Gold, spending each many millions a year.

OUTLINE HUB'S TERCENTENARY CELEBRATION

Appeal Made to Citizens and Business Men for $250,000 More

In the setting of Old South Church, an outline of Boston's tercentenary celebration was given today and an appeal was made to citizens and business men for an additional $250,000.

At the behest of ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, all committees and persons interested in the celebration, attended the gathering and heard the plans.

Six huge parades, one of which will see $200,000 worth of floats, were outlined by Maj.-Gen. Edward L. Logan, chairman of the parade committee.

The first will be held June 17 at Charlestown with sailors from English and French battleships in line as well as Canadian soldiers.

One of the Saturday afternoons during July will be given over to a Boston review of the new 26th Division, M. N. G., he said, the division coming down from Camp Devens for the occasion.

BIG INDUSTRIAL PARADE

July 26 has been set aside for the big industrial and business parade when the employes of industries, banks and other business houses will parade in colorful array. This parade, he explained, will be financed largely by the firms that take part.

The crowning event of the parade program is scheduled for August 16. General Logan said, when the historical pageant will be staged together with a parade that will see 200 horse-drawn floats that will cost $1000 each.

Many of them will be paid for by representative business men of the city and their building will take place at Commonwealth Pier. According to present plans, floats depicting the burning of witches, the evacuation of South Boston and the start of the first newspaper are included.

September 17 the floats will again appear in the parade to celebrate Boston Day and they plan on using them a third time in the monster Legion parade during the national convention in October.

APPEALS FOR FUNDS.

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, in his plea for more funds, appealed especially to the business men of the city. He announced that a special appeal would be made to them within a few days.

"We must have the backing of the business and financial institutions of the city," he said, "and we will give Boston a celebration that she might well be proud of."

Mrs. Curtis Guild, speaking from the audience, pledged her full support to the appeal for funds and said she would assist in every other way possible.

Another speaker was Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, former leader of the Yankee Division in France. He urged all to get behind the celebration projects and pledge cooperation.

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald announced that plans are in the making for an international radio hookup from Plymouth Rock on July 4.

COUNCIL ASKS CENSUS AGAIN IN WARD 13

Drop of 800 in Dorchester District Incredible to Councillor McGrath

The City Council voted today to ask Leonard Frink, supervisor of census for the district, to retabulate Ward 13, Dorchester, where census returns show an apparent drop of 800 persons.

Councillor Joseph L. McGrath introduced the order and called attention to the fact that the district is now served by the rapid transit, has a new boulevard and has had 70 new houses or 235 new apartments since the State census of 1925.

In five years, he said, there have been 2727 births as against 1842 deaths and in one school of the district there has been an increase from 1629 pupils in 1925 to 1890 at present.

The State census showed a population of 29,268 in 1925, an increase of 2781 over the 1920 figures.

Lynn Mayor Claims Census Figures Are Mistaken

Federal census figures announced today gave Lynn 102,293, a population total that aroused the ire of Mayor John F. Manning.

"There must be some mistake," he declared.

The 1930 figures indicate a gain of 3,145, or 3.1 per cent in the last 10 years, but five years ago the State census enumerators gave Lynn 105,000.

"Five years ago the State census showed us to be a city of more than 105,000," said Mayor Manning. "I doubt if we have shrunk in the past five years."

The mayor declared he was in favor of issuing some kind of questionnaire coupon for circulation to arrive at what he believes would be a larger total than that reported by the federal officials.

HUB PILGRIMS LEAVE AFRICA

Carthage, Tunisia, May 12 (AP)—The nearly 20,000 clerics and laymen who attended the 30th Eucharistic Congress, departed today, tired but happy.

Two hundred and sixty Americans left aboard the steamer Araguaya Sunday night for Naples, where they will scatter on various tours.

The steamer Rochambeau leaves today for Rome with the Boston delegates and other nationals on board. Some are going to the Vatican, where each one has granted an audience, and others to the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

The closing ceremonies of the Congress were impressive. More than 100,000 persons swarmed the ruins of St. Cyprien Church for the Pontifical mass Sunday. Cardinal Lepicier, in a brief allocution, said the congress had been a success. He thanked Resident General Manceron for his hospitality. The congress opened last Wednesday.

Edward L. Dolan, city treasurer, who pays Garrett his police pension, was also among the final witnesses just before the inquisitors began deliberations.

Gives Away $50,000 on 'Gentleman's Agreement'

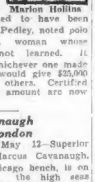
San Francisco, May 12—Following out the terms of a "sportman's agreement" made two years ago, Marion Hollins, former national golf champion who recently made a fortune in the Kettleman Hills oil field, will give $50,000 to two friends whose name is said to have been made $2,500,000 through the sale of her stock in the oil venture.

Marion Hollins

The agreement is supposed to have been made with Eric Pedley, noted polo player, and a woman whose identity was not learned. It specified that whichever one made a million first would give $25,000 to each of the others. Certified checks for that amount are now in the mails.

Justice Cavanaugh Leaves for London

New York, May 12—Superior Court Judge Marcus Cavanaugh, dean of the Chicago bench, is on the high seas today aboard the Atlantic transport liner Mount Vernon, bound for London, where he will testify before the British House of Commons on capital punishment.



Judge Cavanaugh

The venerable justice, prior to his departure, would not say whether he believed retention of capital punishment or betterment of its abolition. He refused to speak on the question that it would be unfair to enter England with a set conviction on the subject.

He makes this trip at the especial instance of prominent members of Parliament, which, for the past year, has been considering a bill for the abolition of capital punishment.

Mrs. Bird Directs Chinese Child Welfare

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, social leader and known the country over as a philanthropist and welfare worker, has just added another title to the long list of offices she holds in various charitable organizations in the state.

Mrs. C. S. Bird

This time Mrs. Bird has been selected as chairman of the Massachusetts Committee on China Child Welfare, an organization which devotes itself to the care and feeding of needy Oriental children.

Mrs. Bird succeeds former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, who has held the post for several years and done yeoman service in the cause of Chinese relief.

LIPTON, 80, HAS EYES ON CUP

London, May 12—Sir Thomas Lipton, replying to a message from the Associated Press congratulating him on his 80th birthday, today said he was looking forward with pleasure to trying to "capture that most elusive cup."

The famous yachtsman, whose Shamrock V. was launched at Gosport recently, telegraphed the Associated Press London Bureau:

"Warmest thanks for your kind message, which I much appreciate. I am looking forward with the greatest pleasure to another visit to America and to renewing my efforts to capture that most elusive cup.

"New conditions encourage me to hope that this time I may be successful in bringing back to the Old Country that famous old mug."

FRENCH FLIER IN HOP OVER SO. ATLANTIC

Mermoz Starts Long Trip by Air From East Africa Coast to Brazil

Paris, May 12 (INS)—Jean Mermoz, French flier, took off from St. Louis Senegal today in an effort to fly across the South Atlantic to Natal, Brazil.

A dispatch from the Senegal post said Mermoz started at 5 a. m. eastern daylight time.

Mermoz is in a new type of a hydroplane. He is carrying mail and hopes to cut down by days the usual time required for shipment of the post from the African to South American shores.

Four speedy sea-going tugs are stationed along the transatlantic route to aid Mermoz should he be forced down.

The flight is being made to determine the practicability of regular airplane mail and cargo service across the South Atlantic.

Mermoz was accompanied by a mechanic, a radio operator and an official of the South American postal service.

Hungarians Plan for Ocean Hop in June

Detroit, May 12 (INS)—George Endress and Alexander Magyar, Hungarian pilots, who propose this June to span the distance between Detroit and Budapest in a non-stop flight, are in Detroit today making final preparations for their hop.

According to the program, Magyar said, they will take off from Grosse Ile airport about June 15.

British Girl Hops Desert Off for Calcutta

Allahabad, India, May 12 (AP)—Amy Johnson, British girl who is flying from Croydon to Australia, arrived here this morning after covering safely a 960-mile route from Karachi over the Indian desert, and took off again shortly after noon and arrived at Calcutta tonight.

Broker Flier Killed in Crash While Landing

Red Bank, N. J., May 12 (AP)—Wallace R. Chapin, New York stock broker, died of injuries suffered in an airplane crash at Alexander Field.

Chapin, an amateur pilot, misjudged his altitude when he tried to land. He was a member of the firm of S. B. Chapin & Co., New York.

Hunt Flier Who Almost Killed Woman

Rochester, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Identity of an aviator who terrified the Sea Breeze section by low flying stunts yesterday and caused serious injury to an aged woman was being sought today in a check of airports.

The injured woman is Mrs. Katherine Scolb, 77, walking with her grandchild in her arms. She was terrified when the reckless flier swept within 150 feet of the ground. She fell over backward, striking her head on a stone. Her condition is critical.

Mexico Decrees Mourning Day for Two Fliers

Mexico City, May 12 (AP)—By government order, today was a national day of mourning in Mexico for Col. Pablo Sidar and Capt. Carlos Rovirosa, Mexican army airplane pilots who were killed yesterday in a crash off the coast of Costa Rica.

There will be another day of mourning when their bodies are brought home. The bodies were recovered from the sea today.

Plans are being made for state funerals which will rival that of Capt. Emilio Carranza, killed in an attempted flight from New York to Mexico City.

Mears Leaves Indiana for Roosevelt Field

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12 (INS)—After taking on 83 gallons of gasoline here, John Henry Mears, globe girdling aviator, hopped off for Roosevelt Field, N. Y., in his wine and yellow Lockhead-Vega monoplane.

Mears and his party were here about an hour and a half after leaving St. Louis, Mo.

Paris, May 12 (AP)—Jules Pams, for many years a deputy and senator, and minister in four cabinets, died today, aged 78. Deputy Pams was a candidate for the presidency in 1913, opposing Raimond Poincare.

FOES OF VOLSTEAD LAW AND LEAGUE COURT SPLIT REPUBLICANS

CARRY FIGHT INTO STATE CONVENTION

Leaders Prepare for Battle to the Finish in State of Washington

Seattle, May 12 (U3)—One of the most spectacular battles in Washington's political history was foreshadowed today as proponents and opponents of prohibition began to count noses for a finish fight at the Republican State convention at Bellingham on May 24.

King County's action Saturday in demanding modification of the Volstead Act insured open discussion of the liquor problem at a prohibition state convention for the first time since Washington voted for its first dry law in 1914.

The result of diametrically opposed action in county conventions, there must be give-take on a number of issues to get a majority of the 920 Bellingham delegates for any program.

HOW COUNTIES STAND

On the three main issues, here is the stand of the three large counties:

King County with 243 votes is against prohibition and the League Court.

Spokane county, with 92 votes in its county, voted for prohibition but has left its delegates to the state convention uninstructed and not bound by unit rule. Delegates probably stand about two to one "dry." The county, bound by unit rule, took no position on the League Court.

Pierce county, with 91 votes, took no action on prohibition. The delegation is divided but probably will show an anti-prohibition majority. No action has been taken on the League Court.

Opposition to the League Court from Pierce, Gray's Harbor and other sections of the Southwest tends to link both ends of Western Washington.

"We are going to carry our prohibition and League Court planks to the state convention and fight to the end for both, win or lose," County Chairman Ralph A. Horr declared today.

"I expect victory, but whether we win or not we have won the respect of thinking people for pointing out conditions as they exist and speaking our mind."

Highlights on prohibition and the League Court from the keynote speech of County Chairman Horr, when he raised the banner of revolt were:

LEAGUE COURT:—

In times of strife, all treaties become scraps of paper.

No other nation is the object of so much jealousy and ill will as the United States. In every verdict matters what would our one vote avail against a United Europe?

Good business dictates that it is never advantageous to be a minority stockholder in a corporation controlled by an unfriendly majority.

A few months in the trenches of Flanders would convince those who would subject us to the possibility of a court's decision in a foreign land.

Those of us who have sensed the hostility of Europe and Asia believe it is for the best interest of our people not to participate in any League of Nations or World Court.

This convention should so inform our President and our representatives in Congress, in no uncertain language.

PROHIBITION:

The very judge who sentences and the jury that convicts the bootlegger are his willing customers.

Go to your legislature and Congress. Count the bell boys with trays, ordered by the bibulist to quench the thirst of legislators who, on the morrow, will cast their votes at the behest of the Anti-Saloon League.

In the old days a senator protected the brewery interests: in this day a United States senator stifles a report on the activities of the prohibition department.

Prohibition makes cowards of us all. I, like hundreds of you, have been living a lie.

What the people want is a legislative body with the yoke of the Anti-Saloon League removed, the whip of Mr. Hicks placed in the socket.

Take the profit out of the sale of liquor, let the government regulate and control the sale at cost, and you will have no bootlegger and no rum runner.

League Repudiation Causes Capital Stir

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
Universal Service

Washington, May 12—Overwhelming repudiation of the League Court by King County, Washington, Republicans, in convention assembled, is making a tremendous impression upon official Washington today.

Anti-prohibitionists and foes of the League of Nation's Court, were highly elated by the news from the far northwest.

As Washington had been generally accepted as dry, the blow dealt Volsteadism was believed to be only one of many to follow in other supposedly prohibition states.

Senators Borah of Idaho, and Johnson of California, plainly were jubilant over the action of the Washington Republicans on the Court issue, though they declined to discuss the matter for publication at this time.

Senator Dill, (D) of Washington, declared himself pleased by the action of the Republicans in his state, as he has been consistently against entrance of the United States into the League or any of its creatures, such as its Court.

Senator David I. Walsh, (D) of Massachusetts, described the action of the Washington Republicans on prohibition as being "very significant."

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, said: "The action of the Republicans in Washington did not surprise me. I believe that after a battle on the League Court in which it is thoroughly discussed and all sides have their say, the result would be the same in every State as it was among the Republicans of Washington State."

Ziegfeld Beauty Bride

HUB SHOW GIRL BRIDE OF FOY

The girl with the most beautiful legs in the world (so says Flo Ziegfeld) got married today.

Without benefit of press agent, Barbara Newberry, formerly of Boston, Vassar and Broadway showgirldom, was quietly married in the Municipal Building, New York city, to Eddie Foy, Jr., of the well-known theatrical Foy family, now playing with Fred Stone at the Colonial theater in "Ripples."

The bride is 21 and the bridegroom 25.

TWO FINED $50 IN FIRE PERIL CAMPAIGN

Fitchburg Man One of First Penalized for Violating Emergency Rule

Nashua, N. H., May 12 (AP)—The first convictions in this state for violation of ban closing the woods during the fire hazard were obtained here today. Albert Richard of Fitchburg, Mass., and Reginald Bouley of Hudson, N. H., were fined $50 each.

Forest Fire Menace Still Exists in Maine

Portland, Me., May 12 (AP)—With the danger from forest fires still present and no relief by rain predicted until Wednesday, the inland waters of Maine today were closed to all fishing.

Orders for the closing of the fishing season were contained in a proclamation issued Saturday by Governor William Tudor Gardiner and which became effective last midnight.

An overnight shift in the wind brought at least temporary rest for fire fighters in the Cusnick Lake region of Washington county, where the blaze yesterday reached within three miles of the village of Baring.

But one fire was reported out of control. That was between Millinocket and East Millinocket and had been burning since last Friday. Workers were apparently making some headway against it.

Fishermen Are Eager for Opening of Woods

Like the trout, the State Department of Conservation is waiting for the first rainy day to bite.

William A. L. Bazeley, the conservation commissioner, today declared that the foliage has so far advanced that all that is lacking is a good wetting down of the woods to remove the forest fire hazard.

No fires of any consequence happened over the week end. The first rainy day, he stated, will be the signal for a recommendation to the governor and council for the reopening of the woods and the fishing season.

Nashua Fire Fund Reaches $81,438 Mark

Nashua, N. H., May 12 (AP)—The Nashua fire relief fund had totaled $81,438 today. The fund will be devoted to relieve suffering caused by the fire which devastated a large section of the city a week ago.

Snakes Menace Men Fighting Woods Fire

Concord, N. H., May 12 (AP)—Fire today swept over Wantastiquet and Mine Mountains in Winchester and Hinsdale, laying waste about 1000 acres of second growth timber. A force of more than 125 men under the direction of Clarence Fay and Louis Herrick, fire wardens, was attempting to halt the march of the flames by backfiring.

At Locke's corners, five miles from Rochester, another fire had destroyed a lumber mill, a barn and 300 acres of timber.

GEN. AMES ILL, UNDER KNIFE

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Adelbert Ames, 93, oldest ranking general of the Civil War, was in the Phillips House of the Massachusetts General Hospital today for a serious operation.

Gen. Ames was reconstruction governor of Mississippi immediately after the Civil War. He married a daughter of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, and is now a resident of Tewksbury.

Gen. Ames is a close friend of John D. Rockefeller and they have had many battles on the golf links.

A daughter, Mrs. C. Brooks Stevens, said her father was operated upon "a few days ago," and that he was "doing nicely."

Gen. Ames is the oldest living graduate of West Point Military Academy. He was wounded in battle in the Civil War and at the opening of the Spanish War he tendered his services to President McKinley.

He was born in Rockford, Me., October 31, 1835, 26 years before the start of the war in which he was destined to lead Union soldiers in many famous engagements, not only at Bull Run, but also at Antietam, Fredricksburg (as side to Gens. Hooker and Meade), in the Chancellorsville campaign, and at Gettysburg.

Kills Her Two Tots on Mother's Day

Baltimore, May 12 (INS)—Mrs. Marie Pfeiffer, 35, took her two children, Eugene, 5, and June, 4, upstairs to tuck them in bed last night. After clothing them in their "nighties" she fired a shot into the side of each, police charged, killing them instantly. Later Eugene L. Pfeiffer, 33, met his wife at the top of the stairs, he said, and she fired a shot at him without saying a word.

ISLAND JAIL, HOSPITAL ARE FIRE TRAPS

1185 Patients in Peril; Prisoners Smoke, Recent Blaze Showed Peril There

Deer Island and the Long Island Hospital, city institutions in Boston harbor, are woefully lacking in fire protection, it was charged today.

There is a constant menace at the Deer Island House of Correction according to the assertion.

These conditions are revealed in the investigations of prisons being made by the Boston Evening American.

At Long Island Hospital the lives of 1185 patients are in peril because hose lines are falling into decay, the old t[illegible] of buildings are firetraps and too much dependence is placed on the inlown firehouse.

The fire at Deer Island on July 15 last, which started in the old administration building under the old chapel, gave the inmates there a bad scare. Had it been at night when the men were locked in their cells a catastrophe similar to that recently in the state prison at Columbus, O., might have occurred because of the archaic buildings, ideal fuel for the flames.

Since that time there have been attempts made at better fire protection, but conditions are just as bad now, it was learned.

PRISONERS SMOKE

Though rules have been established prohibiting prisoners smoking in their cells or workshops violations are constantly in evidence.

There is a carpenter's shop on the first floor in the rear of the mess hall which is regarded as a fire menace. The same is true in the shoe shop. "No Smoking" signs are placed in conspicuous places, but the prisoners slip into the corridors and have a smoke.

In their eagerness to return to their benches, on approach of a prison guard, the smokers throw their butts down, and leave them smouldering.

"If this fire had been in the cellhouse at night, a good part of the inmates would have been suffocated before they could get out," declared Reuben R. Jacobs of Columbia rd., Dorchester, a former inmate.

SAW NO DRILLS

"There are fire extinguishers on the walls of the shoe shop and carpenter shop, but they are seldom if ever refilled. Half of them have no tags showing when they were filled last.

"I never knew of a fire drill being held in the cellhouse to find out how long it would take to get the inmates out. There certainly never was one while I was there."

At the Long Island Hospital fire officials, it was learned, inspected lines of hose and found them in decay.

Fire extinguishers are available in some sections, but missing in others. Old types of buildings used to house inmates ought to be abandoned and razed.

PUSHING WORK

When these conditions were called to the attention of the new Penal Institutions' Commissioner, James E. Maguire, he called attention to the fact that he gave his first consideration in taking up the reins of administration.

"We are doing everything humanly possible to safeguard the inmates in the House of Correction at Deer Island and the sick and indigent quartered at the Long Island Hospital.

"Fire Commissioner McLaughlin assured me he will give Long Island regular inspection and report the slightest carelessness that might result in the smallest kind of a fire."

Charlestown Prison Seething With Discontent

Characterized as "volcanoes full of smouldering lava" against which guards are constantly on the watch, prisoners in the State prison at Charlestown are reported increasingly discontented at being confined in an institution, which has been referred to by penologists as a "fire trap" and unfit for human habitation.

Investigtors, in checking-up complaints against the prison, learned that 13 state commissions urged its abandonment as a place of punishment; and recommended a more modern structure. On one occasion it was dubbed a "hell hole."

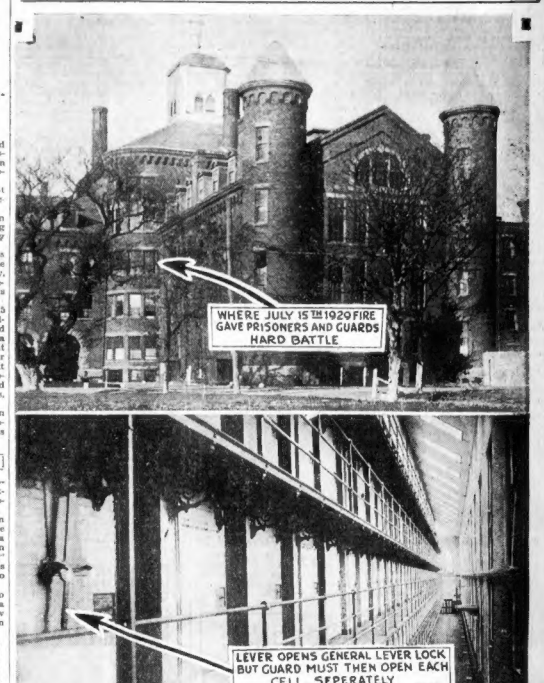
Short and long term prisoners are so dissatisfied with the prison that many are constantly plotting to escape, fearful lest they meet the fate of the convicts burned to death in the State prison at Columbus, O.

N. E. Priests Will Go to China Duty

Maryknoll, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Eight priests and one brother of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America have been assigned to mission work in the Orient, it was announced today.

The missionaries, who will leave July 31, include the Rev. Bruno T. Lavery, Bridgeport, Ct., to Korea; the Rev. Charles J. Murphy of Ansonia, Ct., to Kaying, South China; the Rev. Edmund A. Toomey, New Bedford, Mass., and the Rev. Francis B. Macrae, Wakefield, Mass., to Wuchow, South China; the Rev. Thomas N. Quirk, Portsmouth, N. H., to Manchuria.

Deer Island Inmates in Peril of Fire



WHERE JULY 15 1929 FIRE GAVE PRISONERS AND GUARDS HARD BATTLE
LEVER OPENS GENERAL LEVER LOCK BUT GUARD MUST THEN OPEN EACH CELL SEPERATELY

This old type of building is the officers' headquarters of the Deer Island House of Correction. It was in this structure on July 15, 1929, that prisoners and guards fought a fire that gave prison officials a scare. The fire took place in spot indicated. Stricter fire rules now prevail, but the wooden portions are so many that the building constitutes a fire trap, according to those who have seen it. Below are five cell tiers and, while with a lever the general lock of each 50 cells is opened, it is then necessary for keeper to visit each cell and open door with a key. In case of fire, one man would have to visit these 250 cells after throwing lever back. Thus fire and smoke would already begin to do their work.

Registering Fatigue

That's right, over at Harvard University they can now tell you how tired you are. Can tell you how work affects your breathing, your blood conditions and what rest you need. It's being done at the Harvard Fatigue Labratory under the direction of Dr. Lawrence J. Henderson. On the treadmill, where the subject gets his workout, is William Consolazio. (Staff photo.)

MEASURE WORK FATIGUE

The Harvard fatigue laboratory under the direction of Dr. Lawrence J. Henderson is studying the way in which the breathing and pumping of blood in the heart, and blod composition vary under different condition of rest and work in normal man.

The object particularly is to see what the state of equilibrium for a given person for a given amount of time is. Dr. Henderson explains the object of the experiments briefly is to determine what is the condition of a man at work.

They have found a very marked difference between healthy people. The size of the subject, condition of physical training and nature of the previous diet are important variables.

Most of the experiments carried on in the laboratory so far have been performed on the experimentalists themselves. They do not attempt to work on the Harvard athletes, as during football season, for example, they are too keyed up for their work to have the tests apply to people under normal working conditions.

Various methods of chemical analysis and treatment are used by the experimentalists also in their tests, analyses of air and blood before, during, and after the test.

Tests were made of the effect of running at a rate of nearly six miles per hour upon the laboratory treadmill for a period of about 20 minutes. The most fatigued person was the youngest of the group, a boy of 18 years.

The least fatigued was a man of 40 years—Clarence De Mar, winner of many Marathon races. Tests show that he is able to increase his exertion without disturbing his organic equilibrium.

Some of the effects of physical training upon the efficiency of the body as a machine have been measured. The results indicate that training enables the organism to maintain an internal environment approaching that of the normal resting state even during severe work.

These measurements in the laboratory and in industry show that his body production occurs when the worker is in a "steady state," when he is not only working but is maintaining his organic equilibrium.

HOOVER FAVORS NEW FLEXIBLE TARIFF PLAN

Washington, May 12—President Hoover has agreed to a new form of flexible tariff power, by which he would be required to carry out the exact recommendations of the Tariff Commission.

This new form of flexibility will be proposed to Senate and House conferees as a compromise in the dispute over the Senate repeal of the whole flexible clause. Whether the proposal will be adopted will depend entirely on how it is accepted by the Senate Democratic-Insurgent coalition, which announced it would fight all summer against giving the President any further tariff power.

Under the compromise, the Tariff Commission would be required to submit its reports directly to the President and he would be authorized merely to proclaim any rate changes recommended. The plan would elevate the Tariff Commission from a mere advisory body to an actual fact-finding and rate-making body.

Thus far, House Republican leaders have not indicated whether they will support the plan. They have insisted the present flexible clause be retained.

Administration leaders are aware that the Tariff bill itself is in real danger of dying, unless they can compromise the flexible and the debenture disputes.

Turkey to Sell $300,000,000 Gems

Istanbul, Turkey, May 12 (AP)—Sale of the crown jewels of the Ottoman Empire, valued at about $300,000,000, to raise money to relieve Turkey's economic crisis, was forecast today by the semi-official daily newspaper, Djumhouriel.

The jewels, part of which are on exhibition in the museums of Istanbul and the remainder hidden in Angora, include the Peacock throne, studded with 30,000 jewels. This single relic is estimated to be worth $13,000,000.

Holy Land is being devasted by huge swarms of locusts. Other sections of Europe fighting the plague. An interesting story in the American Weekly section of next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

THE DAILY HUBBUB

—By ANTHONY SKELDING—

WISH THEY WOULD SMOKE LIKE GENTLEMEN

A friend of ours who conducts a couple of hotels adjacent to the Public Library tells us that he has no compunction about women smoking in his places of business —that is if they wouldn't make such a mess of it. They smoke through soup, meat, "—" and dessert. The men patrons just gape and wonder how they do it. At some jolly parties the smoke nears like a war screen. "Then again," he says, "they leave their cigarette butts in such funny places. I wish they would smoke like gentlemen."

COUNTER ATTACK

The new chain perfumery and cosmetic shops now doing a boom business cater to both sexes. The manager of one of them tells us that at first their men customers used to sidle in and make their purchases like bashful invaders. "Ha," he told us, "the boys, too, are going in for beauty rouge, powder and scent. Mostly 'Lilly Boys.' On markdown days they stock up for a month or so. We have a private mirror in the rear of the store where they can try out their favorite complexions. They are funnier than the women, and much harder to please. Feminine . . . ? "Not all of them," he replied, "one of the best customers is a near champion middleweight, his new business is getting awfully mixed up.

ON WOMEN

John Macy, formerly a local newspaperman, has written a book "All About Women." Prof. Rogers of Tech has also talked much about the same subject. They are both brave men and forthright in their opinions. Gorky, the Russian novelist, once asked Tolstoy what he thought about the female majority? Said Tolstoy, "When I am ready to tell the truth about women I want to be sitting in my coffin with the lid up . . . I'll then say what I think and pull down the lid. We know, of course, that Prof. Rogers has been dodging verbal bricks ever since he had his say about school teachers. Mr. Macy, being a philosophical anchorite, may not care so much about the consequences. But it is our opinion (after reading his book) that if the women could find out where he is they'd have him on the run.

EQUALITY OF THE SEXES?

John Macy says that there is an awful lot of bosh about the equality of the sexes. Not that women are any better or worse than men . . . but that they are entirely different creatures with different functions and purposes in life. He thinks that there are all together too many young women frittering their lives away in offices . . . typing and secretarying, etc., who might better enter the race, Motherhood, he says, should be their prime purpose in life.

BAD SPORTS

Mr. Macy goes on—"women are bad sports" . . . they want to play with men, but when it comes to mix him in business, invade his barber shops, run for public office; in fact do all the other things which men are accustomed to doing. But they do not want to be restricted by the same rules of fair play. Having achieved their emancipation they still carry over the older notions of chivalry . . . a code of behavior which no longer holds when once they enter into competition with men in business and public life. Mr. Macy has been traveling around the country debating this subject with leading feminists. He cites one instance which took place recently in New York city. He was booked to debate the issue with a leading lady lawyer. Since he and the woman were friends he suggested before the debate took place that they exchange their prepared papers. This so that they might read each others arguments and prepare their rebuttals. They lady agreed. Mr. Macy mailed his to the office of his opponent. The lady failed to mail hers . . . and never intended to. Came the fatal night and Mr. Macy was licked to a frazzle. Such, says Mr. Macy, is the feminine notion of fair play. Our own reflections after reading this charge against the lady lawyer by Mr. Macy is—How come such an innocent to be so brash as to write a book about women.

ELOPER IS HELD FOR ATTACK ON GIRL WIFE

Salem, May 12—As a result of his elopement with Dorothy K. Paine, 16, of Whiting ave., Beverly, Frank A. Scale, 50, divorcee with two children, was arraigned in local district court today charged with assault on the girl.

He pleaded not guilty and was held for a hearing on May 17 in bonds of $2500.

The girl wife was also arraigned in juvenile court on the charge of being a runaway, brought by the Child Welfare Society, and her case was continued to the same date.

In court today the girl blamed her mother for her troubles, and declared she wanted her husband. She said he is a kindly man who had always been nice to her and she loved him.

Scale has a son, 14, and a daughter, 12, all it was through taking care of these children that Dorothy met him.

She is large for her age and of a quiet, unassuming, type. Pending the court disposition of the case she is in the custody of Miss Pamelia Dulaney and will be held at the Child Welfare Society home in Mt. Vernon st., Boston.

BAKER SUSPECT HANGS SELF

Atlanta, May 12 (INS)—Police announced that they had been unable to unearth a single clue that might lead to the identity of a young man whose body was found dangling from a rafter supporting a billboard near the Atlanta Terminal station yesterday morning.

The police were trying to confirm the theory that the suicide was the man for whom United States agents have been searching since the murder of Mary Baker, 28-year-old government employe in Washington, a month ago.

The descriptions of the man here and the man for whom the Department of Justice agents have been searching were said to tally exactly. The youth found hanging here has been wearing clothes from his clothes that might possibly lead to his identification.

ROAD WORK UP 124 PER CENT

Washington, May 12 (UB)—Marking a gain of 124 per cent, over last year, highway construction contracts for the first three months of 1930 amounted to $114,101,383 based upon reports from about three quarters of the country, Secretary of Commerce Lamont revealed in a statement made public today.

"The great increase in early season highway construction is a matter of considerable national importance," Lamont said.

"Improved highways represent a material contribution to the stabilization of business conditions of the present and the future, and the large volume of early awards may be especially significant in connection with the problem of spreading employment throughout the year.

"In addition to facilitating the distribution of the immense products of the farms and factories when completed, highway construction operations underway involve the use of millions of tons of material drawn from widely separated sources and they provide employment both directly and indirectly over broader areas than any other type of public work. It is estimated that nearly 50 cents of each dollar spent for highway building and maintenance is paid for the labor involved."

Out of 35 states from which reports were received 30 reported increases. Sixteen of the governors announced contract awards for the first quarter of the year 100 per cent greater than in the same period of 1929.

Dearest Anne:

We are getting into the time o' weddings, when there is such a sweet flusher about veils and invitations and bridesmaids and things, with never a thought to the neglected groom, except perhaps to tell him the kind of a wedding ring you'd love—and where he could just drop in to see them. This is a most important item this year, for you know that with the styles—just like weddings and veils, though many women long for the slender new bands that are now being worn, they would not change because of sentiment. But a new ring has been perfected which can change on the surface as many times as the varying styles demand—and still remain your own true wedding band. The real wedding ring itself of gold, or platinum, is enclosed in a slender engraved case—the style of the moment. This is an especially good idea if you are planning a diamond wedding ring, for you'll want the ring. This new ring has been designed by the Bernie Service Shop, and they'll be glad to show it to you. They also do engraving of all kinds, and will re-engrave the new design right on your old wedding ring. Bernie Service Shop, 123 Tremont St., Rm. 401. Tel Han. 1644.

Park Lane Frocks $8.95 Week

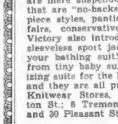
A lucky stroke for Park Lane (and for you! A high priced manufacturer had a lot of wonderful dresses which he wanted to exchange for cash. So Park Lane had the cash — hence, this wonderful sale, to which Park Lane invites everybody who has $8.95 to spend for a dress made to sell as high as $18.50! They are the most alluring style—chiffons, flat crepes, prints. Women's dresses in "right" sizes guaranteed to fit without alterations—for they come in sizes 16½ to 26½. Comprehensive Sale—for this week only—Park Lane will reduce their better dresses to $8.95 . . . a colorful group of new blues and dusty pastel shades in shantungs, chiffons and prints. Park Lane Frocks Corner is still thrilling the thrifty shoppers who appreciate wonderful values at $3.95 and $6.95. Park Lane Frocks, Shop 31 Park Sq. Bldg., Arcade.

Into the Swim!

The first bathing suits of the season have arrived at the Victory Knitwear Stores—and they are glorious! Almost every color! Stunning with new style lines! You've never seen anything so gay and good looking for sea and sand and pool! Everyone is a style winner in a suit from the popular Southern resorts. The color combinations are the very latest—yellow and brown; turquoise and peach. And the styles! Sunbacks that are mere suspenders. Sunbacks that are "no-backs"—at all. One-piece styles, pantie-and-shirt affairs, consecutive stripes, too. Victory also introduces the new sleeveless sport jacket to match your bathing suit. Victory sizes from tiny baby suits to slenderizing suits for the larger women, and they are all priced low. Victory Knitwear Stores, 570 Washington St.; 6 Tremont St., Boston, and 30 Pleasant St., Malden.

To Have And To Hold

youth! It's such a precious thing! What wouldn't you do to keep that rich, glorious color of your youth in your hair, and bring it back, if it has begun to fade, and turn gray. There is a way, you know—a way that Ann J. MacHale has shown with her wonderful Hair Color Restorer. It does not tint—but slowly and surely brings back the original beautiful color that the years have robbed from your hair. Her Res-A-Viv, too, is a youth restorer for the skin, and a skin that is treated to a massage with this each night is fortunate, indeed, for it will not show wrinkles, nor worry lines. After Res-A-Viv, Ann MacHale's Special Astringent will tighten pouchy muscles and close enlarged pores, giving firmness and youth to the contour of your face! All these youth-giving preparations are $1 each, and sold at all the S. S. Pierce stores.



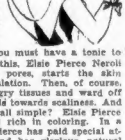
Cool—Inexpensive Dresses!

Doesn't that sound intriguing, to all New England women, after the hot summer weather we've just had? Well, just such dresses as these are to be found at Scott Furriers' new Salem, priced $5.95. Printed or plain Rajahs, printed or plain flannels, crepes, and shantungs, for only $5.95! Many of these are sleeveless, others have small cape sleeves, and all are appealingly fresh and dainty. Best of all, there are sizes for every woman, from the smaller woman, junior miss, up to size 50 in the larger woman's. Just in the same manner in which you purchased your fur coat, you may buy these attractive summer dresses, and choose one of the Three Scott Ways to Buy! Pay cash, if you prefer; open a charge account; or join the Scott Unique Fur Club, the only one in New England. Other dresses are $9.95 to $16.50; coats $16.50 to $65. The loveliest fur scarfs are $12.95 to $195. Call Liberty 8216 and a Scott Furrier representative will call for your furs for storage. No charge or obligation for an estimate on remodelling or repairing if necessary. Furs in Scott storages gather no moths. Your furs delivered to you promptly next fall upon short notice. All Scott Furriers' New England stores are located as follows: 69 Summer St., Boston; 309 Westminster St., Providence, and 51 Pratt St., Hartford. Look for the "Sign of the Climbing Leopard."

But Then—Whose Dearest Dream Isn't Beauty?

Our Barbara says she has been blessed with good features—but her glorious pink skin she has taken care of it! Whenever Barbara and some of her friends get together, there is sure to be envious whispering behind cupped hands—"My dear, she must spend a mint on facials—her skin is positively glowing with radiance!"

Now I can tell you quite truly, Anne, that the lovely Barbara never had a facial in her entire young life—and will never need one as long as she spends a few minutes each night with Elsie Pierce's wonderful preparations for preserving youth! Elsie Pierce is that clever beautician who believes in home care of the skin, and has made it the simplest treatment possible—and the most effective. Naturally the first step is to cleanse the skin, and Elsie Pierce has a cleansing cream ($1 and $3) that positively routs out all these blackheads, surface dust and grime. A full of rich oils that liquefy instantly, too! Then you must have a tonic to refresh and stimulate your skin. For this, Elsie Pierce Neroli ($1.50) is remarkable. It refines the pores, starts the skin tingling, glowing with quickened circulation. Then, of course, a preserving Cream ($1.50) to feed hungry tissues and ward off fine lines. It also smooths skin that tends towards scaliness. And this is her nightly treatment. Isn't this all simple? Elsie Pierce Face Powder is soft, and clinging, and rich in coloring. In a smart box with puff, it is $1.50. Elsie Pierce has paid special attention to colorings in her makeups, and has glorious, natural shades in her cream rouge, indelible lip paste, eye shadows and mascaras. You can buy all these preparations in Filene's Toilet Goods Section, street floor.



A Dress Without Cost

I really believe the New York Dress Mfg. Co. is one of the most thoughtful shops in town. To console those disappointed friends who stood outside the crowded doors and were unable to get a dress at their Dollar Dress Sale—they have planned another Sale, and will notify you privately by mail in advance, if you will just leave your name and address with a salesgirl. This active shop greets the new season with about 1500 styles, in every size from 14 to 50 and their prices are $3.75 and $5.75 for dressy frocks of chiffon, georgette and crepe, and sport frocks of shantung, crepe and prints, in fact, all the newest materials and styles worth three or four times as much. If you can duplicate these prices elsewhere, the New York Dress Mfg. Co. will give you a dress without charge. They are at 515 Washington St., 2nd floor (near West).

Summer Arrived

and caught us unawares—before we'd had permanents, or even one of those delightful treatments at the Olive Beauty Salon which prepare the scalp so wonderfully for a permanent. A good scalp massage, then an invigorating tonic and oil which seeps deep into the pores of the hair, then the steam which opens the pores to receive the oil. After the toil the spring winds has taken of your complexion, you ought to try one of their French Facial packs given by an expert masseur. Olive Gene gives all permanent waves methods—price $10. One of the best known beauty specialists—Vera Rizzio—is now manager of this Salon, and for a sculptured water wave, or a beautiful manicel—just try one of here. The Olive Gene Beauty Salon, 376 Boylston St., Rm. 400, Tel. Ken. 4160.

Down the Aisle

our lovely Peggy soon will stroll—a white flower in satin and tulle. And although the bridal ensemble is gorgeous, it is going to cost her almost nothing—for she is going to rent it at Mendelsohn's, where they both sell and rent new and used bridal outfits. Her bridesmaids, too, are getting their costumes there, for they carry a complete line of the latest colorful bridal outfits. They have also picked over some of their slightly used evening frocks, which they are going to close out at $1; and another group which they will sell at $3. These frocks include the daintiest taffetas, tulle, georgettes, and are just the thing if you want a change of costume for every party. Mendelsohn's is at 59 Temple Place, 5th floor.

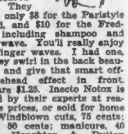
Ho! For the Summer and Evelyn's! Here was the favored spot last week, where Peggy and Babs and Rita doffed their hot, uncomfortable frocks for summery ones—which they found at the famous Evelyn prces, that fit into the most surprised, and totally unprepared budget. You know you'll find what you want when you go to Evelyn's, for she carries the best styles of the hour. Short sleeved prints, dot-embroidered chiffons, shantungs and swanky long cape coats and short ones. Even a silk pique or two has popped in. And the colors you'll find there promise to make the 1930 Summer Girl the prettiest that ever strolled Washington. $3.95 to $12.95 up. She is closing out a few sample coats and dolmans at $12.85. Evelyn's, Chiffon clothes, 3rd floor. Service weight, 99 cents. Evelyn's, 8 Winter St., 3rd floor.

The Buoyant Grace

of youth! The lithe, breezy step that gives youth to your clothes —poise to your appearance—and best of all slim, limber lines to your figure. The most easily developed through dancing. And one what joy to be able to forget that troublesome diet—and dance away your pounds. The most delightful form of exercise. The Meredith Studio of Modern Dancing has added reducing and scientific limbering exercises to their dancing classes, which many of our business girl friends have joined, and already they are beginning to enjoy its benefits. The Meredith Studio also teaches the very latest steps in social and tap dancing, and you can make arrangements for private or club study, if you wish. The Meredith Studio of Modern Dancing, 376 Boylston St., Room 306. Tel. Ken. 0616.



My Surprise This Week

for you, my Anne—is something so good, it sounds like a fairy-tale—but it's true! There is a charming little shop that buys the most distinctive clothes worn once or twice by fashion leaders—and then sells them for almost nothing. The name of this unusual place is—The Shop, and just now they have some unusually good-looking sport outfits, dainty chiffons and evening dresses for sale, as low as $4 up. There are also some gorgeous real imported frocks at $6 and up. College girls confined to budgets will be glad to know of this, I'm sure. And small girls are particularly lucky for just now they have a wonderful selection of charming frocks of all kinds in size 14. The Shop, Dexter Bldg., 453 Washington St., Rm. 609.

Modern as Long Skirts!

The 1930 spring bride is cutting her invitation and announcement expense just about 50 to 85 per cent—for she is having them done by the new Relief Process—which society acknowledges as correct. This process makes it possible to produce exactly the wedding stationery, without the expense of an engraved copper plate. Like the 1930 bridal gown itself, wedding stationery has taken on a charming new ivory tone. Very Priscilla especially refers to that gorgeous new ivory stationery which the Relief Printing Corporation is showing. You may choose from several styles of exquisite lettering in this new Relief Process, and samples and further information will be sent to your home if you just drop a card, or telephone the Relief Printing Corporation, 87 Summer St., Lib. 9256.

Virozol Guards

Virozol protects—Virozol cherishes your skin! No matter how wilted you may feel, nor how drawn and sallow your skin may appear, a Virozol can always revive with Virozol Medicated Face Bath. A bit of cotton and this marvelous cleansing astringent is as restful as a beauty nap. It removes all the poisonous dirt that collects in the pores, refreshes and invigorates, and brings a rosy glow of color to your cheeks, by starting the blood circulating under the skin. It is $1.25 a bottle. You'll be going without gloves soon, and if your hands aren't soft and white, you really ought to try Virozol Swedish Hand Cream ($1). It takes away the redness, roughness, and gives a satiny whites to them. You can get all the Virozol preparations at Chandler & Co.

Devotedly yours,

Priscilla

British Gain by Navy Pact, Says U. S. Expert

By CAPT. N. H. GOSS, U. S. N.

(U. S. Naval Academy, 1905; commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College; now commanding the U. S. Ship Sirius; Capt. Goss is a practical sea-going officer, who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.)

The present capital ship strength of the United States, Great Britain and Japan is as follows:

AMERICA	GREAT BRITAIN	JAPAN
18 of 533,400 tons	20 of 606,450 tons	10 of 299,400 tons

AMERICA	GREAT BRITAIN	JAPAN
15 of 453,500 tons	15 of 472,350 tons	9 of 268,070 tons

Of ships capital to be retained:

Oldest, completed in.....	30,233	31,505	29,461
Average size.....
Speed.....	13 of 21 knots	7 of 23 knots	2 of 22.5 knots
	2 of 20.5 knots	5 of 25 knots	4 of 23 knots
		2 of 31.5 knots	3 of 27.5 knots
		1 of 31.0 knots
Smallest turret gun..	13-inch gun	15-inch gun	14-inch gun

This treaty proposes that we cancel the provision of the Washington treaty, which authorizes us to ultimately equal the British capital ship strength by laying down four new capital ships during the next two years, but requires us to scrap at once three of the capital ships we already have.

It removes all vestige of the 5-5-3 naval ratio between Japan to scrap but one capital ship to our three.

It authorizes Great Britain to still retain a greater tonnage of capital ships than we, but forbids us to build anything to overcome either British or Japanese present advantage in speed.

It enables Britain to continue their superiority in capital ship strength with faster and more homogeneous vessels.

The superior speed of the British and Japanese capital ships would enable them to select the time and conditions of battle to our great disadvantage. They would be able to avoid battle if they so desired.

The treaty increases both British and Japanese relative cruiser strength, but reduces ours by forbidding us to build any battle cruisers.

Capital ships are very important because they are the only type large enough to carry heavy guns or any protection. Nothing equals a heavy gun in sustained power of attack. It fires a projectile weighing as much as a ton with a high explosive charge equal to a large bomb or mine, is as accurate as a target rifle, and is the only weapon that can threat its attacks dozens of times in a day with accuracy at distances far beyond the horizon.

BIG SHIPS NEEDED

In these days of great and increasing air activity, the capital ship is particularly valuable because it is the only type large enough to carry any protection whatever. Any other vessel may be destroyed by a single bomb, mine or torpedo, but the capital ship is large enough to carry efficient deck and side armor and to have the elaborate underwater subdivision to enable it to sustain repeated explosions of bombs, mines or torpedoes without sinking.

Speed is a very important factor in war vessels, but it can only be obtained by sacrificing protection or gun power, unless the ship is very large.

All our battleships are slower than any British, except their four oldest ones.

Under the Washington treaty we scrapped the six powerful high speed battle cruisers we had building, but the British retained four, including the Hood, the largest and most powerful war vessel ever built and much larger than the new 35,000-ton limit.

Seriously damaged vessels are a great liability in war. Unless they reach port quickly they are generally lost and greatly hamper the movements and power the fleet that has to slow down or detach vessels to convoy them.

This is important to us, due to the long distance our navy has to cover and the lack of bases. On this account capital ships with their ability to withstand injury are relatively more important for us than for Great Britain and Japan, so it is only natural that they should seek to further reduce our strength in this type.

ENTITLED TO LAY

A fleet which lacks an important type that others have is bound to be handicapped. Battle cruisers have the practical equivalent of speed of regular cruisers, especially under normal rough weather conditions at sea, and greatly outrange and exceed them in gun power, so a nation lacking battle cruisers is handicapped compared with others not only in capital ship category but relatively in cruisers as well.

Under the Washington treaty we are authorized to lay down two new capital ships next year and two more in 1932. These, while they could not equal the modern larger British Hood, could be fairly effective battle cruisers without sacrificing the all important quality of protection.

If we could be persuaded to forego our treaty of laying down these ships the British would retain their present superiority in this type.

The number of units has a great significance in these days of sustained air and underwater attack. Seriously damaged vessels and some losses are inevitable.

Again the question of our bases comes in with our forces not only longer exposed, but lacking repair facilities in important areas. The British could well afford to scrap their four oldest battleships and the pre-war battle cruiser Tiger if we would forego our right to build modern vessels.

JAPAN'S ADVANTAGE

Our scrapping three units would still leave them an equal number of capital ships of greater tonnage, more modern vessels, three battle cruisers and a homogeneous battleship force, including their two new Rodneys, and the five fast Queen Elizabeths, while the one lone 12-inch gun battleship we retain would not fit in with any of our others.

It is not difficult then to see why the British back this arrangement in which we surrender the right to eventually equal their capital ship strength.

In some ways the comparison with Japan under the new treaty is even more to our disadvantage.

The Washington conference at least established the accepted ratio of 5-3 in actual vessels. This again did not mean that ratio in fighting strength for the Japanese navy also included four battle cruisers which are very effective against any regular cruisers we build.

Under the proposed treaty Japan would scrap only one capital ship, while we must scrap three, leaving her nine capital ships, including three battle cruisers to our 15.

Since the London treaty makes no allowances for our weakness in bases the reduction in our present authorized capital ship strength is decidedly to our disadvantage and to the relative advantage of both the British and Japanese.

This is the second of a series of articles by Capt. Goss analyzing the naval pact recently signed in London. The third article will appear in tomorrow's Boston American.

SALT RAIDERS ARE SEIZED IN INDIA

Bombay, India, May 12 (AP)—The first great raid on a salt depot by Mahatma Gandhi's followers occurred today at Shiroda.

Police swooped down on the Hindu raiders and caught them in the act.

Two groups of volunteers had worked half an hour unmolested when the police arrived.

One hundred and fifty were seized. About 20 leaders were detained in custody, the remainder being released.

Meanwhile another body of volunteers reached the depot and removed large quantities of salt and police arrested 85 more raiders.

Great crowds of villagers eagerly bought the misappropriated salt as soon as it was collected.

Gandhi's civil resistance movement today received its second great setback with the arrest of Abbas Tyabji, and a large group of his immediate followers, at the moment when they were starting from Navsari to raid the Dharsana salt works.

Command of the forces of "passive resistance" immediately was taken over by Mrs. Sarojni Naidu, Hindu poetess, selected by the Mahatma to automatically succeed as leader.

Trial of Tyabji and 59 volunteers was begun this afternoon at Jalalpur.

The civil authorities in Sholapur announced today that two more military detachments had been sent from Poona. The second battalion of the Royal Ulster Rifles and a whole battalion of headquarters troops, to complete military control of that disturbed community.

SENATE X-RAY ON ROBERTS

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Unhampered by any show of formal opposition, the nomination of Owen J. Roberts as an associate justice of the Supreme Court today came under discussion and action by the Senate judiciary committee.

Chairman Norris planned to appoint a sub-committee to examine the nominee's qualifications and to make a report to the Senate before next week.

Although there had been a threat of opposition from the drys, because of the address delivered by Roberts in 1923, in which he was quoted as denouncing the 18th amendment, this was believed to have been removed.

BARNSTORMING 1930 STYLE

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Despite the fact that aviation as a whole has entered the class of big business, the barnstorming days have not entirely departed, as the flying of Charles F. Arnold of Glastonbury, Ct., will bear witness.

Arnold wound up a four-day stay in Woonsocket, R. I., by carrying over 800 passengers yesterday afternoon, and stated that he and his plane were kept busy from the time he landed at Woonsocket airport, Wednesday, until darkness called a halt last night.

WORKS DIFFERENTLY

The present day barnstormer works far differently than his predecessor. Instead of just flying along and picking a likely looking field at the edge of a town and dropping into it, the 1930 barnstorming pilot has an advance man who puts on a ballyhoo.

When Arnold lands at a field, he is met by the rest of his entourage, consisting of four men who act as mechanics, ticket sellers, and the parachute jumper of the outfit.

CARRY SUPPLIES

The quartet ride from place to place in a small truck, which is loaded with motor supplies, and enough parts to effect minor repairs in case of a slight crack-up.

Gasoline and oil is also carried in the truck, so the entire outfit is dependent on nothing except good business to keep it functioning.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

Fails to See Prohibition As Aiding Drunkard

Editor Boston American:

It was interesting information that I read in your paper, that Dr. Hugh Bary Gary, in charge of the Washingtonian Home, Boston, a well known man, Who has been working with dipsomaniacs for a number of years and whose words about prohibition and its effects carry weight, has this to say of it:

"I have been working with the drunkard for many years. I feel that I know quite a lot about him and cannot see that prohibition has alleviated his lot to any great exent."

Sees Little Beauty in Pullman Car Names

Editor Boston American:

Now that the Pullman rates are to be reduced, may I call the attention of the executives, who walk up Boylston st. and peer into the yards, where these high class cars are parked on tracks, to notice the names upon them.

They are called by any old term, either from modern or ancient history, but very few names from modern history, by the way, I could find. They are named after flowers and everything else. If they continue this kind of nomenclature, they have left the vegetable world to enter. Why not name some cars "Turnip" or "Potato" or "Cabbage" or "Brussels Sprouts" or "Radish"?

If you notice the cars that roll into Boston of this type, you cannot help but wonder who christens these nymphs of the track.

Where Is Old Age Pension Fund Coming From?

Editor Boston American:

The old age assistance bill from the ways and means committee vests in the Welfare Department of the Commonwealth powers to "require the production of books and papers and the testimony of witnesses under oath."

It also gives the department power to place upon the kindred, in addition to children, the obligation to support pensioners.

There appears no limitation to the wide scope of these powers over many persons who are now under no legal or moral obligation to divide their incomes with others.

As to the giving of judicial powers to the administrative branch of the government, it was done once during the war and once this year, in the case of the attorney-general; but in both instances was limited and speedily terminated. When the attorney-general in 1920 petitioned the legislature for similar powers now to be given to the Welfare Department, he stated in his report that his recommendation was not accorded a hearing.

Where are the millions of dollars for these quasi pensions to come from? The ways and means committee is supposed to find ways and means for public expenditures, but in this case, first enacts the bill and then by a new section passes over to the commissioner of corporations and taxation a direction to consider ways and means; and, furthermore, requires him to "especially consider some form of taxation on amusements, proprietary articles and luxuries." What is this but revival of the war tax, to the extent of unknown millions of dollars?

Terms Ballot Box Greatest Machine

Editor Boston American:

May 7, 1930.

No sadder or more deplorable picture comes to my mind than that of an able, willing man looking for a job, especially when his family is in need of food, shelter and clothing. Charity, dole—nothing can recompense the loss of the inherent right to dig for self and dependants.

One satisfied writer said: "Machinery is not to blame for unemployment." I agree. Machinery is a gift and should be beneficial to all.

Owners of machines are good fellows; nearly all are big hearted, generous men. However, an ambitious man can play the game well if he considers the other fellow too seriously.

The ballot box is the wage earners' greatest machine. Let us learn how to use it. Read, study, think, digest the Hearst editorials and other liberal publications. Read especially the cartoons and editorials in the Sunday Advertiser. "I Hear and They Say" is one of the best.

Let us read, study, think, seek truth. It's hard, it hurts, but it pays. It's a duty we owe to posterity as well as to ourselves.

Our representative government is a good "How, but he's human; he is swayed by influence. The wage earners should be the most potential force not for radical revolution which would bring misery, but for progressive democracy which with each step will come greater contentment, happiness and prosperity not only to the wage earners but to all.

Boston's Loss Is Gain for Suburbs

Editor Boston American:

It is a matter of regret that Boston could not shine up during this tercentenary year, with a million people for its population. It will have 800,000. The trend from the city to outlying districts has been active in the last ten years So many means of getting readily into the city from distances outside has caused many people, who have children and can afford it, to get further away from city life.

This will increase in the future, instead of diminishing. The Back Bay is already becoming a center of apartment houses. Many streets that were filled with residences for the family life are changed into business blocks. Newbury st. is a good instance of this from Arlington st. to Massachusetts ave. The same is true of other adjoining streets. Churches in Boston are feeling in many ways the changing population. Boylston st. has marked changes in the past 25 years. Business here has shown its prominence. Homes have gone. Where Boston loses other towns, like Newton, Brookline, Wellesley gains.

Urges People to Make Up Own Minds

Editor Boston American:

"Don't be ruled by the majority." So declares a preacher in Greater Boston on last Sunday. It is so true that some people will not commit themselves on any matter, until they are assured that a majority are thinking or moving that way.

In other words, they will go with the crowd every time. This country would never have been founded if the Americans of 1776 went with the majority. Some did. Others stood and clung to the minority. That's what these early Americans did and we ought to honor them more than ever because they were willing to be numbered among the few. But take this into your mind. It was the majority that burned the witches on Boston Common. The minority kicked but a Puritan conscience was a vise. It was hard to move. It was the majority that upheld in America election after election, the institution of slavery. Minorities always hold the key to progress. Majorities are always in the saddle and minorities have to walk, but they are not afraid to be right.

American Lauded for Aid In Constitution Campaign

Editor Boston American:

Now that the Constitution campaign has closed, with Congress appropriating the balance necessary to complete the frigate Constitution, I want to express my thanks and those of the national committee for your continued interest and support during the progress of the Constitution campaign.

Without the publicity and assistance which you have constantly and generously given, the success of the movement would have been decidedly much less.

PHILIP ANDREWS,
Rear admiral U. S. N. (ret.), chairman, national committee, Save Old Ironsides Fund.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

I think it is your duty as editor of this paper to set the following idea before your readers, and in doing so, help them.

As President Hoover stated, construction is helping us to recover from the hard times, but it is not giving us enough help. We, the people, must therefore make up for this insufficiency. We can only do that by spending. Do not hoard your money and put it all in the bank. Take some of it and buy new clothes, shoes. Paint your house, install screens, polish your stove, get the new car you were thinking of. By doing all this, one city can set millions of dollars into circulation. Unemployment will consequently be decreased when mills and factories start going into "high speed."

Yours truly,
MAX NYER.
Dorchester.

STIMSON HURLS DEFI AT NAVY PACT QUIZ

Washington, May 12 (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee heard and accepted today a challenge by Secretary Stimson for a strict comparison of the British and American navies under the London naval treaty.

Concluding an hour's explanation of the pact, the secretary of state hammered the committee table as he declared the treaty achieved British-American parity in fact as well as in name.

With Stimson's cross-examination reserved until tomorrow, the committee adjourned its public hearing and then at a closed session decided to call all of the high ranking naval officers who constitute the navy general board.

This indicated a broadening of the hearing program. The general board members, as well as the admirals who advised the American delegation in London, will be asked not only whether the treaty really insures British-American equality, but what the new arrangement with Japan will mean in technical terms.

Is the Robot Fooling YOU?

The Paris correspondent of "VARIETY" reports:

"The music-wise Continentals object violently to mechanical music (in the theatre)."

WHAT, then, if Europeans thus prove their "music-wisdom," are we North Americans supposed to be, that we are asked to accept mechanical music—and mechanical music only—in the theatre? Music-stupid, perhaps?

Well, at least 2,000,000 theatre patrons have rejected that characterization by joining the Music Defense League. They mean that they want Real Music, not Canned Music exclusively, in the theatre.

If you value the Art of Music, you too, should be numbered among the "music-wise." Just sign and mail the coupon at the left.

TODAY'S TABLE

Quickly prepared cottage pie
Tasty stuffing for tomatoes
Vienna sausage rolls

—By MARTHA LEE—

Quick Cottage Pie

Pretty soon you'll be thinking about stocking up your summer camp and cottages with groceries, and I want to remind you to include our good friend, the favorite brand of canned corned beef hash.

Perhaps you hesitate to order this favorite dish when you are "eating out," but you need never hesitate to offer this ready-to-serve variety to your most critical guest. It is made from first quality ingredients and under the most sanitary conditions.

It is all ready to heat up just as it comes from the can, or you may add your favorite flavoring, such as onion and green pepper or tomato ad lib.

This is a favorite way that we prepare corned beef hash in the Martha Lee Kitchen.

Empty the contents of a can of corned beef hash in your casserole. Season with salt and pepper and add a one-half cup of hot milk. Spread over with 2 cups of hot mashed potato covered with a sprinkling of grated cheese and buttered crumbs. Bake in a 375-F. oven until the potato is brown. Two tablespoons each of chopped pimientos and chopped green pepper can be added to the hash for additional flavor.

Vienna Sausage Roll

The average American breakfast seems to consist of fruit, coffee and bread in some form, either toast, muffins or possibly pancakes. Treat your family occasionally to sausage rolls, which I can pretty positively guarantee they'll relish.

Roll your favorite baking powder biscuit dough quite thin. Cut in three-inch squares. Drain a small can of Vienna sausages and place a sausage on each square of the dough. Roll up, pinch the edges and ends together and place in a hot oven, 450, until well browned.

Tasty Tomato Stuffing

An excellent stuffing for tomatoes, pepper and eggplant, can be readily prepared by mixing together 2 cups of chopped, cooked meat, 1 medium sized, finely minced onion, ½ cup boiling water, 1 tbsp. of butter, 1¼ cups bread crumbs, and 1 tbsp. of prepared mustard, and salt to taste. If the crumbs are a little dry, a little more water may be needed. This quantity will fill six tomatoes or peppers.

Delightful in Hot Weather

WALDORF SALAD

2 large apples
½ cup nut meats
½ cup diced celery
½ pkg. dates
2 tbsps. French dressing or lemon juice (for marination)
Mayonnaise dressing
Lettuce

If the apples have a tender, red skin, do not remove it. Otherwise, peel the apples, cut into quarters, remove cores and dice. Cover with French dressing or lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Add the nut meats (broken), and diced celery, and the quartered dates. Pile in mounds in cup shaped lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise or other favorite dressing. Serves six.

A Satisfying Salad

2 tbsp. gelatine
1½ c. ginger ale
1½ c. canned pineapple (diced or crushed)
1½ c. peaches
½ c. Maraschino cherries
1 c. shredded cocoanut
4 bananas

Soak gelatine in one-third cupful cold water, then place over boiling water until clear. Cool. Add ginger ale slowly, stirring until the gelatine is dissolved. Add the fruits diced or cut into small slices. When the gelatine begins to set, stir, unless you prefer to have the fruit in layers. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise thinned with cream or evaporated milk.

Any pleasing combination of fruits may be used, provided some fruit with color, as the cherries above, is used. Canned cherries will serve this purpose.

TEMPLE BUILT 600 B. C. FOUND

Philadelphia, May 12 (AP)—The University of Pennsylvania has announced a report from the archaeological expedition in Mesopotamia by the University museum and the British museum, stating that one of the best preserved temples ever found there has been uncovered.

The report, by C. Leonard Woolley, director of the expedition, states that the temple was built by Nebuchadnezzar about 600 B. C., and was added to and restored by Nabonidus 50 years later. It was found in the northern harbor at Ur.

"The walls of the temple stand 20 feet high and the whitewash on them remains in good condition," Woolley stated. "In all Iraq there is no other temple so well preserved."

Man Found Slain

Waterville, Me., May 12—The body of Vital Picard, 38, of Winslow, with a bullet wound in the head, was found today by two boys in the rear of a gas filling station in Winslow.

Here's the Big Winner

Our $5 weekly recipe prize goes today to Mrs. Lili Jaxon, 6 Codman Hill st., Roxbury, Mass., for her timely and tasty tercentenary sandwich.

TERCENTENARY SANDWICH
Mother Hubbard bread, toasted.
Finast Brookside butter.
Hellman's Blue Ribbon mayonnaise.
S. S. Pierce's Horticultural beans (shelled beans, canned.)
Finast Golden Bantam sweet corn.

Method:

Mash desired quantity of beans with about one-third the amount of the Golden Bantam corn; moisten with Blue Ribbon mayonnaise. (In season one can use fresh corn steamed 20 minutes and shell beans boiled 1 hour). Butter toasted slices of Mother Hubbard bread and spread mixture of beans, corn and salad dressing on thickly and wrap in wax paper until used. These are ideal for picnic luncheons.

Since this is tercentenary year and our first settlers raised much corn and probably lots of beans, let's honor this invention with this celebrated name. True to the thrift teaching I received as a pupil of the first Martha Lee Cooking School class, this use of the corn and beans I removed from some succotash I made suggested itself to me. I removed part of the material in order not to give the family too much nitrogen at one meal.

Dance Hall Hostess Falls From Window

New York, May 12 (AP)—Barbara King, 20-year-old dance hall hostess, fell from the window of her second-story apartment early today, after a party, and was taken to a hospital to be treated for internal injuries and severe cuts about the head and shoulders.

Police were told more than a dozen guests had spent the evening at the apartment.

New York, May 12 (US)—American Ambassador to Turkey Joseph C. Grew arrived here today aboard the Consulich liner Vulcania. He was accompanied by Mrs. Grew.

Ginger Ale for All Tastes Sold These Days

Of course you don't make the mistake of just saying "ginger ale" when you order your weekly supply, do you? New England housemakers are pretty particular about specifying their favorite brands—but remember too, in ginger ale ordering, that there are three distinct types of ginger ale flavor—the golden, pale dry and now a new extra dry (sec). All mellow, healthful and delicious, but each different in its flavor. The golden has long been known as a delightful, healthful beverage, and a special treat for the children. The pale dry is famous for its beady dry flavor either in recipe drinks or alone. And now the extra dry, or sec, the ginger ale supreme. Among the three, you're sure to find exactly the flavor that you have been looking for. And remember that these three ginger ales are all alike as regards quality. All are made from the finest ingredients—pure water from deep-rock springs, pure Jamaica ginger, finest table sugar and real fruit flavors, fully carbonated to give zip and sparkle. And carefully aged for the sake of finer, richer flavor, and in clean new bottles, never used before.

Most Cooling

For a life-saver, on a hot day, try this refreshing "grenagin."

Put one inch of Grenadine syrup in a glass, fill three-quarters full of ginger ale and the rest of the glass with chopped or shaved ice. Serve with small, crisp cookies.

Johnson Looting Mystifies Senate

Washington, May 12 (AP)—The mystery surrounding the recent ransacking of the offices of members of the Senate deepened today with word that the quarters of Senator Hiram Johnson had been entered and rifled a second time in as many nights. The second raid on the Californian's office occured Saturday night. Six file cases were forced open and their contents scattered about the room. Nothing was reported missing.

Friedman and Christner Top Rival Ring Cards

by Damon Runyon

NEW YORK, May 12—Perhaps we should all break down and cry over the sad fate that befell Jakie Finkelstein, otherwise Jackie Fields, out in Detroit the other night.

But our weeps shouldn't be because Jakie lost his welterweight title to Young Jack Thompson, after holding it less than a year. That was heart rending, to be sure, but our tears should be addressed mainly to financial distress to Jakie Finkelstein that the disaster entails—to Jakie Finkelstein, and his manager, the voluble Mr. Willis "Gig" Rooney, of Los Angeles, Cal.

They got $37,500 for their end in Detroit, and that ain't hay, as we say at the club. Yet they began refusing $50,000 for their bit from the very hour that Jakie Finkelstein won the title, for a battle with Jimmy McLarnin, and they continued refusing $50,000 and $60,000, and even $65,000 for said battle, up to the moment that Jackie Finkelstein climbed into the ring at Detroit, Friday night thinking his old playmate, Young Jack Thompson, was a soft touch.

Now the big "natural" of the past 20 years in the welterweight division, McLarnin vs. Fields, is a sad memory. Sad to both Jakie Finkelstein, and Mr. Willis "Gig" Rooney, and to Jimmy McLarnin, and "Pop" Foster, who manages McLarnin.

It was a sure $500,000 gate in New York this summer, and they are never going to make Jack Thompson fit into the aching void because Jimmy McLarnin's fond admirers built up too strong an alibi for James on the occasion of his meeting here with young Jack last winter.

McLarnin's Manager Made a Mistake

McLARNIN WON the decision, the pictures promptly appeared in the public prints showing that he had won it with a broken hand, as could lick Young Jack with a caveman hand, as his boosters succeeded in making the proletariat believe, it is scarcely likely that the theatrical would contribute $300,000 to see James lick Young Jack with two hands.

No, that was a mistaken alibi in the light of recent events. How much better it would have been now if the folks hadn't said anything about that broken hand, and had admitted that Young Jack made it very, very close.

How do you suppose old "Pop" Foster felt in Detroit the other night when he saw young Jack easily outgalling Jakie Finkelstein and recalled that he had refused $40,000 to let McLarnin meet Fields for the title last December?

Fields Won Title From Joe Dundee

FIELDS WON his title from Joe Dundee in Detroit late last summer with Floyd Fitzsimmons running the show in the outdoors. Floyd and Mr. Willie "Gig" Rooney, between them, guaranteed Joe $50,000, Rooney taking a piece of whatever might be left for Fields.

Fitzsimmons went to a lot of trouble and expense to put on that show. It drew over $100,000, a surprising gate for the match, and Fields came rolling over groaning on the canvas from a low punch when Slim McClelland, the same referee who was later to set Jack Dempsey on him, made him champion of the world by disqualifying Dundee.

Now old Floyd Fitz, promotional hero of Benton Harbor, and the Blue Sky Arena at Michigan City, rather felt that he has some claim on the services of Jakie Finkelstein as champion, and he followed Jakie and Mr. Rooney to Chicago, pressing the advantages of a bout with McLarnin. He wanted to put on last September, and he was willing to give Jakie $50,000, or declare him in on the promotion, or anything he wanted.

But Mr. Rooney, like many another manager before him, found himself dazzled by the championship, and he commenced to talk, in the manner made fashionable among managers like the ubiquitous Dr. Jack Kearns, which was very, very big. Only Mr. Jack, when he was doing his biggest talking, had something very big to talk about.

Northern 5, The Country Club 4.

By BILL GRIMES

The Central District went into first place in the W. G. A. team match championship by scoring a 6 and 3 victory over Southern at the Colasset Country Club, while Brae Burn was beating Midland at home, 6 and 3, today.

Going into today's matches, Central and Midland were deadlocked for first place and as the result of the contests, Central is now one match out front with only one to be played.

Bill Grimes

The Brae Burn victory was one of the most startling upsets of the season and not only did it break the first place tie but it moved the West Newton team out of last place for the Country Club lost to Northern at Tedesco.

Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., won her ninth straight match of the season for the Northern District, when she defeated Miss Dorothy Richards 3 and 2. Mrs. Baker was out in 43 at Colassett but was forced to come from behind to win the match.

New Players Give Brae Burn Victory

Strengthened by the acquisition of Mrs. R. T. Sayward and Mrs. G. W. Roote, Brae Burn defeated Midland 6 to 3 at Brae Burn.

Mrs. R. T. Prunaret, Jr., and Mrs. F. A. Stanward started Midland with a two-point lead, but Brae Burn came through with six victories in the remaining seven matches.

Mrs. Prunaret and Mrs. Stanward, won 4 and 3 and 3 and 1, respectively over Mrs. J. D. Woodfin and Miss Frances Stebbins.

Mrs. W. M. Ferris, Jr., accounted for the first Brae Burn point when she defeated Mrs. Walter Tufts, who was making her first appearance of the season in the Midland lineup. Mrs. G. W. Roote, a newcomer to Brae Burn, celebrated her return to W. G. A. competition by defeating Miss Marie Bourneouf.

Following the Root-Bourneouf match, Mrs. C. E. Deland set Brae Burn out in front by scoring a 2-up victory over Mrs. J. L. Leonard. Miss Lillian Morrill wafted through Miss M. M. Kennedy 7 and 6 for Brae Burn's fourth point and the West Newton team clinched the victory when Mrs. Duncan Wright after being 4 down at the 14th, came through with a 2-up win over Miss Eleanor La Bonte.

Mrs. E. T. Sayward brought in the sixth and final Brae-Burn point after a 19-hole match with Mrs. C. F. Eaton. Mrs. Sayward was 5 down at the turn and then she was dormie 4, going to the 15th, but then won four holes in a row to square the match. At the 18th, Mrs. Sayward put her second shot into a trap, played a beautiful shot out and dropped her putt for a win.

Going at hit 19th, Mrs. Sayward and Mrs. Eaton were home with their second nad the Brae-Burn player won the match when she dropped a 25-foot putt for a birdie 3. Mrs. C. T. Baldwin brought the third Midland point, when after a hard match she took a 1 up decision from Mrs. S. E. Bentley by winning the 18th.

After being 3 down at the turn, Mrs. Baker squared the match at the 16th and then took the next three holes to win a 3 and 2 verdict.

Down at Tedesco The Country Club team put up a great battle against Northern, but was on the losing end of a 5 and 4 match. Mrs. W. C. Quimby of The Country Club and Miss Margaret Curtis of Northern fought 20 holes before the Brookline player took the verdict. Mrs. D. M. Belcher was forced to shoot an 87 in order to defeat Miss Edith Stevens of The Country Club, 1 up.

Jack Conway Picks Al Friedman and Christner to Win

Jack Conway picked Kayo Christner to defeat Pat McCarthy at the Boston Garden tonight, and Al Friedman to win from Joe Monte at the Argonne A. A.'s now at Mechanics Building.

"The men are well matched in each bout," said Conway. "Christner's punching power is all that gives him the edge over McCarthy. The last Friedman-Monte bout resulted in a win for Al, but the result might have been different if Joe had not suffered an injury to one of his eyes."

Conway's 1930 record follows:

Tufts Nine to Play Middlebury Friday

Following a disastrous week, in which it was knocked from the undefeated class by Boston University, trounced by Holy Cross and nosed out by Springfield, the Tufts varsity baseball team will attempt to break into the winning column when it meets Middlebury Friday at the oval.

Lamar to Meet Gallagher Tonight

Henry Lamar and Marty Gallagher will clash in a 10-round bout at Baltimore tonight. These heavyweights originally came from Washington. They are old rivals and on the only occasion they have met fought a draw.

Lamar and Gallagher came to Boston when boxing was closed in Washington, but they are still red hot rivals. As Baltimore is only an hour's run from Washington, it is expected that many fans from the Capital will be at the ringside.

Saturday Proves Jinx to Chicago White Sox

Chicago, May 12 (AP)—Among the several ambitions of the Chicago White Sox one is to win a baseball game on Saturday—any Saturday.

The Sox haven't won a Saturday game since the season started. In fact, their last Saturday victory was over the New York Giants in a training game March 3.

Alex Came Back

Old Grover Alexander came back into his own when he was returned the winning pitcher for the Phillies in the final game of the Phillies-Athletics series.

BIG SHIFT IN HARVARD NINE

Facing the prospect of three stiff games with a patched-up team, Harvard baseball team worked out on Soldiers Field today.

An ankle injury which Eddie Mays sustained while Penn romped through the shattered Harvard ball club in their last tilt, forces Coach Fred Mitchell to make wholesale changes in the Harvard lineup.

Capt. Frank Nugent will step into Mays' shoes at second base for this week's engagements.

Eddie McGrath of Brookline will fill Nugent's spot in short. In place of McGrath, "Babe" Lupien, a husky sophomore slugger, will work in the Crimson center garden for the next few weeks.

If this combination fails to work as well as Mitchell hopes it will, the Cantab pilot will send Johnny Carver to second, keeping Nugent at short and McGrath in center field.

Maloney Favored to Beat Emanuel

Los Angeles, May 12 (AP)—The differences between Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, and Armand Emanuel, San Francisco's boxing lawyer, will be up for a ten-round gloved-hand discussion at Wrigley Field here tonight.

With a knockout victory to his credit over his lawyer opponent, the Bostonian was a 10 to 8 favorite.

Emanuel, who protested that Maloney's Boston victory was the result of a low blow, expects to reverse that decision. Maloney predicts an early victory by a knockout.

SHARKEY TELLS OF BOUT WITH JIM MALONEY

By JACK SHARKEY
American Heavyweight Champion

They called my second bout with Jim Maloney "New England's Battle of the Century." It was staged at Braves Field, Boston, on June 5, 1925.

When the bell sounded for the opening of the first round, I bolted from my corner and cracked a left hook to Maloney's chin before he was four feet from his corner. I then crashed a right hand sock to the body.

Maloney fought back with great courage. He let drive several lusty right hand socks, but they did not land. That was usually because I would tap Jim on the chin with my left just as he was about to release a right hand blow.

On other occasions I stepped inside of Jim's ponderous right hand swing. For the first six rounds I was hardly hit a single blow.

In the seventh frame, Maloney fought desperately and had a margin.

Then came the eighth round with all the thrills of a great drama.

BLOW LANDS LOW

The tingle of the bell had hardly died out when Maloney rushed to close quarters. As we stood there head to head, Jim let drive a left hand punch which he intended for the stomach.

In his excitement, the punch, which didn't travel more than six inches, shot low. I dropped to the canvas in a heap and rolled over in frightful agony.

As Referee Johnny Brassill saw I was going to try to get up, he started his count. At the count of nine I was on my feet.

Brassill stated after the bout he resulted I had been hit low, but he felt that with my eagerness to continue and being well out in the lead that he should let the bout go on.

When I got to my feet, I began to crumble and went down from a wild body blow. In all, I was dropped five times in that hectic eighth round. Four times I took the count of nine But despite the agony I was suffering as a result of the first low blow, I persisted in getting up. I did not want to win on a foul.

My seconds worked over me frantically between the eighth and ninth rounds, but I was still weak when I left my corner. A body punch sent me down again, but I got up at once.

I think the sight of me going down, but always getting up, made Maloney get very excited, for he then crashed over a frightfully low blow and the referee immediately hailed the contest and gave me the decision on a foul.

After the bout it was charged that Maloney fouled in the eighth round so as to avoid a sure defeat on points. I have always contended there was no truth in these statements.

BOUT WITH "KING"

King Solomon, Central American heavyweight champion, was a sensation when we clashed in the summer of 1925.

The bout was staged at Braves Field, Boston, on July 31, 1925. When Solomon and I entered the ring it was raining. This made the canvas of the ring rather slippery. Solomon, a perfect boxer, started off at a terrific clip. I kept crowding him, which made it more difficult for him to get in his effective work.

I had the margin in the first three rounds. Then Solomon made a spurt and went out front in the fourth frame.

When I left my corner for the fifth round, I decided it was necessary for me to change my tactics to win decisively.

So I shifted my attack to the body. I made my big play with a right hand uppercut which hit a point below Solomon's heart. After I had counted with a few of these smashes, I could feel Solomon weakening.

UNWISE TRAINING

Solomon started to crumble as I pumped in right hand uppercuts under his heart. I kept up this line of attack for the rest of the bout.

When the King tried to flash in the last two rounds, he did not have any reserve left and was an easy victim. The decisions of the judges and referee were unanimous.

I was then signed to battle Bud Gorman of Kenosha, Wisconsin, in Boston on August 7, 1925. I took a cottage at the seashore after my bout with Solomon and relaxed.

The result was I put on considerable weight. I also unwisely did a great deal of swimming while training for Gorman.

Gorman, a crafty boxer, took advantage of my lack of speed. Boxing on the defensive most of the time, he made me miss repeatedly.

I am frank in admitting he gave me a shellacking, as the boys around the gym say.

In the next article Jack Sharkey tells of his third battle with Maloney and his defeat of Eddie Huffman.

SHOWS ON AT MECHANICS AND GARDEN

By JACK CONWAY

There will be two boxing shows in Boston tonight.

Al Friedman of Roslindale and Joe Monte, Brockton heavyweight, will collide in a return 10-round bout at an Argonne A. A. offering at Mechanics Building, while Pat McCarthy of Roxbury and Kayo Christner of Akron, O., will trade blows in a 10-round event at the Boston Garden.

Jack Conway

The two shows will mark one of the few conflicts in dates between rival Boston boxing clubs since the sport was legalized here. The clash will not help either show. There are many fans who are interested in both of the bouts, but will be forced to make a selection as to which one they will attend.

Friedman has been installed a slight favorite over Monte in the Mechanics Building show. When these men met recently at the Garden, Al won the decision after a hectic quarrel. Monte was holding his own until he suffered an injury to one of his optics in the seventh round.

Christner is the choice of the speculative element in the Garden jam. The king of the Akron tribe is confident that his aggressiveness and heavy punching power will enable him to win from McCarthy. The latter recently knocked out Sam Weiss at the Garden and is liable to hand Christner a surprise.

McCarthy is capable of defeating most of the second bracket of heavyweights when he is in condition and has the urge to fight. Pat has been working hard in training for the past month and is at the stage of his ring career where he must win to keep in the money. All of which should mean that Pat will do some heavy punching tonight.

Eddie Black announced today he has invited Tom Oliver and the other Red Sox players to attend the Mechanics Building bouts as his guests.

Supporting the feature bout, the Argonne Club will present four six-round bouts as well as three four-rounders.

Primo Ubaldo, Italian light heavyweight champion, clashes with Jimmy Rogers of Cambridge. Rogers with five straight knockouts to his credit has picked a tartar tonight for the Italian is regarded as equally as dangerous a puncher. Larry Doyle of San Francisco will make his professional debut against Jimmy Brosnan of Boston, another hard puncher.

In the other sixes, Johnny Cooper of Boston meets Marty Collins of Philadelphia and Stanley Winslow of Lawrence opposes Pete Herman of Roxbury.

Wilson to Assist in Army Coaching Job

New York, May 12 (INS)—Harry E. Wilson, known to football fandom as "Lighthouse Harry" Wilson, will assist Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, head coach of the Army football team, in developing the Army's 1930 backfield, it was announced today.

Wilson is a former all-American star.

Revere A. A. Wins From Cantabs, 8-4

The Revere A. A. won its third straight game by defeating the strong Cambridge Cantabs at Curtis Park, Revere, by the score of 8 to 4. The game was a pitchers' battle until the fifth inning, when Anderson, on the mound for the Cantabs blew up.

An error by Looney in left field, followed by Anderson hitting De Matteo, and passing five men, forcing in two runs, sandwiched in with Astrachan's single with the bases full, which McFadden booted all around, allowed the Revere team to score six runs and the ball game.

B. C. Cubs Play 2 Games This Week

Boston College's freshman baseball team will play two games this week at Newton. The Eaglets meet St. John's Prep today and St. Anselm's on Wednesday.

Coach Frank McCrehan's team has lost but one game in five this spring, that to Dean, and is proving one of the most successful in fresh nines in years.

Bill Boehner will try to stop the heavy-hitting St. John's nine today, while Buddy Roy will probably get the assignment against St. Anselm's

REGAN'S HOMER GIVES SOX WIN

Big Ed Morris duplicated Milt Gaston's Saturday stunt of limiting the Browns to two singles. Bill Regan put the game on ice with a home run.

Tom Oliver started another hitting streak. The Sox dug deeper into the first division 'by beating the Browns, 2 to 1, for their fifth straight win. More than 25,000 fans went home happy, but on the verge of nervous prostration.

That's the story of the Sabbath ball game.

A stranger pitching performance than Morris turned in would be difficult to imagine.

One minute he would look so bad that nobody would bet a dollar against a million and the chances of winning. The next, he would look like the world's greatest twirler.

He was a changeable in the ninth as he was in the first and not a fan felt sure of the outcome until the final out was made.

The two hits he gave were scratchy in the extreme. He fanned nine of the enemy and shouldn't have been scored upon, yet he issued seven passes and ever seemed on the verge of breaking wide open.

While the "" made eight hits off Walter "Lefty" Stewart, the only run they deserved was the one Regan registered when he put the ball in the bleachers in the sixth. The only two passes that the visiting twirler handed out all afternoon forced over the other marker with two down in the fifth.

Morris walked Blue in the first but his infield took care of the other three hitters.

In the second, Schulte, first batter, reached on an error by Rhyne and after Guille and Melillo had flied to Scarritt, he reached third when Heving threw wild to second trying to catch him stealing. So Big Ed bore down and fanned Ferrell.

Victoria and Lions Battle to 2-2 Tie

The Victoria-Red Lion junior cup tilt, played yesterday at Healey Playground, Roslindale, and which resulted in a 2-2 tie, was one of those roughhouse soccer arguments in which players Blackstad, McVicar and Schram were banished by the order named by Referee Nils Anderson.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

Golfers who allow—and a heavy majority of you, I know, are in that classification—should subordinate everything else to the detail of getting rid of the cornfield drive at this early period in the season, because golf is meant to be a sport of pleasure and there can be little pleasure when every tee shot, for no reason at all goes sailing off over the fence. Slicing results from leaning forward into the direction line, with the body, which is pressing. This pressure, or lunging at the ball, is nearly always present, in one form or another, in the forward swing with the golfer who slices. Leaning the body forward, or pushing and lunging in efforts to force the club into greater power, also can cause the left arm to collapse, and that, too, causes slicing. Pressing, which means forcing, or "riding" the club toward the ball, is the root evil in slicing. The ball must be taken precisely by the clubhead, the margin down there being exceedingly narrow. Therefore, keep your body back and be on your right heel at the instant the clubhead zoes into the ball.

NORFOLK PAIR TIE HAVERHILL GOLF DUO

At the end of the first round of the N. E. P. G. A. amateur-pro tournamnet, played at the Woodland Golf club today, Frank Lally and Tom Spargo were tied at 69, with Fred Bentley and Joe Pezzullo of Rhode Island.

Lally and Spargo raced to the turn in 33 strokes against 35 carded by the Bentley-Pezzullo combination, but the Haverhill pair were unable to get back in less than 36, while the Rhode Island team came home in 34.

Eddie Morgan and Wilford Crossley, the New England interscholastic champions, had the best net score for the morning round, a 66, one stroke better than the card turned in by Dick May and Harry Kenworthy of Metacomet.

SHARKEY AT TRAINING CAMP

Orangeburg, N. Y., May 12 (US)—The arrival of Jack Sharkey in camp yesterday elicited considerable ado in local flistic circles. He was greeted by a large welcoming committee, headed by Gus Wilson and a 30-piece boys' band.

Sharkey was accompanied only by his wife. Trainer Tony Palosola will reach camp today.

Wilson, acting as spokesman for the committee, delivered a welcoming address and then presented Jack and Mrs. Sharkey with bouquets of flowers. Later the town council officially welcomed Sharkey to the city.

As a result of working in a Boston gymnasium over a week, Sharkey appeared in almost perfect condition upon his arrival. He stated that his weight is in the neighborhood of 203 pounds. He will scale down to the desired mark of 196, his weight for his fights with Loughran and Scott, by gradual stages.

Sharkey Appears Stronger Than Ever

Sharkey appears stronger and broader of shoulder than ever. The prospect of almost a month's work before him apparently does not worry Sharkey.

Sharkey seemed happy to be back among familiar surroundings and almost anxious to get down to the business of conditioning himself for his title bout with Max Schmeling at the Yankee Stadium on June 12 in the Milk Fund show.

Sharkey will perform light work for a few days, he said, and probably toward the latter part of the week begin boxing. He may box only a round or two during his initial bouts and increase his glove work only when he feels in the need of it.

"CHANGE HERE FOR CANAL STREET," HOLLERED HORSE-CAR HENNESSEY

"Before I do," spoke Ingrid Desmoulins, eighteen and pretty as a May morning, "may I suggest a change for you?"

"Be as suggestive as ye like, me Wild Rose," answered the veteran turfman.

"Change to OLD GOLDS and cease those rasping roars. Ease your throat with honey-smooth, heart-leaf tobacco and part forever with those grunts and growls. Speech is silver, silence is golden . . . and OLD GOLD speech is e'en more golden . . . there's not a hark in a billion."

American Golfers Take Commanding Lead in Tourney

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

MISS COLLETT WINS MATCH, 8 AND 6

By F. A. WRAY

Formby, Eng., May 12 (INS) Britannia ruled the waves but not the bunkers, greens and fairways today, for the invading force of American golfers, headed by its champion, Glenna Collett, practically swept everything before it on the first day of the British women's golf championship.

The gifted Glenna, never better, played 10 of her 12 holes in par to win magnificently from Miss M. Beard of Ferndown by 8 up and 6 to play.

The American took only 37 strokes, one over par, to be 6 up at the turn and the rest was simple.

This was a second-round match. Glenna having drawn a first-round bye, and it emphasized the feeling of disquiet that affected the gallery as a result of the American tide of five victories in the first round this morning.

Bernice Wall Defeated by Mrs. Holm, 3 and 2

Eleven American women started in this round and seven of them ably finished what they started. Four were defeated but, for the most part, they were minor members of the ensemble. The only exception was Miss Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., who lost to Mrs. A. N. Holm by 3 and 2.

The rest of the headliners, the Misses Collett, Helen Hicks, Maureen Orcutt, Louise Fordyce, Fritzi Stifel, Peggy Wattles, Edith Quier and Mrs. O. S. Hill, survived gallantly, brilliantly and, with one exception, tranquilly.

The exception was "Billy" Hicks, who was three down to Mrs. Doris Chambers, former British champion, going to the eleventh and then flashed one of the most amazing reversals in the history of the championship to take five successive holes—and the match. Miss Hicks played her last seven holes in five pars and a birdie.

Results of First Round Matches

The complete American returns of the first round follow:

Miss Hicks, America, defeated Mrs. Doris Chambers, England, 3 and 1; Miss Orcutt, America, defeated Mrs. R. Wynne, England, 5 and 3; Mrs. Hill, America, defeated Mrs. W. P. Scott, England, 2 up; Miss Fordyce, America, defeated Mrs. A. C. P. Medrington, Eng., 5 and 4; Miss Stifel, America, defeated Miss Billy Holmes, England, 6 and 5; Miss Wattles, America, defeated Miss M. Mearns, England, 4 and 2; Miss Quier, America, defeated Miss D. Marshall, England, 4 and 3.

Mrs. A. N. Holm, England, defeated Miss Bernice Wall, America, 3 and 2; Miss Diana Fishwick, England, defeated Mrs. H. A. Martelle, America, 4 and 2; Mrs. Edith Guedella, England, defeated Miss Marion Bennett, America, 2 and 1; Miss P. Montgomery, England, defeated Josephine Bender, America, 7 and 5.

Hight Wind and Rain Affected Yankee Stars

The round was conducted to the customary overture of wind and rain and, while some of the Americans were affected, notably the Ingers, the rest of the force carried on as though to the manner born. Miss Hicks's last seven holes were an example.

Miss Orcutt's complete display, barring an 8 on the 13th, furnished another. But it remained for the team leader and champion, Miss Collett, to top off the day with the finest effort of all.

She was perfection. Had it been possible to finish the round, she doubtless would have scored in the middle 70's.

She looked practically unbeatable, particularly to the badly scared Miss Beard, who was flustered by the gallery and the skill of her opponent and didn't win a hole of the 12 played.

Their cards:

Miss Collett:
Out ..... 4 4 5 5 3 5 4 4 3—37
Miss Beard:
Out ..... 5 6 6 5 4 5 5 4 3—47

Miss Collett:
In 5 4 5

Miss Beard:
In 5 5 6

By antime, Miss Rosalie Knapp, New York, had lost a second round match to Miss M. White, Rockaway-ton, by 4 and 3. Miss Knapp started 5-6-7 to be five strokes over par for the first three holes and never recovered.

Miss Quier was not so accurate herself, taking four 5s, a 6 and a 7 on the first nine holes, which she negotiated in 45. However, her opponent, Miss Marshall, needed 50 strokes to the turn and so all was well. Miss Quier topped her first and second shots, at the third and sixth holes and was badly trapped with her approach at the seventh.

The cards of the two Americans follow:

Miss Quier—
Out. 5 5 7 4 4 6 5 5 5—44
Miss Knapp—
Out. 5 6 7 4 4 5 5 5 3—44
Miss Quier—
In.... 5 4 5 5 6 4
Miss Knapp—
In.... 6 5 5 5 6 4

Molly Gourlay, the British ace, who beat Miss Collett in the recent international team matches, survived quite as expected. She won from Miss Mellor, another Briton, by 6 and 4.

Virginia Van Wie Wins From Mrs. C. R. Taylor

The Americans managed to get a stand-off in the next four matches of the second round. Miss Virginia Van Wie, the Chicago star of the invading ensemble, won from Mrs. C. R. Taylor, Colwyin Bay, pretty much as pleased her fancy, 8 up and 6 to play.

Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, also kept the star-spangled crest riding to victory. She disposed of Mrs. Douglas Grant, Canterbury, by 5 and 4.

However, Phyllis Lobbett, one of England's best, was too much for Miss Virginia Holzderber of Baltimore, who succumbed by 5 and 4, while Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, went down to a gallant defeat at the behest of Miss Barbara Miller, Wentworth. They finished all square at the end of the regulation 18 holes, then the Briton won at the 19th.

It was the first extra-hole match of the day.

Mrs. Taylor Way Off Her Form

The high winds were such that even the celebrated Miss Van Wie couldn't maintain control and took 44 strokes to the turn. However, Mrs. Taylor was 53 to the same point, so Virginia was hardly in a position to worry.

Miss Van Wie's card:
Out ..... 5 5 5 6 3 4 6 5 4—44
In ..... 5 4 5 ?

Mrs. Taylor, taking two 7s, took 6's and a 8, the latter on the par-4 sixth, was unable to win a hole until the eighth and turned for home 4 down. Then the American reeled off the next three in a stroke over par and the match, such as it was, was over.

Detroit Golfer Helps America's Cause

Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, scored the 11th American victory of the two rounds when she won from Miss Vivienne Bramwell by 4 and 2.

The latter has been five times champion of Gloucestershire. The American started with a winning 4 on the first hole, but was one down going to the sixth, which she won, squaring the match. However Miss Bramwell won the eighth and turned for home with a one-hole advantage.

This Mrs. Hanley wiped out at the tenth and then went definitely into the lead at the 12th, never to be headed. The cards:

Mrs Hanley—Out—
..... 4 5 6 4 4 6 5 6 3—43
Miss Bramwell—Out—
..... 6 5 5 4 4 7 5 4 5—42

Mrs. Hanley—In— 5 5 4 5 5 6
Miss Bramwell— 5 6 6 4 5 6

WIN FOR U. S. IN ENGLISH GOLF

Helen Hicks, sensational American golfer in the British open championships, who reversed her early form at the 11th hole and defeated Britain's star, Doris Chambers.

Not to be outdone by her compatriot, Maureen Orcutt, by exceptional play, defeated Mrs. R. Wynne, English star, 5 and 3. The Americans' play put the U. S. ahead.

BRAVES DROP PAIR TO CARDS

St. Louis, Mo., May 12—The Boston Braves lost all chance of breaking even on their first Western jaunt of the year when they dropped both ends of the Sabbath twin bill with the Cardinals.

The Tribe started the journey in fine style, taking two out of three from the Pirates, but they dropped three out of four to the Reds and four straight to the natives.

"Sock" Seibold, who had finished in front in his four previous starts, was beaten by Jess Haines, always poison to the Hub outfit, in the first game by the score of 5 to 3. In the second game, which the Cards won, 7 to 6, Al Smith, a rookie, worked for the visitors while Hallahan and Lindsey milled for the victors.

Hidden Ball Play Might Stop Babe

By AL DEMAREE
Former Pitcher New York Giants

Guy Bush, the Chicago Cubs great righthander, who pitched the only victory for the National very ambitious. Batters' hitting is a keen student of the game and Leaguers in the last World Series, weaknesses are of especial interest to him and he is constantly on the lookout for information.

Just before the recent World Series, he was going over the supposed weaknesses of the Athletic hitters with a veteran American League pitcher. He talked about Simmons, Foxx, Haas, Cochrane and others. Finally Bush's curiosity overcame him.

"How should you pitch to Babe Ruth?" he asked. "Just keep the ball out of sight as long as possible," was the answer from one who knew.

They tell a good yarn about Bush when he first joined the Cubs.

Manager McCarthy decided to change the catcher's signs to the pitchers about the middle of the season. But Bush did not approve of the plan. "Listen, Joe," said Guy, "please don't change them signs now. I've just begun to know 'em good!"

East Boston C. C. Defeats Tigers

The East Boston Catholic Club defeated the Marine Tigers of South Boston yesterday, 7 to 4, in a game played at World War Memorial Park, East Boston. Fallon, pitching for the Noddle Island aggregation, featured the game in striking out 16 opposing batters, as well as netting two hits out of three times at bat.

N. E. League Will Open on May 21

The New England baseball league will open May 21. The circuit will consist of six clubs, Brockton and Gloucester having been dropped and Salem taking over the New Bedford franchise.

The schedule for the opening date: Salem at Lynn, Lewiston at Portland, Nashua at Manchester, N. H. The order will be reversed the following day. The complete schedule will be ratified at a meeting Thursday in Boston.

Mealey Suspended

Catcher Jack Mealey has been suspended by the Wichita Aviators for failure to agree to terms with the club. Mealey was obtained by Wichita from the Dallas Steers of the Texas league last fall.

Dr. Willing Beaten in Golf Play-Off

Sandwich, England, May 12 (UB)—Dr. O. F. Willing, member of the American Walker Cup team, was badly defeated yesterday by Rex Hartley, British Walker Cup player, in their play-off of Saturday's deadlock for the St. George's challenge vase.

The Portland, Ore., dentist, failed by the wide margin of six strokes to take the historic trophy. Willing could do no better than 85, while his opponent's card read 79.

Malden City Club Wins Fourth Game

Providence, May 12—The all-star Malden City Club won its fourth game in as many starts when it defeated the Philadelphia Colored Giants, 5 to 2, in the main game of a double-header at Kinsley Park here yesterday. In the first game, the Philly Giants swamped the Cleveland Colored Giants, 11 to 0.

Red Sox Marvel on Air Tonight

You've heard of him. Here's your chance to hear him. Miss Jean Patten To Wed June 11 at Lancaster Ceremony

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, IS the day which Jean Hunnewell Patten has chosen for her marriage to the Marchese Giuseppe Pellegrini Quarantotti of Rome, Italy. The wedding will take place in Lancaster, at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, and it will be a very quiet and informal affair. Miss Patten is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas F. Davies and the late Mr. William S. Patten of Boston and Lancaster. It was last February that Mrs. Patten married Bishop Davies of Western Massachusetts.

THE BRIDEGROOM-TO-BE is the son of the Marchese and Marchesa Pietri Pellegrini Quarantotti, and his brother, Lelio, will be his best man, and the only sister of the bride, Miss Nancy Patten, will be her attendant. Miss Patten will be marrying into one of the oldest and most conservative Roman families. The Marchese is a member of the Papal Guards, an honor which is bestowed on those sons only of the families whose lineage and loyalty to the Pope are unquestioned. Miss Patten is a member of the Vincent Club and the Chilton Club. She will make her home in Rome after August 1. Mrs. Frederick Winthrop and the Countess Carl von Molke of Denmark are her aunts.

Miss Marjorie Fuller Picks September 6 for Bridal Ceremony

MISS MARJORIE WASHBURN FULLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Fuller of Cambridge, has selected Saturday, September 6, for her marriage to Mr. David S. M. Lanier, Jr., of Eliot, Me. The ceremony will take place in the First Church of Christ in Lancaster, where her sister, Mrs. Charles A. Hubbard, Jr., was married several seasons ago. Mrs. Hubbard will be matron of honor.

AFTER THE CEREMONY there will be a reception at Washburn House, the home of the bride's parents. The engagement was announced last October and Miss Fuller was a debutante of the season 1926-27. She was elected to membership in the Junior League and Vincent Club. At a house dance given by Judge and Mrs. Robert Walcott, Miss Fuller shared honors that season with their daughter, Miss Molly Walcott. Mr. Lanier is a Harvard man, class of 1925, and is now studying in the school of business administration.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF the Vincent Club to elect officers will be held on May 22. This meeting will wind up Vincent Club activities for the year.

New Code to Purge Films of Defects

Clubwomen Win Long Fight to Improve Motion Picture Industry

By NANCY BREWSTER

American clubwomen have realized their ambition. A new code has been conceived around which the movies will be constructed, written and directed.

A cinema code that calls for these requirements:

"No picture shall be produced that will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of the audience should never be thrown to the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil or sin.

"Correct standards of life, subject only to the requirements of drama and entertainment, shall be presented.

"Law, natural or human, shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation."

And it goes on to deal with problems under headings of crime against law, sex, vulgarity, obscenity, profanity, costume, religion, national feelings and the like.

MEANS ACTION

Not mere words do organized clubwomen consider this code, but rather a right step in the right direction, which they attribute without reservation to the appointment five months ago of Mrs. Alice Ames Winter, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, as their official representative in the industry in Hollywood. The promise has been made by those producers who are members of the Association of Motion Picture Producers that the dictates of the code will be strictly adhered to in return for which they doubtless anticipate 100 per cent attendance by the clubwomen of the country at the movies.

After a five-month stewardship in the industry, Mrs. Winter makes this first announcement about her progress:

COMPENSATION NECESSARY

"Whether this code is to be a success or not," she says, "depends on two elements; the producers on one side and ours, the public, on the other. On their side this method of enforcement, which is their own self-control, is, I believe, a wholly new thing in the history of the industry and they are responsible to themselves for keeping it at work behind those high fences that guard the studio from intrusion.

"On our side is also the necessity of proving that our expressed desire for better pictures is not mere words, words, words. People like the producers who are carrying on the fourth industry in the country, who are putting in millions of dollars, and under the necessity of making their money pay, can't help keeping a wary eye on the box office which speaks at least as loud as our words.

"There are going to be months of circulation while the films already made under the new code pursue their way toward oblivion. There is going to be wide divergence of opinion as to what is meant by 'vulgar.' But a big step has been taken, one step we have been asking for most.

Holyoke Women Will Entertain Delegates to Annual Conclave

Hundreds of business and professional women, members of the Massachusetts Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will head for Holyoke next Saturday and Sunday to be on hand for the ninth annual convention of the parent organization.

Holyoke, Springfield and Northampton chapters will jointly participate in the program though the hostess honors go to the Holyoke club of which Mrs. Elizabeth Towns is president.

A "friendship luncheon" will start the meeting followed by a board of directors' session, a business meeting and climaxed by a banquet at which the greetings of the city and the Chamber of Commerce will be expressed. Among the after-dinner speakers will be Miss Ida T. Negus of New Bedford, president of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Dr. Grace H. Beardsley of the National Federation and Dr. Ralph H. Boas who will speak on "The Old and The New."

Skirt Lengths Determined by the Hour Hand

THE "COCKTAIL." That's the name given this dinner dress by Worth. The bolero bodice curves down at front and back over the top of a wide, flat sash of gold lame ribbon, forming flaring bows at the back. (Sketched in Paris.)

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American

Paris, May 12.

THAT IN UNION there is length has been amply demonstrated by the many women who declared themselves opposed to the short, skimpy skirt for the most picturesque of all clothes—the evening frock—and demanded the long, graceful skirt.

These standpatters with the willing assistance of the leading couturiers have found that their views have found favor with nearly all women, and contrary to expectation have been most heartily welcomed by the young girl, who was described as having been unwilling to give up the short, straight up-and-down skirt.

The full, long all-around skirt with flaring flounces, panels and circular godets have found immediate and enthusiastic acceptance, and it would seem that knees will continue to lead a sequestered life for some time to come.

For daytime wear, of course, the sensible, comfortable length prevails much to the joy of the woman who gets about a great deal and likes to take part of her exercise in walking with long, vigorous strides without wearing skirts that end above the knee.

The trained evening frock has not won vast favor for it is not suitable for dancing, and it has already been the cause of some most embarrassing moments, for it tears and rips so easily if stepped upon. Both of the dresses shown today have long skirts, but no trains. The first is of a dinner dress made by Worth and called by him "Cocktail."

The bolero bodice curves down at front and back over the top of a wide, flat sash of gold lace ribbon, which forms a flaring bow at the back. A double peplum effect covers the hips and the full skirt, circular in front, has unpressed folds at the back stitched at the top in the manner of pleats and reaching quite to the ground.

The interesting silhouette of the evening gown from Lucien Lelong is typical of the current models of this house:

The princess bodice is eased at the waistline to give the softly supple effect, and is then tight again at the hips. The flaring flounces, placed over a narrow and shorter underskirt, is stiffly circular in line and just clears the floor. The material is a crisp, heavy satin in a lustrous apple green shade.

SILHOUETTE OF AN interesting evening gown from Lucien Lelong. The princess bodice is eased at waistline, is tight at hips. Three stiff little bows trim the intersections of the diagonal piecings at front of dress. (Sketched in Paris.)

New President Will Direct Meeting of Ladies' Unity Club

Tomorrow morning at 11 a. m., Mrs. Ethel Rogers Limbach, newly elected president of the Ladies' Unity Club, will preside over the regular monthly meeting held at the clubrooms of the Home for Aged People, 64 Bartlett st., Roxbury, which institution the women support and maintain. There will be a directors' meeting at 10 a. m., luncheon at noon, and a bridge party in the afternoon.

The women anticipate a June outing, the details of which are now being arranged by an enlarged committee.

MALDON MAYOR VISITS CONCORD GRAVE

Allen Urged to Appoint Judge Wilson

Linda's Secret Comes Out at Reno

Bright-haired, vital, alive, young Anne Murdock had been three years at the Eaton Advertising Agency when her opportunity came—the opportunity to become Eaton's personal secretary. To work with a man of Laurence Eaton's breadth and power was something to dream of, for Anne had ambitions beyond a suburban home with Ted O'Hara, who was on her own rung of the ladder. The only beauty Anne Murdock saw in her own home was that of her sister, Kathleen, who had lately deserted that home for a career in the chorus. But Eaton overhears a conversation between his secretary and young O'Hara, which leaves him wondering whether he may not have to surrender his efficient assistant to Cupid. Anne senses this and declares that she has no dreams whatever of matrimony. Eaton sends Anne on a business trip to Chicago. On her return she learns that Kathleen is planning on a runaway marriage. Linda brings matters in the Eaton household to a head by calmly asking for a divorce. The plea was like a bolt out of the sky to Eaton.

CHAPTER XXVI

Linda nodded and rose to leave him. At the door she turned. Eaton was sitting with his hands clasped between his knees, his head bent. He had a curiously defeated look.

In the morning, as they had agreed, they talked things over. Paris?—the day of quick Paris divorces was waning.

"Reno," Linda said firmly. "I'll stick it out there for the requisite time."

"I want to settle some money on you."

"No, please. You've been generous. I don't spend three-quarters of what you give me. There's more than enough."

"But the money—it's so much yours, all I've made in the last few years. You've helped, you know."

"Helped!" She looked at him in astonishment. "I've never taken the slightest interest in your business, Larry, and you know it," she told him bluntly.

"Yes. But there are other angles. The purely social side. You've been, in a measure, a working partner."

"I can't see it. I won't take money from you, my dear," she declared firmly.

When everything was settled, she asked him, a little embarrassed:

"If—if you'd care to see Dick? He wanted to talk to you."

Eaton made a gesture of pure horror. "No. I like Jameson," he told her simply. "We've been good, if not close, friends. I bear him no malice. And you and I know, Linda, that this is no triangle-drama. I haven't the sensations of an outraged or deceived husband. You've given me no cause. You've been more practical than I; you haven't left me with any illusions about myself. In the face of your honesty, I can't pretend to be martyred, so be 'giving you up for your own happiness.' But I'd rather not see Jameson, if you don't mind."

Linda's removal to Reno was accomplished with little fuss and no publicity. Her arrival there was not heralded. She had been in residence for some time before the fact became generally known.

Her friends were more or less used to having her go away for protracted periods. There were no speculations about this particular absence.

Eaton went to his office as usual. Nothing was said, and nothing conjectured. But Anne, with her quick intuition where he was concerned, was aware that something was wrong. He appeared as polished and, as if purposely, he shut her out. Their business relations were unaltered, but the unacknowledged personal relation seemed finally shattered.

It came about because Eaton was putting a closer control upon himself. Until his marriage with Linda was over and done with, he was in honor bound to say nothing to any one, least of all to Anne. He must wait until everything was settled between them. Then he might go to her.

Until the hour arrived he felt he owed it to all of them—to Linda, to Anne, to himself—to be silen. Linda had not been silent, but that was her situation, not his. He was entirely different. The girl he loved was working for him, in his office. He could not expose her to gossip, to speculation, until the divorce was procured and the gossip and speculation might die aborning in the mere statement of a fact.

Besides he could not know until he spoke whether or not she cared for him—enough.

There was a certain feeling of pride within him that he and Linda could face their problem and solve it with self-respect and decency. Sometimes, thinking it over, it appeared to him that he would have been far more honest had he told Linda that he, too, cared for some one else. But that would involve Anne, and of Anne's feeling for him he knew nothing, could only guess ardently and with hope, wonderingly and with the acreaw extreme of despair.

And so he kept silent and Anne was terribly troubled, yet in a way it was bitter relief to her to be treated in this new impersonal fashion. But she was hurt. Had she done something? Had she—and here their respective positions

PROMINENT CITIZENS BACK HIM

Recommended for Past as Presiding Justice of Concord Court

Thirty-five prominent citizens of Maynard, Lincoln, Acton, Hudson, Concord and Waltham today appeared before Governor Allen to advance the candidacy of Howard A. Wilson of Maynard for the position of presiding justice of the Concord district court which will become vacant around the first of June when Judge Prescott Keyes retires.

Wilson has been an associate judge of the court for 20 years, and is well known in Boston where he has a law office.

Among the group to see the Governor were Senator George G. Moyse of Waltham, Col. Robert E. Goodwin of Concord; Atty. Samuel Hoar of Concord; former Senator John L. Harvey of Waltham; William Bannon of Waltham, and Charles H. Persons of Maynard, president of the Asabet Institution for Savings.

LAYS WREATH ON GRAVE OF BRITISH SOLDIER

In Official Robes He Makes Goodwill Offering for Tercentenary

Clad, for the first time in America, in the official robes of his office, Mayor Arthur Lever Clarke of Maldon, Eng., today placed a wreath on the grave of the British soldier at Concord cemetery, as part of his good will call at America's Malden for Tercentenary celebration.

The English mayor was the cynosure for thousands of eyes as he greeted Maldenites in his colorful robes, then made a trip to Lexington and Concord, the scenes so interesting to British and Americans as well.

His visit is the result of an invitation made a year ago when the celebration committee asked that a come here to bring closer the bond of friendship between the two cities of similar name.

Accompanied by his wife, the English mayor arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Scythia, and with a delegation headed by Mayor William A. Hastings, officially opened Malden's celebration with a gathering of 2500 persons in Malden auditorium.

After tendering official greetings he spoke on the close relationship of the two cities and his wife spoke on the similarity in American countenances with those of the British.

"That a few generations do not make any great difference in types is shown to be surprisingly true in the resemblance of your faces and those of our friends back home," she said.

After the visit to Concord and Lexington, the English mayor headed the party at the dedication and ground breaking ceremonies of the new Malden hospital.

PREFER JAIL TO PAYING FINE

Three alleged Communists were found guilty in the Waltham District Court today on charges of distributing handbills without a permit in Watertown April 30.

All three pleaded not guilty, but were adjudged guilty by Judge Michael J. Connolly, who fined two $5 each and another $10. Because it was her second offence Mary Page, 20, of Boston, was assessed the higher fine. Clara Halperin, mother of four children, also of Boston, and Charles Schwartz of Revere being fined the lesser amount.

When sentenced the defendants refused to pay a fine or appeal the order of the court, declaring they would rather serve a jail sentence. Accordingly Miss Page will serve 20 days at East Cambridge jail and her companions each 10 days.

DWYER WIDOW RECEIVES GIFT

Mrs. Gertrude Dwyer, young widow of Patrolman Franklin Dwyer, Dorchester policeman, who was slain by a bandit, smiled today for the first time in weeks when a kind-hearted Roslindale woman presented her with a baby carriage for her seven-weeks-old son, Paul.

At the same time cash contributions totaling $48 were received by Charles D. M. Bishop of the Dorchester Board of Trade, treasurer of the fund being raised by that organization to buy a home for the widow and children of the slain officer. The fund now totals $772.

The baby carriage was presented to Mrs. Dwyer by Mrs. Edwin T. Rae of 28 Symmes ave., Roslindale. Soon after receiving it Mrs. Dwyer took her little son for an airing.

Police of the various divisions plan a series of benefit baseball games for the Dwyer family. The first will be played at the Dorchester Town Field Wednesday at 6 p. m. Teams from Division 7, East Boston, and Station 14, Brighton, will play.

Cleared in Court, License Suspended

Though found not guilty in Lynn District Court of driving while under the influence of liquor and so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, Floyd L. Goodwin, clubman and last manufacturer, found himself minus his auto license yesterday.

It was suspended by George A. Parker, motor registrar, on the ground that Goodwin was not a proper person to drive a car. Goodwin was arrested on the charges on April 19, and subsequently a judge in Lynn District Court exonerated him.

Gow to Speak at Chamber Luncheon

Col. Charles R. Gow, postmaster of Boston, who has recently made a survey of conditions in Cuba, will address a large group of junior executives of Boston business houses at a luncheon in the Boston Chamber of Commerce lounge on Thursday.

His address, which will be under the auspices of the Executives and Sales Managers Clubs of the Chamber, will be "The Human Side of Business."

Advertise Churches, Ministers Are Told

Church going can be made a pleasure if the churches are properly advertised, W. L. Selvester, Boston publicity man, told a large gathering of Baptist ministers in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple, today.

"Push your church by publicity and improve your church upon the community by letting people know that you are there to help them," he said. "Don't let people feel that they are being driven to church, make it a pleasure by making your publicity attractive."

Cambridge Children Bitten by Dogs

The dog-restraining order of last year may be imposed in Cambridge again as the result of two cases of attacks by dogs during the week-end.

Alice Woodland, 12, of Prince st., was severely bitten on the chest and Robert Cushman, 8, of Channing st., on the right ankle by unleashed dogs.

SAFE-SANE DIET SERIES ENDS

With the final "safe and sane" menu published today, the Boston Evening American concludes the series of 24 scientifically planned diets, by which readers may lose weight at the rate of one pound a week.

Drastic reducing diets, physicians say, may lead to shattered nerves and ruined health. The Boston Evening American daily diets, if faithfully followed, will reduce the weight without in the least jeopardizing the health.

Readers may continue to follow the diets indefinitely, with variations, until the required amount of weight is lost. To avoid monotony, they may substitute other vegetables, fruits, and meats for those suggested in the menus.

Lose-Pound-a-Week Menu

MENU NO. 24

Coffee, one cup, with milk (no sugar)

POLICE AT ODDS IN AUTO CASE

A difference of opinion between members of the Newton police department today featured the trial in Middlesex Superior Criminal court of George E. Tufts, Newton auto dealer, charged with drunken driving and being drunk.

While three patrolmen testified Tufts was under the influence of liquor when arrested February 22 on Beacon st., a lieutenant who hooked him declared the defendant was perfectly sober.

The arresting officer, Patrolman Thomas H. McCormick, admitted he had trouble last summer with Tufts and had not spoken to him since.

McCormick and Officers John J. McGrath and Joseph P. Lyons testified Tufts staggered and smelled of liquor. McGrath, wagon driver, admitted he heardt Tufts say in the patrol this has arrest was a spite case.

In his own defence Tufts said he had trouble with McCormick because the policeman lighted matches in his pocket.

SAYS HE NEVER MARRIED 'WIFE'

Nicholas J. Cotsonas, 39, Cambridge druggist, testifying in his own defence in Middlesex Probate court today in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Louise Lapham Cotsonas, denied he had ever even been engaged to her.

Mrs. Cotsonas, of Norway st., Back Bay, charged cruel and abusive treatment and asks custody of her two minor children and alimony. Cotsonas in his answer to her petition, declared they were never legally married.

He testified they met in November of 1917 when he was a student at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and she at the Girl's High school.

He denied ever giving her an engagement ring or sending her money to go to Camp Dix where she claims the marriage took place.

Truck Upset After 40-Foot Skid; 2 Hurt

One man was injured and another slightly and two others escaped when a truck overturned after skidding 40 feet in South Main st., Randolph, today. Lucille of Parker st., Brockton, suffered a probable fracture of the skull. He was riding beside the driver, Henry Thibault, of Turner st., Brockton, who was cut about the head.

Joseph Legault of Sylvester at and Frank Stevens of Commercial st., both Brockton, jumped off the tailboard as the car overturned.

Wife's Cheeks Get Husband in Trouble

Whether the bloom of youth on his wife's cheek was real or the drug store variety brought a suspended sentence of 10 days and a year's probation to Anthony Alfonsi, 34, of Swampscott, in Lynn court today.

Alfonsi was arrested last night after a series of jabs in that starry eyed over the question of his wife's cheeks being painted or not.

Law Dean Says Five Years Study Needed

Five years of evening study are needed to train a man for the law, Dean Everett A. Churchill, vice-president of Northeastern University, said today in commenting upon the five year program instituted at the Springfield division of the university law school. The five-year course, it will eventually be put into effect in the Boston and Worcester divisions, he said.

Children Render Honor to Cardinal and Mothers

Children paraded in Chelsea yesterday in honor of Cardinal O'Connell, who presided at a solemn pontifical mass at the Polish Church of St. Stanislaus. The church was celebrating its 25th anniversary. It was a beautiful sight, as every child carried beautiful flowers along line of march.

At Chelsea's City Hall a Mother's Day ceremony found Mayor John J. Whalen and his son aiding in event to do honor to Chelsea mothers. A boquet of white carnations was to honor departed mothers, and at another spot on the City Hall lawn was a boquet of red roses to honor the living mothers.

High tribute to the thousands of Chelsea mothers, both living and dead, whose untiring devotion has made possible the city's progress was paid by Mayor John J. Whalen at impressive Mothers' Day ceremonies yesterday on the lawn of City Hall.

Hundred of residents gathered on the spacious expanse and listened with marked attention as several other speakers outlined the heroic services of womanhood the world over in the interests of a better civilization.

PRES. MARSH IN HADASSAH

Commending the work of Hadassah as necessary and vital to the rehabilitation of Palestine, President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University, formally opened the two-day Oriental Carnival of the Boston senior and junior Hadassah organizations at the Hotel Statler today.

Having spent last summer in Palestine, President Marsh recounted his visit to the Holy Land picturing the absolute need for the medical work supported and financed by the women of the Zionist movement there.

ALLEN SENDS GREETINGS

Gov. Allen regretted his inability to be present, but sent cordial greetings for the success of the effort.

"We women are thankful to America for allowing us to contribute service and aid to our brethren overseas," Mrs. Albert Sadler, president of the New England Hadassah Conference said, opening the meeting with greetings from both the Boston chapter and her own group.

"We are thankful to that great body of young women who have interested themselves in the cause of Palestine and without whom we would be handicapped in our work. We owe a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Alex Burmon, who conceived and visioned this project."

The carnival has an old-world street in Palestine as a background and at the "Oriental sidewalk cafe" along this street, theatrical stars lunched at noon, with the dressed-dressed youngest set of Hadassah acting as wait resses.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT

Latey mannequins, smartly gowned and groomed paraded the thoroughfare and tonight there will be continuous entertainment of the night club variety.

Housewives, tomorrow, will be instructed in the art of assembling a blueplate luncheon, and the afternoon will be given over to entertainment features, climaxed tomorrow evening by a formal ball.

SAFE CRACKER GANG BLAMED IN 3 BREAKS

Miss $15,000 in North St. Market, Loot Hanover St. Jewelry Store

Police of Boston and Chelsea today sought a gang of safe-crackers believed to be the men responsible for three breaks over the week-end.

The latest break was reported this forenoon when employes of the William Handschmaucher Co., wholesale meat dealers in North st. found that burglars had forced a rear door leading into the office. A heavy metal door leading to a vault in which was a safe containing $15,000 was burned off. Then, apparently losing their nerve, they fled the place leaving behind them an acetylene torch.

From a drawer in the cashiers desk in the office the burglar took $100.

LOOT JEWELRY STORE.

Police believe that the thieves are the same men who during the week end entered the Lester Jewelry Co., in Hanover st., and after rifling a safe there of cash and diamonds made a thorough search of the premises taking everything of value including watches, stick pins and fountain pens. Officials of the company believe that their loss will exceed $10,000

The third break reported was in the offices of the Old South Ice Cream Co. in Winnisimett st., Chelsea, where burglars rifled a small safe, securing $5 in cash and a few postage stamps.

In the jewelry store the burglars left a complete set of burglar tools, a loaded 32-caliber revolver, and two pair of brown canvas gloves.

FLEE GARAGE

Two men, believed to be of the safe-cracking trio, attempted to enter the Greenleaf Garage in Arlington st., Chelsea, early today, but fled when Frank Green, watchman there, appeared flourishing a crowbar. One of the pair dropped a revolver.

Trolley Heir Faces Trial

Whitney Stone, a student at Harvard and son of Charles Stone, Stone & Webster traction magnate, leaving Roxbury court where his trial on hit-and-run charges was continued today. He pleaded not guilty. (Staff photo.)

With President Gaspar Bacon of the Senate present in an advisory capacity, Whitney Stone, 22, Harvard senior and son of Charles F. Stone of Stone & Webster, was arraigned in West Roxbury court today on an automobile law violation charge.

Emil Kauppinen, a Brookline chauffeur, claimed that Stone failed to stop after colliding with his car in the Arborway. The student insisted he was merely trying to turn round in traffic.

He pleaded not guilty to going away after an accident and his case was continued to May 19.

Senator Bacon, while not acting as counsel for young Stone, said he was present as a friend of the family.

According to Kauppinen, he leaped to the running board of another car after the crash, and chased Stone to Forest Hills, where Traffic Officer David Richards made the arrest.

Alvah Crocker, said to be a classmate of Stone's and his companion at the time of the collision, was in court with him.

MEDFORD BOY DIES IN FIRE

Charles Bennett, 11, of 392 Fellsway West, Medford, a sixth grade pupil at the Swan school, was burned to death in a camp at East Poultney, Vt., Saturday night, it was learned today when his brother Merton, 13, returned to Medford.

Merton was severely burned about the face and hands in attempting to rescue Charles, and was placed under a doctor's care on his return here.

Charles and Merton went to the home of their grandfather in East Poultney after school Friday to spend the week-end. Saturday they went camping with other youngsters, and the fire is believed to have started from a campfire the boys had left burning when they went to sleep.

Where Gems Vanished in Robbery

Three daring yeggs stole cash and jewelry valued at $10,000 yesterday after chopping an entrance through a wall of the Lester Jewelry Store at 39 Hanover st. The store is in a busy section and at times the thieves worked in view of passersby. Valuable diamonds and rings were taken from the safe and show cases. (Staff photo.)

CURLEY SENDS $6,000,000 IN LOAN ORDERS TO CITY COUNCIL

OVER MILLION MORE FROM TAX FUNDS

$6,000,000 of Total Is in Loans; to Be Spent on Sewers and Streets

Predicting a tax increase of at least $3, Mayor Curley today sent loan orders to the city council totalling $6,000,000 outside the debt limit, and additional orders for $1,150,000, to be spent from present taxes

The increase he attributed to legislative fault, increase in police and the "wholesale addition to the officer personnel in the fire department."

The orders called for the borrowing of $2,500,000 outside the debt limit for the acceptance and construction of unaccepted streets. The loan will be on five-year bonds

Another called for $2,000,000 outside the debt limit for permanent paving of streets of the city, in addition to $750,000 out of present taxes and $250,000 already appropriated for the same purpose.

A third order called for $1,000,000 outside the debt limit and $100,000 by direct taxation for the widening of Summer st., South Boston, beyond the Army Base and in the direction of L st

A fourth asked $400,000 outside the limit and $50,000 by direct taxation for work on sewers

"It is very doubtful if a tax rate increase of $3 can be averted unless Boston's share of the state income tax is far in excess of the amount anticipated," he said.

"I want to emphasize the fact that the reason for this is something over which the present administration has no control.

"The Legislature when it passed Boston's street bills provided that the greater part of the burden be borne by the present tax payers instead of on long term bonds.

"The tremendous increase in the police department is one of the leading factors," he said, and he roundly scored the Nichols administration for the increase of 150 men to the department.

"It was unjustifiable as was the wholesale addition to the officer personnel in the fire department."

Because of the increase, no more officers in the fire department will be made, he said, except promotions already in process through the retirement of Chief Daniel F Sennott.

He said that departmental requirements have swelled the city expense by an average of $1.94 school expenses by 91 cents, sewers and street by 70 cents and the city appropriation of $78,000 for the 5-0 conventions due here would increase by four cents

THREE NOW IN SENATE RACE

Announcements from several potential candidates were awaited today as a result of the declaration by Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg and ex-Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell of Boston that they will run for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

Rep. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, a veteran in the Massachusetts House and a Congregational minister, has already announced that he will be a candidate

Others who are expected to enter the contest include former Dist. Atty Thomas C. O Brien, William G. Thompson of Newton, former Mayor Andrew J. Peters and Joseph B. Ely of Westfield.

Coolidge elects to run on a stand for a modification of the Volstead act by Congress so as to legalize beverages containing from 10 to 15 per cent of alcohol

Former Congressman O'Connell said he would announce his platform later

TELLS STORY OF LONG LIFE

"Keep busy every day and eat good plain food"

This is the secret of living to be more than 100, according to Mrs. Lucetta Tuttle Tenney, who celebrated today her 101st birthday by performing her daily household tasks

Her formal birthday party with relatives present was held yesterday for convenience at her home, 20 Alaska st., Roxbury, where she lives with a daughter, Miss Mary A. Tenney

Mrs. Tenney has no set prescription for long life that prohibits this or advocates that

"In my case, it just happened," the spry little, white-haired old lady said today. "I like to keep busy every day and eat good plain food, but beyond that I've never had any rules for health"

An unfailing reader of the daily newspapers, a subscriber to several magazines and a needlewoman who has never lost her skill, Mrs. Tenney enjoys life tremendously. She wears glasses only when reading or sewing

Mrs. Tenney was born in Hancock, N. H., the daughter of Simpson Tuttle, went to school there and attended a seminary in Newbury, Vt.

Later she went to the West to teach school and there married Jasper Tenney, who died in 1858. They had one daughter and a son, Charles T. Tenney, both of whom are still living

After her husband died Mrs Tenney returned to Hancock until 1884, when she moved to the South End of Boston, then a fashionable center Later she lived in Ellery sq., Roxbury, and for the past four years has been living in Alaska st.

BISHOPS WON'T ACT ON LOBBY CHARGES

Cannon Case Will Not Be Discussed at Conference of Clergymen Here

Bishop William F. Anderson, in charge of the Tercentenary conference of 40 Methodist bishops from all over the world, which opened today, declared the conference would not touch "with a 40-foot pole the alleged lobbying charges against the Methodist Church made by Congressman George Holden Tinkham recently

"It is not usual for bishops to lobby," Bishop Anderson said, "but so far as the charges against the Methodist Church and against Bishop Cannon are concerned, they will not be discussed at all in this conference, not with a 40-foot pole."

Bishop James Cannon of Virginia, whose activities in behalf of the prohibition law aroused the ire of Congressman Tinkham, belongs to the Southern branch of the Methodist church, Bishop Anderson explained

His is an entirely separate branch from ours, though both are the Methodist Episcopal church," he said. "I know Bishop Cannon, but I have nothing to say about the Tinkham charges."

DISCUSS PROBLEMS

The bishops have been called together to hold a council on the condition of the world and the problems confronting Christian statesmen.

The purpose is to mobilize all the resources of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the improvement of world conditions and the promotion of international action.

The wives of the bishops, under guidance of Mrs. William F. Anderson, wife of the resident bishop, will begin a series of meetings for the study of missionary and philanthropic work. This afternoon they will visit the Tremont Street Methodist Church, where a museum of missionary work is maintained.

BANQUET TONIGHT

Tomorrow, from 9 till 1 o'clock, they will visit the Deaconess Hospital and Morgan Memorial, and in the evening will attend the commencement exercises of the New England Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing, which will be held in St. Mark's Church, Brookline

Gov. Allen and Mayor Curley, will welcome the bishops on behalf of the Commonwealth and the city, respectively.

Six thousand people are expected at a mass meeting in Mechanics Hall, Wednesday at 8 p. m., when they will hear talks on "Around the World in Two Hours" Bishops from foreign countries tell their experiences and will illuminate some of the baffling problems of civilization.

USE NEW MAP TO SHOW DETOURS

Commissioner of Public Works Frank E. Lyman today took steps to place a department issue map in the monthly bulletin showing road construction work with detours for the convenience of motorists in place of the map formerly used and protested by the General Drafting Company.

At the suggestion of Asst.-Atty.-Gen. Donald C. Starr, the Tudor Press of Boston, the new printing contractor, has discontinued the map.

Commissioner Lyman declared the public will not be inconvenienced by the change

He will hold a conference tomorrow, he said, at which it will be decided whether the state will contest the protest registered by the New York company

CHUMS DENY BOY HUNG SELF

The radio sets which Andrew J. Delaney built so diligently and so successfully were silent in his cellar today—for the 15-year-old schoolboy was dead by hanging in a coal bin beside his work bench

Andrew wanted to be an athlete, but had trouble with his heels, a difficulty caused by tight muscles in his legs. He was advised to exercise

When his father, Andrew J. Delaney, returned to the home in Norfolk st., Cambridge, last night, he found the body of his son hanging by a leather strap from a beam in the cellar His mother was away, attending Mothers' Day exercises.

The boy a junior at Cambridge High and Latin school, was worked over with pulmotors and respirators for several hours by Cambridge firemen and employes of the electric light company. Then he was taken to Cambridge City Hospital, but was pronounced dead

Medical Examiner David C. Daw today declared the boy a suicide by hanging, but his chums refuse to believe it

According to the chums, Delaney had been treated by Dr. Frank Bronnahan, who advised that he exercise to loosen up the muscles of his legs

The chums believe he was exercising with the suspended strap when it became wound about his neck.

Prepare Indian Class Boats for Races

BOATMEN GET SET FOR RACES

Indian class boats are now lying on the sea wall at South Boston grooming for the races at the open regatta on Memorial Day.

George H. Rolt of South Boston, secretary of the regatta committee and expert fix-it man for boats that do not handle well, is now hard at work getting the Lark, belonging to Walter Haller of Randolph, in condition

"Billy" Wells of South Boston will have his Indian class, Peggy ready to launch in another week.

Two years ago daughters and wives of the yacht club members were given an opportunity to race Indian class boats. The girls had several crack-ups with the boats last summer and a class to teach them principles of navigating, meeting every Friday night, was organized with 20 members last winter. Capt. Arthur E. McGarry has been taking the responsibility of teaching the girls the first principles of navigation.

Some of the best sandpaper was used on "Peggy" as William N. Wells fits his Indian class boat for the open regatta on Memorial Day. "Peggy" was returned victorious in a number of club races held during the 1929 season. (Staff photos.)

Three handicap races will be run early in June for the girls To the winner of the races, judged on the point system, who can best demonstrate that she can apply the things she has learned in class, will be given a racing stop watch

Among the girls who have been attending the class are Marjorie McMahon, who teaches at the Choate-Burham school in South Boston, and her sister, Claire, who is a secretary in the pharmacy department at the City Hospital.

Other members are Sylvia Foster, a teacher at the Cyrus Alger school; Rose Wartovich, a secretary in the accounting department of the Union Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Anna Keefe, secretary in the Sawyer Co., interior decorating firm, and Marie McGarry, 17, youngest member of the class, daughter of Capt McGarry the instructor and a junior in the South Boston high school

SPLENDID TECHNICOLOR FEATURES "SONG OF THE FLAME" AT B. F. KEITH'S

GREAT MOB SCENES IN FILM

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

RIGHT OFF THE REEL we state that the "angles" have lost most of their old appeal for us. Probably we are all "fed up." That's not a sign that we are dyspeptic from over-indulgence; we approach these oft-recurring singing films with the utmost ease of stomach and of mind, and always in charitable frame of cerebrum. Nevertheless, dyed-in-the-wool admirers of Alexander Gray and Bernice Claire may take our judgment with more than a grain of salt, and fans who love screen operetta and the like are at liberty to foresee gorgeous entertainment for themselves in "Song of the Flame," now at the New B. F. Keith's.

There is plenty of singing. The picture is entirely in technicolor. The settings are in truth magnificent. The sound recording is a crowd it to lots. Key Johnson whose blonde, statuesque, lady-like appearance is not unlike the heroine described in Rex Beach's book, plays Helen. As we already announced Betty Compson will be Cherry Malotte and William Boyd, stage actor, draws the delectable role of the stalwart hero played by William Farnum in the silent version a long time ago.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN is going in heavily for signing these days Saturday he put Irwin Rado Brown, famous as the composer of "Singin' in the Rain," under contract. Mr. Brown's duty is to write music for Evelyn Laye's first starring picture. Sam isn't taking any chances on the English beauty. He has Sidney Howard and Louis Bromfield working a story for her, so when she arrives in Hollywood June 15 everything will be in readiness. In addition to all these big time names Bruno Granichstaedten, composer, will reach here tomorrow. I hope we won't have to write his name too often, it takes up too much space and is too difficult to pronounce. Anyway, he and Edward Eliscus, who wrote the lyrics for "Lady Fingers" and "Follow Thru" and other productions, will also be on the Goldwyn lot to greet Miss Laye when she reaches here.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Leon Errol, Jack Holt, Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., among those who danced at the Cocoanut Grove Friday night. Elaborate preparations being planned for the opening of Marion Davies' picture at Pantages' new theater on the 29th of May and the opening of "Hells Angels" on the 27th. Herbert Brenon arriving via air express to see his mother who is ill in the hospital. Mary Coyle, Ziegfeld dancer, in "Whoopee," on her way to New York to marry Pancho, leader of the Embassy Club orchestra there. Grace Moore entertaining a few friends at luncheon at her beach house at Malibu. Colleen Moore staging some tennis matches at her home in Bel Air. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

JACK BUCHANAN HEADS CAST FOR WODEHOUSE FIRST MOVIE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service

Los Angeles, May 12—The English stick together. P. G. Wodehouse, foremost English humorist and author of many delightful short stories in Cosmopolitan, is writing his first movie. And three guesses who will play the lead. Jack Buchanan who, don't you know is just as English as Mr. Wodehouse, will be the hero in the first Wodehouse-Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy.

Irving Thalberg who is dumb like a fox, reasoned out that perfect combination. Who better than Jack Buchanan could give a correct delineation of Mr. Wodehouse's humorous English characters? Now all that remains is to get Bee Lillie and Ivor Novello starring on "Are You There?" for Fox. Her company leaves next week for Del Monte on location and we hear Bee has plenty of new gags for the picture.

EDWIN CAREWE isn't running the risk of having an imperfect cast for "The Spoilers" his first picture to be made for Paramount. He has scoured Hollywood to be sure that he has the right Helen and Cherry Malotte. Kay Johnson whose blonde, statuesque, lady-like appearance is not unlike the heroine described in Rex Beach's book, plays Helen. As we already announced Betty Compson will be Cherry Malotte and William Boyd, stage actor, draws the delectable role of the stalwart hero played by William Farnum in the silent version a long time ago.

Stage Who's Who

William Ingersoll, who has a leading role in "The Criminal Code," the New York success which will inaugurate the repertory season of the Robert Williams Players at the Plymouth today, is a Boston favorite. Theatregoers will recall his great success at the Boston Museum in "The Silver King," at the Boston Theater in "A Rag Baby"; at the Bijou in "Exile" and "Hearts of Oak." He followed these local appearances with a four-year tour of Australia and this country with William H. Crane. In 1907 Mr. Ingersoll was leading man with the Winthrop Ames Stock Company at the Castle Square Theater.

LA ROCQUE IS STAR ON 3 SCREENS

Along now comes another Western, this one with Rod La Rocque as its hero. The Westerns seem to inspire the talkies; for when the cameras swing in filming landscapes and the derring-do of the bold, brave men, one feels he is looking at real motion picture sequences. Dialogue is well out of the way for the time being, and eye and brain enjoy the sweep of the panoramic stuff these scenes help highlight.

"Beau Bandit," starring Mr. La Rocque and now the feature at the Modern, Beacon and Egyptian.

To these patrons who have had more than their fill of the indoor sound stage scenes, which have been in preponderance since the introduction of talking pictures, "Beau Bandit" will come as a relief. Almost every scene was filmed in nature's own setting.

La Rocque plays his latest role with ability.

PAINTS STARS' PORTRAITS

Saul Norton Cogan, born in Boston 21 years ago, paints portraits of movie stars for his livelihood. This clever young pastel artist appears at the Uptown where he paints the heads of all famous film folk. Patrons of the Uptown have watched him for long periods at a time while young Cogan painted the youthful face of Mary Brian or the stern visage of Wallace Beery. Cogan was offered a large sum for one of his portraits of a star. This artist can be seen at his work every evening at the Uptown, where he holds the limelight with his form of entertainment.

AS OSBORNE in Tiffany's superb "Journey's End," now at the Tremont. Ian MacLaren is seen at his best.

Screen Notes

Dead ol' Lunnon is echoing with such expressions of surprise as "Really," My Word" and "Fawncy That." And it's all because "Puttin' on the Ritz" has had its British premiere at the Kinema. Fact is, our hands-across-the-sea cousins are in a typical London fog as to just what the title "Puttin' on the Ritz" may signify. This picture will be screened at Loew's State next week.

Joe Schenck, erudite president of United Artists, endeavored to explain that it meant "puttin' on dog." But he could tell by the dazed "fawncy that" that the definition didn't get far with his auditors.

In Warner Film

James Cagney has been signed for the leading role in "Handful of Cloud," gangster picture, to be made by Warner Bros. Archie Mayo will direct.

"DUMB-BELLS IN ERMINE" AT FENWAY

Though "Dumb-Bells in Ermine," now at the Fenway, is primarily a comedy, there are many intensely dramatic moments and it is suffused with humanity.

Robert Armstrong and Barbara Kent play together for the first time. Armstrong is a young pugilist who falls in love with Barbara Kent, captivating as the daughter of one of the first families of Virginia. The girl's mother sternly objects to the prize fighter, though a foxy grandma and a rheumatic uncle do their best to help the youngsters.

A middle-aged uplifter of the mother's choice temporarily parts the lovers. Then there is the uproarious exposure of the reformer by one of the showgirls he has had arrested.

The cast is good. As the delightful, demure grandmother, Beryl Mercer provides much merriment. She is the real star of the show. Claude Gillingwater is fair as the grouchy uncle. James Gleason is a scream as the fighter's trainer.

STRONG FILM AT PARK

"Soldiers and Women" holds the feature position on the Park screen this week. It covers quite a stretch of human emotion, and when the journey of love and hate is ended, Aileen Pringle stands head, shoulders and most of the body above her sides in the cast.

The film is based upon a stage play, and there comes within the photographed footlight drama type. Yet the cameras often roam hither and yon, with a result that there is action beyond the grouping of characters.

The story concerns chiefly army officers and their ladies. Miss Pringle is presented as infatuated with Grant Withers; yet that deep love of hers turns to bitter hate when she learns he has head over heels in love with Helen Johnson. Miss Aileen should have known better in the first place, for she is wife of the colonel, and Mr. Withers is only a captain. So Miss Pringle plays the tattler on Miss Johnson.

"DIVORCEE" AT ORPHEUM

In Norma Shearer's "The Divorcee," now at Loew's Orpheum, a number of differently-waved hair styles are adopted by Miss Shearer and her feminine supporting cast.

While Miss Shearer's hair is bobbed and naturally curly, necessitating only the setting of the curl after a shampoo, Florence Eldridge, a recent recruit from the stage, resorts to the use of irons.

Helen Johnson and Helene Millard, also from the speaking stage, are blonde, but adopt different methods in their hairdressing.

'BOZO' SNYDER KEITH-ALBEE HEADLINER

RKO Vaudeville, excellent and plenty of it, leaves the feature film for to the rear in the balancing up of the program at the Keith-Albee, this week. The stage bill, however, more than makes up for the lesser importance of "The Other Tomorrow," starring the (of course) beauteous Billie Dove.

It's a fine showing of vaudeville talent, with two superb acts either of which could be called a class headliner. There is the exceedingly comic Tommy "Bozo" Snyder, known as "the man who never talks." With his comic, which includes Sam Green, Josephine Hackney, Burt Hunter and Joe Murphy, the famous "Bozo" presents a comedy pot pourri called "The Decorators" which was written and staged by Alex Gerber.

For second headliner RKO has the original Aunt Jemima (Tess Gardella). Into star of Ziegfeld's "Show Boat." When she joined the "Show Boat" company, she was recognized as one of vaudeville's most distinctive and popular singing comediennes. Because of her make-up, many refuse to believe that she is not a real mammy.

Other major stars surround these two attractions. There are Naughton and Gold, Bernice and Foran, Jackson dancers, who return to their home town this week after an absence of several seasons, and Herbert and Doreen in a remarkable balancing act.

On screen is seen Billie Dove in "The Other Tomorrow," a story of the South written by Octavus Roy Cohen, popular author of Negro dialect comedies.

BONELLI STAR IN GENERAL MOTORS PARTY

Popular American Opera Baritone on Red Network at 9.30

LONG ESTABLISHED as a favorite with Boston music lovers, Richard Bonelli, baritone of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, reaches for new audiences in a nation-wide broadcast with the General Motors Family Party at 9:30 tonight over WEEI and the N. B. C. Network. He will sing the Cavatina from "Faust," with which he has already established a reputation. Other numbers are Damrosch's "Danny Deever," Coates' "Bird Song at Even Tide," and "Sedouka Love Songs" by Pinsuti. Don Vorhees will direct the orchestra in the Bacchanale from "Samson and Delilah," and numbers by Moszkowski and Ippolitoff-Ivanoff.

Life Was a Misery

"Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and rundown, could not sleep and had troubles which come at my age (forty-three). Life was a misery. Nothing did me any good until I tried the Vegetable Compound. I am on my third bottle and I cannot recommend it too highly. I feel like a new person and I really think I would have been dead if I had not taken it. I think every lady ought to take it at the Change."—Mrs. Eunice M. Worthy, Route 4, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

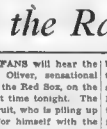
At the Radio Dial

BASEBALL FANS will hear the voice of Tom Oliver, sensational prize rookie of the Red Sox, on the air for the first time tonight. The 26-year-old recruit, who is piling up dizzy records for himself with the Boston team, will be interviewed by Joe Cashman, baseball expert of the Boston Evening American sports department, during the regular 6.45 p. m. Evening American broadcast over Station WHDH.



Tom Oliver

Oliver hit safely in 18 consecutive games before being stopped on Saturday. In addition to leading the American League in batting and total hits, he is considered the best fielder the Red Sox have had since their championship days when Speaker, Hooper and Lewis gave Boston its mighty outfield. Oliver comes from Montgomery, Ala., and was taken by the Red Sox on waivers from the Athletics, who had drafted him from Little Rock baritone. The concert comes on the air at 10 o'clock through WBZA and the N. B. C. Blue Network Loyens will sing the sustained and tuneful "Where E'er You Walk" from Handel's opera-oratorio "Semele." Orchestral numbers will be from works of Ignace Friedman, Moussorgsky and Massenet

THE PRIZE TREAT of the year in Atwater Kent series took place last night with no less than nine assisting artists of imposing concert and opera fame. So crowded was the program that plans had been made to commence 15 minutes ahead of the customary time. Locally, however, the audience heard 10 minutes of somewhat dreary talk while listeners in other parts of the country were hearing the voice of Reinald Warrenrath This excellent singer did not return to the program after his first number and consequently was lost to listeners on WEEI.

Ethelbert Nevin's "Oh That We Two Were Maying," sung by Martha Attwood and Kathryn Meisle, opened the long concert for Boston radio listeners. Miss Attwood's soprano voice seemed never to have been so lovely. This former Boston girl has a rare gift, and radio seems to enhance its beauty. Later she sang for the first time a song, "Mother," written by Edgar B. Davis of Brockton.

Through half a dozen operatic series and ensembles Mme. Homer, Kurenko and Messrs. Jagel and Bonelli held the attention of an audience that must have numbered millions. They ended in a burst of glory with the familiar and stirring quartette from "Lucia di Lammermoor," assisted by Miss Attwood and Victor Edmunds. Meantime, there had been a couple of fiddle pieces played by the excellent violinist, Toscha Seidel Finally, Frances Alda took the microphone and closed the concert with "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Home, Sweet Home."

TWO CELEBRATED newspapermen will take he air on Columbia stations tonight for the start of broadcast series of their own. Heywood Broun will broadcast at 6 15 p m. daily, Mondays to Fridays, starting tonight. Walter Winchell will be heard on Mondays, once a week, at 7:45 p. m. Both writers will broadcast through WABC and other stations of the Columbia chain. Up to the present, arrangements have not been made to present them through WNAC.

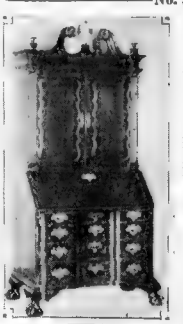
Antique a Day

No. 93



Here is a beautiful example of American Chippendale secretary. It is of block front design with scroll pediment.

The block front is America's, or rather, New England's contribution to beautiful and practical cabinet making. The recession is to give room for the knees, and the resulting effect is to break the front line of the drawers and to give them added beauty.

The secretary shown today is in the collection of the Boston Museum of Arts whose galleries of Colonial and early American furniture are unsurpassed for completeness and variety

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

RULES GOVERNING AWARDS

1. Beginning Monday, May 12, every day, including Sunday, for twenty-nine days, a message will be broadcast over stations WNAC and WHDH, from which a word or words will be omitted. On the thirtieth day no message will be broadcast, and contestants will supply their own messages. Everyone is invited to receive these messages and locate the missing word or words with the help of a clue in the form of a picture published in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser. This picture will illustrate the missing word. On the thirtieth or last message the picture alone will be published and entrants will supply their own message to fit this picture.

2. $500 in cash will be paid by the American and Advertiser to readers who send in the nearest correct answers and complete sets of solutions to the thirty messages, and other valuable awards will be made.

3. Everyone residing in New England is allowed to participate in these awards except employes of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser, their immediate relatives and families.

4. Hold all messages until you have the complete set of thirty (30). Then send them all in together in one package addressed to the Radio Mystery Message Editor, Boston American Building, 5 Winthrop Square. If it has 385, Boston, Mass., within the period to be specified later in this newspaper.

5. Messages need may be extracts from speeches of famous men and women, from poems, from current events, from advisable accounts, etc. In each extract will be matter of known record and the missing word must be the exact word used in the original message.

6. Each package sent to must be fully prepaid, first class postage. Packages received with insufficient postage will be considered. You may send in as many sets as you wish, but no person will be entitled to more than one award.

7. In case there are no complete sets of correct solutions submitted, awards will be given to the persons submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment. In cases where the solutions to the twenty-nine messages are identical, awards will be made on the basis of judgment, exact accuracy and skill in supplying the thirtieth or final message.

Then, the 29 messages most nearly correct, and the last or ORIGINAL MESSAGE deemed the best, will win the principal award.

8. The Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Plan and the decision of the Tercentenary Radio Mystery Message Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final and the sending in of a message is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations made now or to be made.

Daily Health Hint for Readers

Do not stop the naps of children too soon. If the mother keeps it up without flinching, children actually enjoy a nap after school, even to the tenth year or longer. Parents should see that children get plenty of sleep, ten hours or longer is not too much at night.

MARTHA LEE BROADCASTS TASTY RECIPES

Women Show Great Interest in Radio Feature

By MARTHA LEE

(From Martha Lee's Monday morning broadcast over WHDH from the Boston Evening American studio.)

How d'do, folksies!

I really could hardly wait this morning to get down to my office and see how many letters were waiting for me. I certainly was surprised and delighted that so many of you found time to drop me a line, and I must thank you all for the nice things you say about my being back on the air again.

Martha Lee

First this morning I am going to announce the winner of today's Dollar Prize in our new Daily Dollar Recipe Contest. This goes to Mrs. H. Angus of 23 Belmont st., Everett, for her Oatmeal Date Squares.

OATMEAL DATE SQUARES

Ingredients

1½ c. dry oatmeal.
1¼ c. flour.
1 tsp. soda.
½ c butter or other shortening
¾ tsp. vanilla.

METHOD:

Cream the shortening and sugar. Add the oatmeal. Sift soda with flour and combine the other ingredients. Add the salt and the vanilla. Put a layer of crumbs in a cake pan, then a filling made of one pound of dates which have been stoned, cut up and cooked with one cup of brown sugar and one cup of water for about five minutes. Then put in another layer of crumbs over the dates. Bake in a hot oven 1 h. Perhaps not content with just washing paint, she's giving everything that's possibly scrubable a second coat—and if there's one spring job that is satisfactory, to my mind it is painting. It seems to me it pays such big dividends in satisfaction in return for the labor invested.

Don't forget to tell Betty," said Mother Mine this morning, "to use a cloth wet in a little kerosene to remove spots from paint. For dirty finger marks, dip a little flannel in kerosene oil, rub gently and then wipe with a cloth wrung out of hot water. This is better than soap which often injures the paint. Tell her, too, that if white paint gets dirty to boil two or three onions and use the water in which they were boiled to remove the dirt.

"If the kitchen woodwork is greasy, dip a cloth in turpentine and rub it over lightly, then go over it with a cloth dipped in water to which a little kerosene has been added. Another good cleaner for paint is two quarts of hot water, two tablespoons of turpentine and a pint of skim milk and soap enough for a weak suds."

And for those aggravating match marks, all she needs to do is rub them with a cut lemon and then with a clean cloth dipped in whiting, and wash with soap and warm water; wipe with a clean cloth wrung dry. Then threaten murder and sudden death to the man who scratches another, on any painted surface!

MAPLE WALNUT DELIGHT

Ingredients: 1 c. maple syrup, 2 c. milk, 2 tbsps. cornstarch, 1 c cream, ½ tsp. salt, 2 eggs, 1 c. chopped walnut meats.

METHOD.

Heat 1¼ c. of milk with the maple syrup in the top of a double boiler. Combine the remaining milk with the cornstarch and salt and add gradually, stirring constantly to the hot mixture. Cook about 25 minutes, then add the cornstarch mixture very slowly to the eggs, slightly beaten, and continue cooking for five minutes longer. Pour into the serving dish and sprinkle with the chopped nuts, while the mold is still hot. When cold, cover with whipped cream.

Whitman st., R.F.D., Hanson.

Add vanilla and sufficient sugar to spread thickly. With the end of a knife pick up the frosting in little points all over the cake. These will crystalize, leaving a cream frosting underneath.

For the Potato Salad, mix together one quart of cold sliced potatoes, one medium size onion cut very fine, and one cup of tabl celery, also chopped fine. If the celery is not convenient, you can use chopped cabbage, diced pickles or cucumbers. Add a half teaspoon of salt and mix throughly with one cup of boiled mayonnaise dressing. This is made by mixing together two tablespoons of flour, 2 tbsps of oil, 2 tbsps. of vinegar and 2 tbsps. of lemon juice. Add one cup of boiling water and cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Four this on to the well beaten yolks of 2 eggs and beat rapidly with a Dover beater until thick. Add ½ tsp. of mustard, ¼ tsp. of salt, a dash of cayenne pepper and 2 tsp. of sugar. When cool beat in with an egg beater 1 cup of oil.

Now, ten chances to one many of you have an even better recipe for potato salad and dressing than this one. Won't you send in your favorite and I'll be glad to pass it along to Mrs. Craig through this column, and also to broadcast it at the first opportunity?

How time does fly! I've hundreds of other things that I'm just aching to talk over with you, but we'll have to wait until next Wednesday morning at this same time, 11 a. m. Will you all be listening in to Station WHDH? Until then, goodbye

Betty the Bride

My little friend "Betty the Bride" is starting her first spring house cleaning and getting lots of fun out of it. Perhaps not content with just washing paint, she's giving everything that's possibly scrubable a second coat—and if there's one spring job that is satisfactory, to my mind it is painting. It seems to me it pays such big dividends in satisfaction in return for the labor invested.

Correct Manners

—By MRS. BEEKMAN—

The Gift a Bit "Previous"

Dear Mrs Beekman

Six months ago I met a man from another part of the country. He has given me a beautiful wrist watch and we expect to be married within a year. His parents are coming to this city permanently and he is furnishing a home for them. Is it proper for me to buy a set of dishes as a gift for their new home, even though I haven't met them yet? They know of me and wrote their son that they were very happy to hear the news. Please advise me whether or not I should buy a gift?

QUESTION BOX

Since apparently they have not written to you directly to welcome you into the family, and since you have not yet met them, I believe that it would be a bit "previous" for you to make this rather personal gift. I advise that you remain on the safe side and make some gift to them for their home after they have come to live in the house. Really it would be difficult for you to interpret their taste in such an intimate gift as dishes that they will use all the time. Don't you think so?

Widow Keeps Married Name

Dear Mrs. Beekmam:

Will you please let me know whether I am right? Doesn't a married woman retain the name of her husband as long as she lives? If her name is Mrs. John King not before her husband's death, isn't the way name after his death? So many people use their first names and I maintain that it is incorrect.

D. M.

You are right. Correctly a widow retains her husband's name, and if she is Mrs. John King before his death, she is Mrs. John King after his death. And, for instance, this is the correct form for her visiting cards, which are the test of correct formality:

I agree with you that it is unattractive for a widow to use her first name after her husband's death, that is, of course, for formal uses. Such as signing a hotel register. Again here she uses her formal name, Mrs. John King.

(Mrs. Beekman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

"ALONE!"

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

You do not have to go to jail, or be ship-wrecked upon an uninhabited, palmy isle, lonely upon a vasty indigo sea, to be ALONE. Just fall in love.

And then, wander where your will doth list, you and "ma blonde" will be alone. Noise will clamor at your ears with its raucous voice; Broadway will mill you about against your neighbor and enemy—with the intimacy of bull-bearings, or fish in a barrel; waiters will knock your head against your Sweetest's, and then on your plate, customers will trample you, subway voyagers will act as if you really WERE out of the world and couldn't be seen with the mortal eye; society, in all its blare, noise, snickers, songs, tragedies, glitter and tumult—tumult no matter how polite it is—will hustle you; all this, and you two will be ALONE. Blissfully alone. From the heart up, walking in a cloud the color of Aurora's morning gown. The mob around you will slowly, from day to day, after you first catch your divine sickness, recede; growing dimmer and more unreal, mattering less and less; heard at last not at all, and seen as shadows. Not people any more—just rumors of people.

Sweetest looks at you, speaks to you. You look at Sweetest, speak to her. This is existence. The rest of your time is coma. And the world of humans are people seen under anesthesia. Sweetest and you alone are alive. The rest of them are a dead world, in a golden silence made for you. Well, the staging entire, the mounting of the play of life, birds, flowers, trees the sea, amusements, possessions, and every and any other beauty, was made for just YOU TWO. And you are alone in it. All alone!

Angel Sleeves, the Spice of Fashion

By ANNE ARDEN

SOME CALL them Juliet sleeves, others name them Angel sleeves. We think the latter term most appropriate for they ARE heavenly.

THE NEW WINGED sleeve is the inspiration of that clever young Couturiere, Ardanse. Ever since her famous jeweled Sunday Night frock of last season, Ardanse has been designing with increasing successfulness. She seems to have a talent for interpreting the gracious formality of the new clothes without any exaggeration of detail. Now she repeats her last season's Sunday Night Frock success with a new model, unique in its sleeve treatment.

THE LOVELY frock pictured has decided charm and grace of line. Of "baby" blue chiffon and cream lace. The lace outlining a low dip line in deep scallops, and banding the sleeves above the elbow. The necklins is becomingly cut, and deep wing-like drapery accents the sleeve edge, and low-placed fullness gives a delightful swirl about the ankles.

GOWNS OF the grace of charm the model possesses demand a slower rhythm in our walk and dance steps

IN THE OLD days of knee-length skirts we could fairly gallop over the dance floor and seem buoyant and youthful. But can you imagine loping along a polished parquet with your ciffon flounces swirling wildly around your ankles? Even the dance is becoming more dignified, stepped to slower rhythms Nor do we run downstairs, but descend with the measured tread of the great ladies of our grandmother's day.

WHETHER YOURE tall and slender, petite and pleasingly plump, or happily medium, you may find a silhouette that suits you among the many that are good for evening wear. Long slender lines that depend principally on cut for interest, demure puff sleeved, ruffled frocks that break the line of the figure, or bouffant frocks that billow gracefully away from the ankles are equally important and are seen in equal numbers on the dance floor.

AMONG THE evening fashions destined to summer popularity is a well lined types particularly flattering to your type—and it is the fashion that is pretty and becoming to the individual that is smart in this new era.

DEAD WHITE, pale blue and black exceed all other colors in fashion importance. Looked to as excellent for summer. Pale pink and green are also noteworthy.

Household Hints

Some careless person has stacked glasses one inside the other. One of them is sure to be cracked or broken when they are separated—that is, unless cold water is placed in the inner glass and warm water is allowed to run over the outside glass. This is a sure way of averting a crash that would deplete the glassware stock.

Never let lemon pips go down the sink if the waste pipe is narrow or old fashioned. Pips swell when damp and a number will easily cause an obstruction.

A few drops of paraffin will usually remove odors and grease stains from the kitchen sink.

To clean a stained copper kettle rub well with half a lemon dipped in salt. Wash with clean, tepid water and polish with a dry cloth

Girl Unafraid -:- By Gladys Johnson

Chapter 24

The road led through aisles of redwoods, through groves of oak and aspen. Rattling over wooden bridges which spanned mountain brooks brimming with spring rains. Through tiny hamlets, little more than a handful of houses clustered about a general merchandise store.

Ardeth thought of the first time she had come up this road on the long ago snow party. She felt wonder and a stirring of faint pity for the romantic, untried girl she had been then. She had loved Ken then as a girl worships a storybook hero. Not with the brooding, fiercely protective love she now knew.

In that long ago time, Ken had been the gay and aggressive one. Now she was bringing him up here, weary and beaten. Bringing him up here to the healing quiet of the mountain. What did the gossip of the world she was leaving matter now, she thought grimly. The world had parted them long enough. The path ahead was suddenly clear—no matter where it led.

Ken had fallen into an exhausted sleep which the jolting of the mountain road, for the most part, failed to break. Now and then his eyes would unclose and look anxiously for Ardeth.

Her low word—her touch—brought the shadow of a smile to his lips. He slept again, content to know her hand was in his own.

Tom's thoughts were bitter on that long silent drive. Not until it dawned on him that he realized the strength of that secret hope in his heart.

All over now . . . No longer any use to dream of the day Ardeth would change her mind and turn to the steady faithful love he could give her.

Ardeth was going with Ken. Well, he should have known it would turn out that way. He'd had plenty of warning. He always had been Ken, with Ardeth. She was the sort of girl who only gives her heart away once.

No more dinners . . . No more little Sunday nights here driving her out of his own life.

And this was love . . . But God, how ironic that he should be the one who was sitting here driving her out of his own life.

Up and up—through groves of silver aspen. Once the late sun light flung long bars of deep gold across the brown road. Past mountain streams, in an outcropping of green jade where black hawks flung on poised wings. Up to the little cabin waiting in the singing stillness of the mountains.

Ardeth knew were back and the swift chill of mountain night had descended when they reached the cabin. Ken looked about with a puzzled frown when they helped him into the house. The long sleep had somewhat collected his thoughts. He protested weakly

"Ardeth . . . We can't do this . . . You mustn't—"

She was gently firm. "Don't think, dear. I'll do the thinking."

Sick as he was, her stronger will swayed him. He sank back into the placed unconcern which covered him like a warm and restful cloak. After all . . . here was Ardeth, saying she would not leave him . . . Good, simply to let things slide after struggling against them so long. Good to be up here away from the thoughts of Cedric—of the stock market—a man could rest up here . . .

He made no protest when Tom took him in hand and put him to bed in the adjoining bedroom whose board walls still smelled of the pine forest.

Ardeth kindled a fire in the living room. Her thoughts went back to the time when she had been here with Mary and Phyllis Hawkins and the Duvant girl. How they would talk—those women she had known through the shop.

She shrugged. What did it matter! Ken was here! Fierce protective joy swelling in her heart! The once were flung Ken needs her—what else could she?

She went around the house in a strangely cool frame of mind planning for the life of the next few months. Fortunately the necessities of living were on hand. Plenty of warm blankets and clean linen piled on the pine board shelves of the closet. Sufficient dishes stacked in the kitchen where a square wood-burning stove and a never failing supply of fuel attended to their cooking needs.

She could get the necessary supplies at the small store down the road. Tomorrow she would make arrangements to buy butter and eggs from one of the ranches. Eggs and milk and fresh fruit. Ken would need little else for a while. Sunshine and quiet and a mind at rest, the doctor had said.

When Tom went down to the store for the last she had made out, she went into the bedroom. Ken had fallen into troubled sleep. For a moment the girl stood looking down at the burning head and thin face, and a fierce little prayer [illegible] her heart.

God, let her keep him . . .

God, I'll take care of him . . .

don't let them take him away—

Tom hesitated unhappily in the doorway of the living room when it was time for him to leave. Was it wasn't for that director's meeting tomorrow I wouldn't leave you like this, Ardeth . . .

There's nothing else you can do, Tom," she said softly. Her gaze came up, a little wearily, to rest on his face, and for the first time the thought of Tom pierced through her concern for Ken. She realized that Tom was suffering. Her eyes softened, grew a little sad.

"Tom—dear old Tom—"

His hand covered her own where it had gone to his arm.

"Well—I guess it just wasn't meant to be, Ardeth. And you've always been square. You didn't want me to believe it—but—well, I'm the original boob, I guess. I hate to leave you here, though. The world isn't kind, Ard, and it won't look at this in the way you do. It will make you suffer."

There was a small disillusioned smile on her lips. "I'm not afraid, Tom. I've suffered before. Nothing the world can do will hurt me worse than that . . ."

She spoke of the store then, again with a curious indifference. The little shop which for so long had been the dearest thing in life was suddenly a thing outgrown and therefore of little value. Sell the stock. Close it out. When the current bills were paid there would be a different sum left to support her for a time. After that—time would tell.

Tom was gone, the headlights of his car dying out along the road. Back night closed down about the cabin; the sharp spring night of the high places.

Ardeth sat before the dying fire in the living room, listening to the whisper of the pine trees outside, and to Ken's deep weary breathing in the bedroom.

It seemed a strange dream . . .

Age Causes Worry

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

"Having read your answers to other people's questions, I am now coming to you for help.

"I am 16 years old and have been going with a fellow since December last. I am very fond of him and I think he is one. The only trouble is that he is 6 years old. My father says he is too old for me, although he hasn't made me give him up.

My father has said anything to him, yet he says he knows my father doesn't want him to go with me, although he says he doesn't want to forget me because he loves me, and I, him. Do you think if we both love each other that 10 years is the matter?

I am not thinking of getting married now or anything like that, because I know and he knows that I am too young.

You will be helping me a great deal if you give me your advice.

SOMEBODY'S DARLING."

Dear Somebody's Darling:

Age is a little among in the way of making a difference in mature physically and know your own mind I really don't think the difference in your ages is too great. I wouldn't advise you to marry without your father's consent, but as long as he makes no active objection to your going with the young man, I should not let things go along peacefully rather than make an issue of it. To your daddy you're still a little girl, you know. In two years you will be your own mistress, and if your young man is steady and other you can have lots of fun in the meantime.

EVENING New York Stocks AMERICAN News of Street MARKETS

STOCKS CHURN IN A NARROW PRICE RANGE

New York, May 12—Industrial stocks and specialties were churned around on the big board today in a narrow range of prices.

The professionals dominated the market more completely than in the last few sessions of last week, due in large part to the attitude of outside interests who stood on the sidelines until the direction of the next movement of prices was a little more plainly indicated.

COPPERS GET BOOST

The professionals tossed the active steel, copper, oil and motor stocks back and forth in an effort to make profits from the narrowest of price fluctuations.

The result was a succession of short swings back and forth in most of the speculative leaders Radio swung between 44¾ and 50¼, half a dozen times in the churning process, and United States Steel between 172¼ and 173¾.

The copper stocks received an other boost in the fractional rise of red metal prices both in home and foreign markets. Anaconda sold up about 3 points to 62⅝, a recovery of 1½ points from the low of last week.

Yellow Truck and Chrysler made the best records in the motor group, Chrysler advancing nearly 3 points to 35⅝. Yellow Truck also shows 3½, the high price of the year, on reports that General Motors was planning a broad expansion of the operations of this concern.

Business and industrial reports at the beginning of the new week were generally cheerful, indicating fairly good progress in important industries.

CONVICTION LACKING

The stock market appeared to lack conviction as to its position. Commission houses were inclined to advocate steering close to shore until current levels are tested. Trading was extremely dull.

The sporadic efforts to push prices higher, meeting with moderate success in a few cases, but there was a distinct tendency to take quick profits on advances.

On the whole, traders appeared to feel that the sharp rebound last week represented only a technical correction of an oversold condition reached in the sharp reaction which came to a climax a week ago, and that the market again finds itself on uncertain ground.

Speculative sentiment was none too cheerful, the more optimistic quarters holding that a quiet, irregular market may be expected with selected issues making substantial progress, while the feeling in less cheerful circles was that a sustained rally would have to start from lower levels.

Credit conditions held stationary, with call loans still commanding 3 per cent. It was felt that the new offering of $100,000,000 treasury bills might cause a slightly firmer tendency at the end of the week.

Considerable pressure appeared against Radio, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric during the early afternoon, but these were limited to a point or two. Market observers were inclined to link this feeling to the fact that the Department of Justice is planning to test the legality of the new alignment of these companies, but this fact has been public knowledge for several days.

U. S. Steel fluctuated uncertainly, with the reduction in unfilled tonnage during April apparently causing some liquidation. United Corporation was sold in large blocks, but showed strong resistances.

Auburn Auto dropped about 10 points, in response to the first quarter statement. Earnings of only 55 cents a share. J. J. Case declined nearly as much.

Some of the more high priced or erratic issues sold up several points. Gains of 3 points or more including Macy, Vulcan Detinning, Detroit Edison and International Business Machines.

Manhattan Electric Supply, which developed acute weakness last week, rallied several points on publication of a reassuring financial statement.

Shares gain 2 points or more included Anaconda, Howe Sound, Byers, Du Pont, Air Reduction, Best & Co. and American Power & Light. Warren Bros. was firm, reflecting announcement of a $12,000,000 Peruvian road building contract. Johns-Manville sold up 3 points, then lost its gain.

Renewed liquidation of Celotex, which dropped 8 points, and further pressure against U. S. Steel, caused the active shares to turn heavy in the final dealings

NEWS OF New York Curb BOSTON Trends of the Day MARKETS

PRICES HIGHER IN BOSTON DEALINGS

Prices worked to higher levels in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Edison soared 4 points, Utilities Equities preferred advanced over 2 and First National Stores was over a point higher.

Anaconda was up almost 2 points, International Hydro Electric over 1, Spencer Trask over 1 and U. S. & Overseas had a point gain.

Cities Service advanced a major fraction, General Alloys was steady and Quincy was firm in late trading.

Gains of a point or more were shown by the following issues: Isle Royale, Bigelow Sanford, Eastern Steamship, and Waldorf. Wilson Jones dropped 2 points and Southern Surety was down a point.

Hearing at which Boston Stock Exchange officials were to appear before the Indiana Securities Commission, in connection with letter in order to show why the Exchange should not be removed as a duly credited exchange in Indiana, has been postponed from May 14 until a later date, not date- ined.

Controlling interest in the Chapman Bank & Trust Co., one of Portland's largest banks and with resources of approximately $9,000,000, has been obtained today by Leonard F. Timberlake, investment banker, and a group of associates.

Timberlake was elected president to succeed Philip F. Chapman, who issued a formal statement announcing the disposal of his interest in the bank.

B. E. Estes, who has been associated with Timberlake in the investment banking firm of Timberlake, Estes & Co., and eVrnon F. West were elected vice-presidents.

Glidden Co. will shortly do some financing in the form of an issuance of gold notes for the purpose of reimbursing the treasury for expenditures made in acquisition of various companies during the past year. Special meeting of prior preferred stockholders has been called for June 2 to authorize the issue.

Before you buy or sell stocks bonds, you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. All replies are made by mail direct.

EARNINGS LOWER

F. S. Lynn—I own twenty shares National Cash Register "A" at 70. What has caused the decline:

Ans.—The decline in National Cash Register "A" finds reflection in earnings for the first quarter of the current year, which were 75 cents a share, contrasted with $1.15 a share for similar period in 1929. Earnings had been on an upward trend since 1928. Dividends of $3 on share annually have been maintained on the "A" stock since issued in 1925. Extras of $1 a share were paid January, 1929 and 1930. For fiscal year ended December 31, 1929, earnings were $2.81 a share, compared with $2.15 in 1928. At recent levels you had a paper loss of about $200. No one can predict future prices.

BOTH SPECULATIVE

J. D., Norwood—I am considering the purchase of 20 shares Packard Motor and 10 Studebaker. What you opinion?

Ans.—Though the past record of earnings and dividends is good, the present status of Packard Motor and Studebaker is speculative because of lowered sales and uncertain conditions facing the automotive industry. In the first quarter of the current year, Packard Motor earned only 17 cents a share, against dividends of 25 cents a share. Because of the heavy drain on cash resources and decreased earnings, directors of Studebaker Corporation have reduced the annual dividend rate to $4 a share, contrasted with $5 paid from 1925. Payments in varying amounts have been distributed from 1915.

FOR BUSINESS WOMAN

Miss A. W., Boston—I am a business woman, in poor health. My life's savings amount to $18,000. I want to invest about $15,000, and shall rely on your advice.

Ans.—For a trifle under $15,000 you can get $2000 each S. W. Straus first mortgage 6s, Title Guarantee & Trust 5½s, Providence Company 5½s and Lawyers' Title & Guaranty 5½s; ten shares each Texas & Corporation preferred, Electric Power & Light first preferred, New York Steam 6 per cent preferred, North American Edison preferred, Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred, Southern Pacific 5 per cent preferred and seven Standard Gas & Electric preferred. The combined annual income from this list is $919. The remaining $2,800 left in the savings bank should be sufficient.

Wetsern Union to Do No Financing

There will be no new financing in connection with Western Union's plans to spend $45,000,000 for land line construction, improvements and other plant expenditures this year. Company sold $35,000,000 9-year 5 per cent gold bonds this year and this, with the usual utilization of reserves out of earnings for the purpose, will take care of the 1930 program.

Wheat Prices in Chicago Lowered

Chicago, May 12—Wheat prices averaged lower today, influenced by the fact that Liverpool quotations were unresponsive to Saturday's upturns in values here. There were also reports of excellent rains in Australia. Opening unchanged to 1-2c lower, the Chicago wheat market started underweight on general sag, but then rallied somewhat. Corn and oats were idle, easy, with corn starting unchanged to 7-8c off, and later declining a little more. Provisions held steady.

Highway Contract Totals Are Larger

Washington, May 12—Highway contracts awarded in first quarter of 1930 in 36 states, encompassing 75 per cent of the country, amounted to $114,101,333, against $50,970,138 for first three months of 1929, a gain of 124 per cent, states Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

Contracts let in Pennsylvania increased 577 per cent, in New Hampshire 755 per cent, Washington 650 per cent and Colorado 455 per cent.

Rubber Is Quiet

New York, May 12—Rubber futures were quiet today. May, 14.00; July, 14.40; Sept., 14.80.

New Issue — Massachusetts Tax Refund

$20,000,000

New England Gas and Electric Association

(A Massachusetts Voluntary Association)

5% Convertible Gold Debenture Bonds

An aggregate of these Bonds equal to one-half of the amount actually issued, are convertible, in the order of surrender for conversion, on terms set forth in the indenture on the first of any month through May 1, 1933 into $5.50 Dividend Series Preferred Shares of the Association at the rate of 10 shares for each $1,000 Bond.

Dated May 1, 1930 — Due May 1, 1950

Interest payable May 1 and November 1 in New York, Chicago, or Boston. Redeemable at 103 and interest to and including May 1, 1935; thereafter at decreasing prices. Coupon Bonds in $1,000 denomination, registerable as to principal only.

Harris Forbes Trust Company, Boston, Trustee.

Mr. Warren Partridge, Vice-President of the Association, summarizes his letter to Harris, Forbes & Company in part as follows:

Business and Territory: New England Gas and Electric Association subsidiary companies operate gas and electric properties serving a substantial residential and broadly diversified industrial population estimated to be in excess of 950,000 in more than 150 communities of which the most important are Cambridge, New Bedford, Framingham and Worcester in Massachusetts, Portsmouth and Derry in New Hampshire, Yarmouth, Bridgetown and Lawrencetown in Nova Scotia, Fredericton, New Brunswick, and Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, in the Maritime Provinces. A total of 254,213 customers are served, of which 115,225 are electric and 138,988 are gas customers.

Capitalization and Equity: The consolidated capitalization of the Association and the subsidiary companies upon completion of this financing, assuming the sale of all of this issue of Bonds, shows outstanding funded debt and minority common stocks of subsidiary companies of $5,469,150 and funded debt of New England Gas and Electric Association of $42,880,000 including this issue. The funded debt of the Association will be followed by 200,000 shares preferred stock (exclusive of 213,800 shares reserved for conversion of Bonds) and 200,000 common shares, both of no par value. The reproduction cost of the operating properties, as estimated by engineers, plus consolidated net current assets, including investment securities, after deducting all liabilities of subsidiary companies, except funded debt, and after deducting the proportion of assets applicable to minority common stocks, leaves an asset value of more than $94,900,000 applicable to a maximum of $47,571,500 of indebtedness of the Association and funded debt of its subsidiaries to be outstanding upon completion of this financing.

Earnings: The consolidated earnings of the Association on an annual basis, and of subsidiary companies, irrespective of dates of acquisition, for the twelve months ended March 31, 1930, and annual charges on securities outstanding at that date, including the proposed issue of Bonds, are as follows:

Gross Earnings and Other Income	$15,150,706

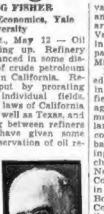
Oil Output Restriction Brings Rise in Stocks

By IRVING FISHER
Professor of Economics, Yale University

New Haven, Ct., May 12 — Oil stocks are looking up. Refinery gasoline has advanced in some districts, the price of crude petroleum has been raised in California, restriction of output by prorating agreements in individual fields, mandated by the laws of California and Oklahoma as well as Texas, and an understanding between refiners and producers, have given some semblance of conservation of oil resources to a situation that is basically unsound and wasteful. Indeed, the appearance of a few larger "gushers" in any one of many fields might upset the present arrangements. The securities underlying one of our greatest industries would be again in jeopardy. It is a feverishly competitive situation, in which oil producers and refiners have been draining oil from common pools, each working his own wells, night and day, 365 days a year, in a mad scramble to get his share, and more, of the common supply. Unregulated private ownership and operation are more detrimental to the public interest in this industry. This is true, especially, because oil wells have very low running expenses. Hence there is a tendency toward cutthroat competition. "It pays to drill wells, not to," Mr. Hadley once said of railways: for the fixed charges must be met whether a well runs or not, and any receipts over running expenses increase the profits of the operator. The public, however, is uninjured by the draining of the oil pools and the waste of an irreplaceable resource.



Irving Fisher

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP PROPOSED

Public ownership is one proposed solution to the problem. Another solution, which is being carried out, is that of restriction of output while retaining private ownership. Yet a third proposed solution is that of "integration" of the industry by ever-growing mergers.

Consolidation, public or private, there must be. That has been the history of all industries in which the necessity for large initial investment has been combined with small running expenses. In the cases of the railroads and public utilities, which presented the alternatives of cutthroat competition and of government ownership, or fixing of the price of transportation by public regulation, the latter solution has been adopted. In the case of the oil companies the gigantic network of pipe lines, amounting to one hundred thousand miles in this country, have been made common carriers under the Interstate Commerce Commission. Any individual who "strikes oil" on his own parcel of land is entitled to the use of an adjacent pipe line, just as he is entitled to the services of a railroad for carrying his freight.

A COMPETITIVE SITUATION

But there the analogy ceases. The great oil-producing and refining organizations have not yet been classified as public utilities. The industry is dominated by huge corporations watching their chance to destroy competitors, big or little. Some 37 out of 16,000 American oil companies today control about 80 per cent of the country's total output. Among these 37 companies, nine report about 75 per cent of the total net profits in the industry. These nine major companies account for about two-thirds of the annual surplus and reserves of the 37 units. Three years ago they produced only 55 out of every 100 barrels of refined petroleum in this country, while the domestic production in 1929 was more than one billion barrels. The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey alone accounts for one-fifth of total profits of the group of 37 companies, and 17 per cent of their aggregate reserves. Just now the validity of the proposed merger by another of the big nine, the Standard Oil Co. of New York, with the Vacuum Oil Co. is being contested in a friendly suit which the Department of Justice brought in the Missouri district.

Intricate agreements have effected a passionate petition of output in nearly every considerable oil field during the past year. The most important of these, widely in method and duration. Many of the larger refineries have agreed to conduct between Standard Oil of New York and the Royal Dutch Company, the greatest oil producer in the world: the Oil Conservation Board established by President Coolidge has encouraged similar boards established by the oil-producing states and with the cooperation of the Federal Government measure of control. Gradually production of crude and refined petroleum was brought into comparative balance with the increased demand for oil products. We as a consequence oil stocks rose again almost to their level before the panic, but have slumped off in market recessions.

OVER-SUPPLY A PROBLEM

But what if new and rich oil fields should be discovered? What if improved manufacturing processes, especially the "cracking" or the hydrogenation process, should develop a method of producing gasoline, as seems likely, up to 100 per cent of the supply of crude oil? What if field methods should further notably increase the proportion of oil brought forth from oil sands?

There is still a situation of oversupply, brought about by just such improvements as these. The research laboratories of the great companies are working on new processes of great promise. Two problems call for solution: (1) the comprehensive conservation of this country's resources, and (2) supply of the reasonable demands of consumers at reasonable prices. Neither cutthroat competition nor unrestricted monopoly can give the

The Oil stock price index at the end of April, 1930, had recovered 71 per cent of the losses between 1929-1930 high and low, to a point 8 per cent below the pre-panic high for week ended September 26, 1929.

RAIL EARNING FIGURES RISE

Notwithstanding unfavorable conditions in its territory last year, the Great Northern railway earned $10.27 a share in 1929, as compared with $10.11 in 1928, according to its annual report, made available to John Kenney, New England passenger agent.

The net profit in portions of the Northwest cut the amount of grain that was moved by 39 million bushels below the 1928 crop, contributed towards further curtailing the purchasing power of producers in Great Northern territory.

These losses in tonnage were offset to a large extent by an increase of more than four million tons in iron ore shipments and the payment of $1,358,090 for mail which was carried in the year's operations.

The decline in earnings during the first four months of the present year mainly reflects the condition which has prevailed throughout the country during the last three months, Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, commented in his statement to stockholders.

"There has been a recovery in some lines," Mr. Budd reported, "but agriculture remains in pursuit and it is still too early to predict the probable results of the coming season's activities."

The property of the railway, Mr. Budd described as being "in prime physical condition."

Stinson Aircraft Schedule Is Large

Wayne, Mich., May 12—Production schedule of Stinson Aircraft Corp. calls for output of 90 planes during May, against production of 120 planes during full year 1929, said President Mars. Unfilled orders May 1 totaled 76. During April 35 planes were delivered.

Ticker Talk

By WALL ST. SPECTATOR

Medium Priced Dividend Payers

One of the leading brokerage houses has prepared a list of some 50 stocks selling under $50, which are regarded as attractive buys at current market prices. Spectator has selected 25 of these stocks as offering more than average possibilities over an extended term. These include Adams Express, American Chicle, American International, American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, Associated Dry Goods, Atlantic Refining, Baldwin Locomotive, Bendix, Borg-Warner, Bucyrus-Erie convertible preferred, Commercial Credit, Cream of Wheat, General Motors, General Public Service, Gold Dust, Marshall Field, Mathieson Alkali, National Power & Light, Remington Rand, Richfield Oil, Ronzia Incorporate, Shattuck, Spalding, Standard Oil of New York and United Gas Improvement.

Loose-Wiles Biscuit

An interesting analysis of this company has been drawn up by one of the Street houses. It is there the belief is expressed that this stock is undervalued at the current price of 37. It is being purchased along with National Biscuit, this company has recorded a steady progress in sales expansion and net profits. Earnings for 1929 equalled $4.85 per share on the 500,000 shares outstanding, and it is reasonably estimated that from $5.50 to $6 per share could be shown this year. Depreciation charges are currently being deducted are at a rate less that of National Biscuit, and a reduction in such charges in the future will add a certain percentage to Loose-Wiles' net earnings. Annual dividend rate of $2.00 and extras provide an attractive yield for the stock.

Electric Auto Lite

The downward tendency of the motor stocks and motor accessory issues has carried this stock down to the point where important buying is said to be taking place. Electric Auto-Lite has increased its business with Ford for the present year well above that of last year, and in view of the prominence which this car has attained in the motor industry, it should have favorable reflection on Auto-Lite's income. Although first quarter earnings of $2.01 per share, the Ford business in the second quarter will probably permit this company to make a more improved showing in the present period.

RECOVERY SEEN FOR BUSINESS

Cleveland, May 12—Business recovery in the early autumn is forecast by Allard Smith, executive vice-president of the Union Trust Co., Cleveland, in welcoming the transportation division of the American Railway Association to this city.

The entire business organism, Smith said, depends for stimulus upon retail sales, which will not pick up substantially until people who have been unemployed for protracted periods obtain work and get back on their feet financially. In this respect, Smith saw many causes for optimism.

"Most of all, the coming of warm weather is now making possible the construction work in many construction and improvement projects which were outlined earlier in the year, but upon which little work has as yet actually been done. This will be the case not only with building of all sorts, industrial, institutional and residential, but particularly in respect to road building and highway improvement. There are indications that this type of construction will be very active in many states. Some of the government river and harbor projects are also getting under way. All of these activities should serve materially to take up the slack in employment.

"Thus, as payrolls begin to increase, we may expect a gradual but steady increase in volume of retail trade, beginning with staple articles and extending later to specialty and luxury lines. And as retail trade increases, we may look forward to a speeding up of industrial schedules, which will result in increased traffic. But I do not think this upturn may be expected immediately. We must allow a certain length of time for those people who have been out of employment for some weeks, or months, to get back on their feet.

Campaign on to Bring Europa Here

New York to Europe Trip Cut Full Day by Boston Train Service

"Bring he Bremen and the Europa to Boston!"

This is the keynote of a campaign launched by Mayor Curley and other port boosters to convince the North German Lloyd line that direct sailings to Boston will save money and benefit the port.

At a testimonial luncheon given by the mayor to Pres. Philip Heinekin at the Ritz-Carlton on Saturday, the city head and Frank S. Davis of the maritime association pointed out the fact which the president agreed to report to his directors.

These facts are:

By calling at Boston before landing at New York a full day can be saved. Boston's superior wharf-to-rail facilities, head on the entire coast, will enable the line to rush its New York passengers to that city, train service to New York now requiring only 4 hours, 45 minutes.

By using plane-to-shore connections from the constantly improving Boston airport, mail or passengers could be in St. Louis before the ship docked in New York by continuing the journey westward by air.

Boston could be reached from Europe in three days and some hours, regarded as a great advantage to executives who are rushed for time.

Fitting Up "Fitter"

We have our own private idea as to how "Fitter" Fitzgerald got his nickname. His brothers believe him and his sons all carry this traditional name. While growing up, "Fitter" doubtless had the fun (?) of fitting into some older brother's outgrown coat, shoes or socks. Ask any boy in a family of brothers.

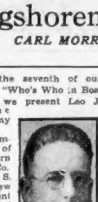
Longshoreman's Gazette

CARL MORRISON, Editor

Vol. 2 No. 10



Bachrach photo.
Leo Coughlin

Today, as the seventh of our daily series of "Who's Who in Boston Harbor," we present Leo J. Coughlin, the man of many jobs.

Leo is commercial agent of the Southern Steamship Co. Roosevelt S. S. Co. and is New England agent for a chain of tidewater terminals and warehouses located in New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk Buffalo.

This steamship man has three hobbies. The first is flower gardening, the second is golf and the third is booming the port of Boston.

Just now Leo is trying to form a steamship golfing league with summer tournaments. He is getting an encouraging response.

Leo gets to his readers not to get Leo going on his third hobby. He never misses an opportunity to boost the port.

Being green to the port, we incautiously asked Leo to submit some of his ideas on booming the waterfront.

"Gob" During War

From 1919 to 1924 this hustler was the operating manager of the U. S. Shipping Board in the N. E. district, and from 1924 until last year was traffic manager of Boston Tidewater Terminal, Inc., first commercial operators of the Army base.

Leo entered the war as a plain "gob" but emerged a chief petty officer, running through submarine areas with transports.

Before the recent European misunderstanding, Leo was with the Savannah line, the Boston & Albany, and the New Haven railroad.

Leo gets his amazing "pep" from his athletic training at Lynn English high school, where he outstarred on the baseball team, guarded on the football eleven, and relayed on the track team.

Have you guessed the secret yet? Well, here it is:

Leo has auburn hair! So has his charming little three-year-old girl, his "pal" in the garden.

Today's Safety Rule

Last year 20 men were so severely hurt by articles falling from improperly slung loads that they lost 5611 days. One man was killed. Those hurt lost about two and a half months per man. Rule No. 11 sets forth that hatchmen must not hoist or lower any load that is improperly slung.

Will Promote Races

Harrington Pike, head of the U. S. Sea Service Bureau, is considering promoting horse races on Grand Manan Island, once so popular under his early direction.

Widen Canal

All this came out in one breath:

"I believe that through efforts of the newly-created Port Authority, Maritime Association and other bodies, our present handicaps will be overcome and future prospects realized. We should be pleased with the whole-hearted co-operation of the Governor, the Mayor and our newspapers in booming the port.

"I feel that the Lawrence waterway development will help rather than injure Boston port.

I believe Cape Cod canal should be widened immediately and otherwise improved. I feel 100 per cent backing should be given to the proposal of Davis, pier facilities which Boston has for super-liners. Time is time between the two cities has cost us four hours and 45 minutes. Trains can run direct to some of Curley and Allen for South Boston grain elevator.

"I most strongly feel that immediate steps should be taken to develop the idea of boat trains between New York and Boston. Remember that New York undoubtedly has the wonderful our Boston piers.

"This is not a radical idea, for such boat trains are common in Europe. I feel the time is soon to come when one of the big passenger lines will have the courage and vision to try this out. I am sure the first line to do this will have a great advantage over its competitors. We are a whole day nearer Europe."

Leo paused for breath and we took the opportunity of inquiring about his past.

Hats Off to Lee

At the export conference of some 30 New England organizations at the Hotel Statler on May 14, a dramatized lecture on the business of exporting will be given. A mythical company will conduct export traffic. Arthur Lee, of the "Carter Underwear" firm of William Carter Co., will act as export manager, with a staff including Walter McKim, Guy Nason and Albert Hoole. The lecture firm started from "scratch" with no foreign exporting three years ago, now ranks well in the forefront in a sensational advance. Silber has made "Boston Garters" known in every locality, and Nason is a very able exporter with the Hood Rubber people. McKim does exporting going for the several noncompeting companies.

Only 46 Years Old

Members of the Boston party which escorted the North German Lloyd line president out to the harbor in the Waterhouse Saturday, all expressed wonder as to how in the city would buy a boat for such harbor needs. The Waterhouse is 46 years old, and not a bit like the ultra-modern vessels used in other ports for showing the harbor to distinguished visitors.

Today's Diary Entries

Here's another effort in the "Diary of a Modern Mariner":

"Dreamed I was at Sloppy Joe's in Havana. Woke up because Jimmy Powers made a big racket demanding more room to shift. Asked Tommy Hanlon once a clever 135-pounder with a skill-proof punch, to quiet the shifting dunnage person. Noticed Dick Shallow, the I. M. M. nipper, having behind luck at picking men from the crowd. Asked Andy Wittup, ex-Hub cop and a good scout, how Jack White was making out in flooring off. Martin Costello, who was once a famous amateur pugilist at Lynn he couldn't find enough men for a Sunday pickup job on the Cucaracha."

Ohio's Prison Holocaust Stirs U. S. Senate Action

But Most Important Bill of All Is Held Up

Ohio's prison holocaust that burned to death three hundred and twenty inmates of the Columbus Penitentiary has stirred the United States Senate to action.

Seven of the eight House bills to alleviate the desperate conditions in federal penitentiaries have finally passed the Senate and will promptly receive the approval of the President.

Enactment of this legislation will provide for a wider and more effective use of probation. It will expedite action on parole cases. It will permit the establishment of road camps and prison industrial projects.

But the most important of all the eight House bills has been held up in the Senate. And unless it is passed before adjournment federal officials will find themselves unable to cope with the emergency due to the brutal overcrowding in federal penitentiaries.

This is the bill authorizing the construction west of the Mississippi of a reformatory to care for young first offenders, many of whom must now be herded with hardened criminals.

This bill also provides for the construction of a new penitentiary in the thickly populated northeastern section of the country, to relieve the congestion and idleness and lack of training to which many federal prisoners from that part of the country are now doomed.

All the most reliable penologists agree that construction of additional institutions and not enlargements of existing ones is absolutely essential if the inmates are to be rehabilitated before they are released.

Attorney-General Mitchell has warned the Congress, in appealing for this legislation, that over 98 per cent of federal prisoners are ultimately released and returned to society.

That is why, aside from the Christian duty to treat even prisoners humanely, "THE PUBLIC INTEREST REQUIRES THAT THEY BE NOT ALLOWED TO DEGENERATE PHYSICALLY, MENTALLY AND MORALLY, BUT THAT THEY BE BUILT UP SO THAT WHEN RETURNED TO SOCIETY AS MANY AS POSSIBLE SHALL BECOME USEFUL CITIZENS."

A Grand Old Man

Sincere, Simple, Upright, Courageous—Von Hindenburg

PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG, OF THE GERMAN REPUBLIC, AT WORK ON HIS 82D BIRTHDAY

Here is a man to be honored for his courage in war, his loyalty in old age. He was the outstanding fighting figure in the German Army, although the war found him past seventy and retired.

Like Clemenceau, who fought so savagely and successfully against him, Von Hindenburg proved that age does not smother the fires of courage.

Clemenceau THOUGHT his way through the war, going himself to the front trenches, risking his life, SAVING HIS COUNTRY.

He is not only courageous and able, but something much more than that.

HE IS FAITHFUL TO THE TRUST OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE.

Those who felt that the Kaiser's old general would be THE KAISER'S MAN did not know Von Hindenburg or the German character.

Von Hindenburg, when he became President, took the oath to serve the Republic of Germany.

He has stood like a rock loyally, while the German people have gathered themselves together, healed the wounds of war and rebuilt amazingly their industries and prosperity in the face of the hard conditions of the Treaty of Versailles.

Germany will not forget this noble man, who in his persistent courage recalls to mind his splendid countryman, Baron Von Stein, a great figure in the history of Europe's war against Napoleon.

It Was Lighted

You Wonder Why

Recent electrical storms in the New York area had dire consequences, killing one man, extinguishing lights in various cities, setting fire to houses.

What will surprise many, however, is that a bolt of lightning put out the Statue of Liberty's torch.

So few of us had known, for the last ten years, that it was lighted.

Nice and Thin, BUT—

WHITE HOUSE
DO YOU TAKE THIS WOMAN FOR BETTER OR WORSE?- ESPECIALLY WORSE?
FOREIGN POLICY
LONDON NAVAL TREATY
I HAVENT BEEN INTRODUCED TO HER BEFORE!
GO ON SAM. DONT DELAY THE CEREMONY
DONT DO IT, SAM. YOU'LL BE SORRY!
STIMSON REPUBLICAN OPPOSITION
HOOVER

Here she is with her bouquet and everything. A fine, thin bride, possibly, just a little long in the tooth.

Somehow or other, old Uncle Sam, who has been attending to his own business as a bachelor and never was married to anybody in Europe before, seems a little backward. In fact, if Mr. Stimson stepped to one side Uncle would fall down.

Where is his manly vigor and where his admiration for the fair sex? What's the matter with him?

This is a perfectly good girl, guaranteed to be the mother of a large family. Perhaps that's the trouble.

Uncle Sam may be worried about that big family, seen in his mind's eye.

The oldest child would be Discord, the next Defense, the third War, and the fourth would be a set of Siamese twins named Europe-America.

However, it is too late to back out when you are right at the church door and the bride stands there blushing or something.

Old Uncle Sam will probably have to go through and "bumb his head on the altar rail."

His nephews can hope for the best.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

It is only found in a certain proportion of human beings (and, curiously enough, is stated to occur more often in men than women) but when present it is as Darwin wrote,

"a surviving symbol of the stirring times and dangers of his animal youth."

Again, the fleshy fold in the inner angle of our eyes seems to have no function whatsoever, but in most lower vertebrates, including many mammals, such as the cats, this fold is a veritable third eyelid, which can be rapidly swept across the eye from one side to the other.

H. G. Wells

As further proof of the simian relationship of man it may be noted that apes and monkeys, too, have their third eyelid reduced to a vestige.

Our wisdom-teeth are on the way to becoming vestigial. In most of us they only appear between the ages of 20 and 25. In quite a number of people, however, they are never cut at all, but remain useless or even the cause of disagreeable inflammation, within the gums.

Nor is any exception made by man to the animal practice of recapitulating the past of the race during individual development. We have the same family secrets in our embryonic cupboards as the rest of our mammalian relatives.

The gill-clefts, the tail and the furry coat with which our persons were once adorned have already been mentioned. We may add that the human tail is formed complete, with all the muscles for wagging it; later, as the tail itself fades into insignificance, the muscles degenerate or are turned to other uses.

The early human embryo has nostrils connected with the mouth by a deep groove on either side.

Sometimes, through a failure of development, this condition remains throughout life, and we call it hare-lip. It is a reminiscence of the way in which the nostrils were formed in our early fishlike ancestors, and you have only to look at a dogfish or a skate to see that they still show this construction.

Similar abnormalities of development sometimes allow the prenatal hair to persist, giving us the dog-faced men and hairy women of our fairs and shows; or the embryonic tail forgets to shrink and a baby is born with a little pink tail like a sucking pig's; or the closure of the gill-clefts is arrested and we have adult human beings with actual slits on the side of their neck, or with white patches of skin, marking the thin places where they closed just before birth.

Then there is the extraordinary capacity of the new-born human babe to support its own weight for several minutes at a time when hanging by the hands alone; indeed, in most cases the child can hang by either hand singly.

This capacity persists for a month or so after birth, but then normally fades away, and only after several years is the child capable of performing such a feat.

All monkeys and ape mothers travel through the branches with their babies. But as they need their own arms for traveling, the baby, even from birth, must have the capacity for holding on tight by its tiny hands to its mother's fur.

There can be no doubt that the presence of this power in human infants is a survival, now wholly useless, of what was once a matter of life and death.

It is interesting to find, as Mr. Kellen has demonstrated with his daughter, that if the baby be repeatedly stimulated by putting graspable objects into its hands, and tugging upwards when the little hands close around the object, capacity may be reawakened even after it has died out naturally, and may then be made to persist for many months.

The inborn, automatic nature of this power is shown by the fact that it was present in a child born without any forebrain (cerebrum), and persisted in full force until the defective infant died at 18 days of age.

Another recapitulation, which only fades after birth, is the greater prehensile capacity of the human baby's foot, and the fact that its big toe is much more widely separated from the rest than a grown man's.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR BAER

Doings in the Literary World

Theme song of the Literary Digest is:

"I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles."

It's all right to chase rainbows. But don't chase one off a diving board.

That magazine has repealed the Eighteenth Amendment at all newsstands.

Millions of votes have been cast for modification, repeal and enforcement. Which is carting coals way past Newcastle.

Pueblo, Pontiac, Saginaw, Atlanta, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, Paducah, Niles, Nashville, and other spots too important to mention, have all leaped forth on the side of modification or repeal.

Niles is the boyhood stopover of Ring Lardner. Paducah is where Irvin Cobb first saw the light of the Kentucky Power Corporation.

Nashville, a town whose vital statistics are responsible for Grantland Rice, joined the cities in their civic rebuttal and polled a big moderation majority.

That's the reason we left those towns. And the outlying districts are still to be heard from.

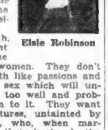
Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Can't Men Trust Women?

Why do nine out of ten men vow that "you can't trust a woman"? Aren't women trustworthy?

Sure they are, more or less. Just like other humans. But there is the rub. No man ever trusts a woman—as he thinks she should be. And the average man's ideal of a woman has about as much relationship to the real article as an aeroplane has to a wheelbarrow.



Elsie Robinson

To begin with, men don't want to think the truth about women. They don't want a sex with like passions and weaknesses—a sex which will understand them too well and probably beat them to it. They want idealistic creatures, untainted by mortal frailty, who, when married, will give their husbands the vicarious thrill of enjoying all the virtues which said husbands wouldn't dream of practicing themselves. In short, when it comes to Purity, Modesty and Reliability, John Henry expects the Dear Little Woman to do it for him. She is to be his "wish fulfillment" of all the righteousness he can't be bothered with himself.

And naturally, no normal female is going to deny these lovely allegations. Most of Us Girls think we're pretty nice, anyway, even without masculine confirmation. When it comes to putting these theoretical virtues into practice, that may be a different story.

But while we're just playing around, it's no great strain to live up to John Henry's rosy picture—and we'd be superhuman if we did not enjoy the role. So the romantic comedy of errors goes on.

As a matter of fact, any woman who felt or acted as men think she does and should, would be fit only for Ringling's, along with the human skeleton, the glass eater and the five-legged calf. But you can't expect women to admit that, and the men would certainly deny it with horrified shrieks. For John Henry is firmly convinced that woman are that way because he wants them to be that way. So, in this stubborn and delightful delusion, he marries one of them.

Then what happens? Plenty. For the lady proceeds to function like the normal human being which she is. She is a little lazy, somewhat unreasonable, fibs now and then, gossips a bit, throws a few tantrums, perhaps even flirts a little. In short, acts as human as her husband and refuses to live up longer to the tiresome role of Sugar Angel. Whereupon her indignant husband decides he has been cheated by a deceitful hussy and proceeds to indulge in an orgy of resentment and self pity.

But has she cheated him? Hasn't he, rather, cheated himself by his refusal to recognize reality, by substituting a pretty fantasy in its place?

Why should we expect any human to be better than we are ourselves? Or get mad at him if he isn't?

Cosmic Fact Finders in the Heavens

By PROF. ARCHIBALD HENDERSON, WORLD FAMOUS ASTRONOMER

The recently observed record of a "blotch of light" on a photographic plate, which demonstrated the existence of a long-suspected trans-Neptunian planet, forcibly brings to our attention the wonder of the telescope.

New discoveries of a less spectacular nature are constantly being made, which are duly recorded in the bulletins of the great astronomical observatories.

The difficulties under which the astronomer works are scarcely realized by the man in the street. The observer often has to stand for hours at a time through the long night with his eye glued to the eye piece of his instrument, which, by a mechanical arrangement, is in uniform motion following the movement through inter-stellar space of the celestial object observed.

Moreover, immense care has to be exercised in the case of the gill-clefts is arrested and we have adult human beings with actual slits on the side of their neck, or with white patches of skin, marking the thin places where they closed just before birth.

Then there is the extraordinary capacity of the new-born human babe to support its own weight for several minutes at a time when hanging by the hands alone; indeed, in most cases the child can hang by either hand singly.

This capacity persists for a month or so after birth, but then normally fades away, and only after several years is the child capable of performing such a feat.

The new 200-inch telescope now under construction, may show a distorted figure for an entire night through.

This difficulty will be in large measure overcome in the case of this huge new telescope by constructing the mirror out of fused silica or quartz, which expands or contracts very little with changes of temperature.

Great care has to be exercised in the location of one of these great fact-finders in order to secure the most desirable atmospheric condition. As you look up at the heavens at night you often notice the so-called "twinkling" of the stars. This phenomenon is due to the fact that masses of air of different temperature and density are passing between us and the star.

If we are looking at the star through a telescope these passing masses of air refract the light of the star by different amounts, and there is consequent quivering and blurring of the star's image. It is essential to locate the observatory where atmospheric conditions are very uniform without abrupt weather variations and where the average wind velocity is low.

Astronomy today is particularly concerning itself with a study of those extremely remote but fascinating objects, the spiral nebulæ. There is a regular series of forms, believed by Shapley and others to be genetic in character, including spiral, elliptical and globular nebulæ.

It is not known how many of these immense celestial configurations exist; but perhaps as many as a 2,000,000 are within reach of the 100-inch reflector on Mt. Wilson, and the great new telescope should bring into view several millions more.

The methods developed by Shapley for determining the luminosity of such huge bodies nas led to a determination of many other facts about them—notably their dimensions and distances away from us. Consider, for example, one of the most remarkable and impressive of such bodies yet studied, the Andromeda nebula. It has been estimated to be distant about 870,000 light years or in miles, five followed by 18 ciphers. Its dazzling brightness may be guessed at from the discovery that it is about a billion and a half times the light of the sun. In mass it is perhaps a billion times that of the sun.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, May 12—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out in the sparkling sunshine for a polka dot tie for myself and Meredith Nicholson, selecting patterns sedately befitting our august years. Breakfasted at a waffle parlor and returning to my chambers was nearly struck by a gigantic gold tooth falling from a dental sign.

In high spirits when a presser called with a $20 bill he found in an old surtout, but sad when he called later to announce it a mistake. So talked to Ernest Booth, who wrote "Stealing Through Life," also George Lengan of the Kansas City Star, and to say farewell to R. Long against going abroad.

With my wife in the evening to see the comic Bert Lahr, and his risque dolleries gave me a side stitch as they did Dudley Field Malone across the aisle. Afterward we put in at the Ritz-Carlton, in passing, and so great is the power of suggestion I itched all the night.

Talbot Mundy has evolved a plan of "getting away from it all" while in the throes of creating a novel. He engages passage on a slow boat from New York to Liverpool, making the round trip and returning with the completed manuscript.

Few writers write by rote, but there are exceptions. Irvin Cobb has an office, but does most of his writing at home of his friend, Will Hogg, on Park ave. He begins at 9 in the morning and quits promptly at 12:30. Octavus Roy Cohen writes from 9 until 1 p. m. and attends a movie every afternoon.

Rupert Hughes does most of his work after midnight, often putting the lid on the typewriter at sunup. His wife stays up with him and reads. Edna Ferber has a telephoneless hideaway near her apartment, and averages four hours a day, quitting at sundown to tramp around the gravel path of the park reservoir.

Kathleen Norris is an early riser and is usually at her desk on her California ranch by 7 o'clock. Meredith Nicholson has an office in a downtown building in Indianapolis and observes regular hours. Sinclair Lewis will work furiously for six months and loaf six months.

Romantic fiction featuring love interest between silent he-men of the West and New York's millionaire daughters would account for many cow-punchers losing jobs on dude ranches. The debutante likes to return to the city boasting of the handsome roper who fell for her charms.

As a result hundreds of rich young thrill seekers journey to the dude ranches to try out their wiles on the be-chapped and full-chested Adonises of the pampas. All of which is dandy fun for debbies, but is often rough on the punchers.

Dude ranch owners have an inviolable rule that hired hands must not be "made." The minute they begin to cast sheep-eyes toward the girls from the East, they find themselves looking for a job. They are instructed to be courteous, but never flirtatious.

Incidentally, dude ranching is becoming a fad of movie and stage celebrities. Gary Cooper operates countless rolling acres in Montana. Hope Williams has one of the retreats in Wyoming, and Julian Eltinge in California. Wynn is negotiating for one in Colorado.

A visitor shoots a scathing letter to the press about a Russian taxi driver who, upon being engaged for a three-hour haul, roamed about for three miles. He should be tolerant. The gypsy strain, you know.
